Drink, Credit, Gold.
Men Cling to Money.
What Does the Soul Do?
Get Yourself an Enemy.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 15.

CREDIT AND the value of money appear to be matters of public confidence, except when a nation goes entirely crazy or becomes financially crafty, as Germany did, and issues thousands of billions of worthless paper.

Gold experts who "know all about money" said President Roosevelt's financial policy was ruining United States credit. Then Uncle Sam said:

"I should like to borrow about a billion dollars."

And the people promptly offered him three billions at low interest rates. Fact outweighs theory.

CONSIDERING taxes on alcoholic drinks, it would be worth while to review opinions expressed by Thomas Jefferson, who knew the people of the United States and wrote their Declaration of Independence. He recommended an English brewer to the legislature of Virginia, urging that he be well treated, because good beer would conquer drunkenness.

He imported his own light wines from France, and urged lowest possible taxation on such wines, saying:

"No nation is drunken where wine is cheap, and none sober where the dearness of wine substitutes ardent spirits as the common beverage."

In London in the old days, when distilled spirits were new and high alcoholic taxes not invented, you read over gin shops such signs as:

"Here you get drunk for a penny."

A CURIOUS fact about gold and the thing we call money is related by B. C. Forbes.

With the government paying more than $34 an ounce for new native gold and European gold, plenty of gold offered by jewelers and others, for $27 an ounce, could not find buyers.

Mr. Forbes quotes a jeweler, with plenty of refined gold, 24-karat, made from old jewelry and virgin gold produced by miners, who wonders why government will play $34 an ounce for some gold and won't pay $27 for other identically similar gold.

Does anybody really know anything about money?

The President does, apparently, for up to now his experiments are working well.

ALBERT BATES, convicted of kidnaping Charles Urschel, of Oklahoma, is in prison for life, locked in solitary confinement, to stay there until he reveals the hiding place of $100,000 that he got as his share of the $200,000 Urschel kidnaping ransom.

Bates says no, he will keep his money, although he will never see it, stays in solitary confinement, and the world wonders.

IT NEED not wonder. Scores of "distinguished Americans," already possessing millions and not in legal confinement, work themselves into the grave, always adding "just a little more" to what they have, never freeing themselves from the slavery of money-making. And they never see or enjoy their wealth —accountants show them figures.

Men are not so foolish in England or France. There financial independence means mental and physical freedom. Here, once the harness is put on, only death takes it off.

UNIVERSAL SERVICE issues this interesting story: Theodore Krause and Byron De Fee, automobile mechanics, were found "dead" of carbon monoxide poisoning from the exhaust of a motor omnibus in which they were taking a "little nap."

Formerly the two men would have been dead to stay dead, but Doctors Connor and Barwasser of the Chicago Mercy Hospital knew the latest scientific remedy.

They injected a solution of methylene blue and aniline dye into the "dead" men's blood vessels. Mysteriously, that methylene blue fights the carbon monoxide poisoning. Both men came back to life.

After being "dead" for quite a long time, Krause, alive again, and asked how it felt to die said:

"I didn't feel nothing."

He had a headache. De Fee said:

"Me neither, as I came too, darned if I didn't think it was the Coast Guard working on me."

Answer this interesting question:

What does the soul do when the body is technically dead? How long does it wait around to make sure there isn't some recent scientific discovery that will bring it back?

When the heart stops, and the body "dies" does the soul start on its long journey, and then come back, in case of sudden recovery, or does it wait a definite time before leaving to make sure?

Non-believers in immortality say, "There is no soul." When the body dies what you call the soul dies with it. If the body returns to life, the soul lives on. It's like the power that keeps an automobile going. When the automobile is junked the power is junked.

But those gentlemen don't know.

COL. SHUTTS, of Miami, editor and newspaper owner, making a speech on success, said this, worth remembering:

"One very important ingredient of success is a good, wideawake, persistent, tireless enemy.

DOLAN AND 2 OTHERS GUILTY

One Woman Convicted, Breaks Down And Weeps

Thomas Dolan, aide of State Senator James J. Coyne, and two others were found guilty in the sixth vote fraud case in a verdict read in Federal Court today.

Convicted with Dolan were Mrs. Alice Daschbach, wife of a city detective, and William Connolly.

LENIENCY URGED

All were officers of the election board of the Eighth District, Fourth Ward. The jury recommended extreme mercy for Mrs. Daschbach.

The trial began Tuesday, went to the jury at 3:20 yesterday. The verdict was reached at 10:40 last night.

Today's convictions boosted the total to 14 in the vote cheat cases growing out of the government's investigation of the 1932 Congressional election.

Mrs. Daschbach broke down and wept as the verdict was read. Surrounded by her husband and friends she was led from the courtroom. Miss McCarthy, while freed, also wept.

SUICIDE BULLET CAUSES BLAST

MONONGAHELA, Pa., Dec. 15.—The bullet Edward R. Law sent through his temple today caused a gas explosion that demolished part of the Law home here and resulted in his death in Monongahela Hospital, shortly after noon today, according to police.

Law, a Pennsylvania Railroad conductor, was dragged from his bed, unconscious and burned, by volunteer firemen as flames spread throughout the house. A fireman, Rupert Dilkes, was burned about the face and hands in the rescue.

Firemen later reported that Law turned on a gas jet, waited until the room was filled with fumes and then shot himself, the flash of the cartridge igniting the gas.

Efforts were being made to notify Law's wife, who is visiting relatives in Philadelphia, and his 13-year-old daughter, who is attending a private school in Pittsburgh, police said.

Wynekoop Faces Arrest After Crash

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Earl Wynekoop, recently released in the operating room slaying of his wife, Rheta, was ordered arrested today on a charge of reckless driving.

The warrant was sworn to by the father of Frank McGovern, 9, alleged to have been injured Wednesday when struck by an automobile driven by Wynekoop.

O. O. McIntyre's Mother-in-Law Dies

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Kate Gatewood Small, 79, mother of Mrs. O. O. McIntyre, wife of the newspaper columnist, died in a hospital yesterday after a two-months illness.

She was the widow of Capt. Charles H. Small, Ohio River steamboat captain. Burial will be in Gallipolis, O.

MRS. IRENE A. RYAN

Mt. Lebanon Man, Seeking Divorce, Assails Mate

A well-dressed mother and her two daughters in divorce court today heard themselves described as beneficiaries of 90 per cent of the bootleg profits made by the husband and father, Clarence E. Ryan, formerly of Mt. Lebanon.

Ryan is suing for divorce on the grounds of cruelty. The wife, Mrs. Irene A. Ryan, 1190 Cedar boulevard, Mt. Lebanon, is contesting the suit.

In her answer Mrs. Ryan averred her husband was a big time bootlegger and made their home a rendezvous of bootleggers, gangsters and women of ill repute.

Under cross-examination by Attorney Louis Little, Ryan on the witness stand admitted being a bootlegger, but added:

"My wife and children got 90 cents of every dollar of profit I made in a business way."

He gave his wife $350 a month, Ryan testified.

Ryan told Judge Elder W. Marshall his wife drank to excess, was abusive and on one occasion turned the hose on showgirls when they came to his home for his automobile which he had promised them for a trip to Franklin.

Another time when he went to Miami for his health, he related, his wife and daughters, Patsy and Evelyn, came down, but his wife wouldn't do any work. She told him, he said:

TAX REVISION PROGRAM OFFERED

Morgenthau's Plan Aimed at Plugging Loopholes

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Declaring the administration's intention to plug "any loopholes" but hamper business as little as possible, Acting Secretary Morganthau today recommended drastic revision of the income tax laws before the House Ways and Means Committee.

The Treasury head, appearing for the first time before a Congressional committee, in that capacity, withheld his recommendation of specific income tax rates. The budget must be completed, he indicated, before the rate is named.

At the same time, however, he approved the principle of the committee's plan. The House group suggested that instead of the present 4 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income and 8 per cent on the balance there be a single 4 per cent rate.

INCREASED SURTAXES

Increased surtaxes would be levied on large incomes.

Reading only the high spots of his suggestions, before turning over the exposition of details to Prof. Roswell Magill, Treasury tax expert, Morgenthau made no estimate of how much the govern-

OIL MAN'S DEATH LAID TO GANG

International News Service.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 15.—Bandits who have terrorized gasoline filling stations in Venango and adjoining counties for several weeks, today were sought as the suspected slayers of Clark N. Witherup, 52, Kennerdell oil operator.

Sheriff E. M. Voorhies announced he was confident an arrest would be made within 48 hours.

Belief that Witherup was the victim of a "ride" was strengthened today when an autopsy report revealed the victim's head apparently had been the target of a close-range blast from a sawed-off shotgun.

Another angle of the investigation involved two girls, one known as "Blodie" and "Red," with no identification advanced for the second. They accompanied two men who entered Witherup's oil lease shack Saturday night and offered the death victim an apparenttly doped drink.

The man disappeared Saturday night with the quartet. His body was found, wrapped in a blanket, almost 20 miles from his oil shack. His head had been perforated with slugs from a shotgun.

Stolen Frat Trophies Discarded in Alley

A thief, who evidently found his loot not to his liking, or a prankster, was blamed today for the disappearance of nearly a score of silver and bronze loving cups from the Sigma Kappa fraternity house at 258 North Dithridge street. The cups, police said, were valued at $150.

Early today the trophies, representing achievement in track and basketball, were found discarded in an alleyway in the rear of the house. The fraternity is connected with the University of Pittsburgh.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—With Russell W. Thaw, 22-year-old son of Harry K. Thaw, as her pilot, Mrs. E. A. Guggenheim, daughter-in-law of Murry Guggenheim, the copper magnate, left here in her speed plane today for Buenos Aires on a flight that might result in an Atlantic crossing.

Mrs. Guggenheim plans a leisurely four-month tour of South America, but intimated the venture might end on the other side of the ocean.

Her plane recently was rebuilt to permit a non-stop flight of 2,000 miles.

The first stop will be at Nogales, Ariz., for clearance papers into Mexico. Another stop is scheduled for Mexico, D. F.

STEEL MEN GO TO POLLS IN DEFIANCE OF NRA; POLICE GUARD MILLS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson announced today that he had in no way relaxed his determination to prosecute Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the board of the National Steel Company, as a violator of the code for the steel industry. He said:

"I am going right on ahead with the plans I told Weir of in a telegram last night. I am going to confer with legal experts later today and may file charges later."

Johnson said that in a telephone conversation with Weir last night he did express regret that he had not been able to persuade Weir not to go on with his defiance of the National Labor Board.

Union Men Ignore Ballot

By DAVID H. ROSENTHAL
Staff Correspondent.

WEIRTON, W. Va., Dec. 15.—Ballots dropping into boxes in the mills of the Weirton Steel Company today served as the opening shot in a supreme test between the federal government and the steel industry.

Employes of the Weirton Steel Company went to the polls to elect representatives in collective bargaining under rules set up in defiance of the NRA'S National Labor Board.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, last night personally warned E. T. Weir, chairman of Weirton Steel, that if the ballots were cast, he would request the Attorney General to proceed against the steel man immediately.

ACTION NOT DISCLOSED

Just what that action will be remained to be determined. It might be criminal prosecution; or less severe court proceedings might be resorted to in order to compel the company to submit to the National Labor Board's plan for holding the election.

Weir dismissed the threat of prosecution with:

"If the National Labor Board thinks we have violated any law or broken any contract, let it proceed in the courts."

The mills were quiet. The men were content to cast their votes or remain away from the polls, according to their choice, and leave the struggle in the hands of the government and company representatives.

A Department of Justice agent arrived at the Clarksburg plant and was shown the election procedure. Company officials said he apparently was there only as an observer.

All night in a drizzle of rain state police stood guard at the mill gates here and at Clarksburg. They were West Virginia troopers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—All the punitive forces of the Recovery Administration were being mustered for use today against Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the board of the National Steel Company, for permitting a company-dominated election of workers' representatives to be held in plants of the subsidiary Weirton Steel Company.

Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson was expected to confer again with President Roosevelt, and it is believed he will ask the President personally to cite Weir and the parent company as violators of the code for the steel industry.

Under the present plans, either Johnson or the President probably will ask the Attorney General for

NON-TAXED RUM BUYER JAILED

The first man arrested here accused of violation of the federal revenue laws applying to post-prohibition liquor sales, was in County Jail today, and another was under bond awaiting hearing.

Louis Clegg, 508 First street, Oakmont, was sentenced to 10 days in jail by Alderman B. L. Gunsallus, of Oakmont, yesterday, when he was arrested by Patrolman John Couch, accused of buying liquor on which no tax had man Gunsallus.

Acting on an affidavit by Clegg that he purchased the whisky from Frank Cosnotti, of Cedar way, Oakmont police arrested Cosnotti late yesterday at his home and charged him with sale of liquor without a license. He was given a preliminary hearing and placed under bond for a hearing next Wednesday night by Alderman Gunsollus.

'Bone Dry' Candidate For Presidency Dies

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Seabon Wright, 76, one-time candidate for President on the Prohibition ticket, and father of Georgia's "bone-dry" prohibition law, died last night.

1934 License Tags Now Legal on Autos

Wishart Gets 'Permit' To Preach Again

The Rev. Dr. W. I. Wishart, 70, who suddenly resigned two years ago as pastor of the Eighth United Presbyterian Church, Perrysville avenue and Burgess street, has been granted "permission" to preach again.

The permission was granted by action of the Presbytery Tuesday, it was admitted today by the Rev. Dr. O. H. Milligan, clerk. No explanation was available as to why "permission" to resume preaching was needed. Dr. Milligan said the retired minister was not planning to occupy a local pulpit.

It was understood that Dr. Wishart now resides in the South. At the time of his resignation in 1931, ill health was reported to be the basis of the action.

200 Troopers Ordered To Hunt Boy's Lost Dog

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—New Jersey's 200 uniformed state troopers have been ordered by Gov. A. Harry Moore to look "here, there and everywhere" for an 11-year-old Jersey City boy's "best pal"—a brown mongrel dog named Rex.

"I lost my best pal, my best companion, whom I love so dearly."

That is what Adolph Gioia, Jr., wrote the Governor, begging for some executive action, adding:

"The dog's a sort of a mixed breed, half German police and half chow dog."

No time was wasted. Immediately the Governor got in touch with the Superintendent of State Police, Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, and within a few minutes more than a hundred police stations had instructions to be on the lookout for Adolph's pal.

Then the Governor wrote Adolph that he had a cocker spaniel and that:

"It is great to have a dog who is always faithful, who is happy when you are happy, and who doesn't care what others say about you, so long as you belong to him and he belongs to you.

"Tonight, when you are sleeping, these fine state troopers will be searching here, there and everywhere for that fine little dog of yours, and I do hope they find him, so that he may share with you in what I hope will be a very Merry Christmas."

EUROPEAN NATIONS SCALE DOWN 'TOKEN' DEBT PAYMENTS

100 MILLIONS SHORT ON CASH DUE U. S.

Finland Again Lone Country to Pay Full Installment

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Europe's pay day to the United States today found this country once again the loser by more than a hundred million dollars on the amount due from the debtor nations on their December 15 payments.

Only $8,888,123 was received on the $152,952,637 due. This represented approximately 5 per cent on the amount due and was more than three million dollars less than this government received from the debtor nations on the previous pay day, last June 15. At that time, the United States also was the loser by more than a hundred million dollars in the amount due.

When the defaults and unpaid balances of last June and December are added to the amount on which the debtors failed to make payments today, this country stands as the loser by approximately three hundred million dollars on the grand total due.

FINLAND PAYS IN FULL

Finland once again was the only nation to meet its obligation in full, paying $229,623 and making no complaint.

France, Belgium, Poland, Estonia, Hungary and Austria again defaulted, while Great Britain, Italy, Czechoslovakia and Latavia made small "token" payments to avoid the stigma of default. Discussions were still under way with Lithuania concerning an offer of $10,000 on $105,474 due.

The latest clash with the debtor nations was marked by indirect notice from Belgium that it did not intend to pay any more money to this government until Germany resumed reparations payments.

This pay day also was marked by a tendency on the part of the token-paying nations to scale down their payments to a mere drop-in-the-bucket level while at the same time evidencing a distinct "take it or leave it" attitude.

LATAVIA BALKS

This was particularly noticeable in the case of Latvia, which offered $8,500 on $180,706 due. Acting Secretary of State Phillips notified the Latvian representative that President Roosevelt considered this amount insufficient, to which Latvia quickly replied it would make no larger payment and this government finally agreed to "receive" the $8,500.

Czechoslovakia also reduced its partial payment and refused to increase it at Phillips' suggestion. It offered $150,000 on $1,640,726. Phillips suggested $180,000. The Czechs refused and the $150,000 was accepted.

President Roosevelt was described as disappointed at the action of the debtors but helpless to do anything about it.

In the note to Italy, which paid one million dollars on $2,133,906 the largest percentage payment received from any of the debtors, Phillips reiterated that acceptance of these token payments did not mean this government was conceded any reduction or revision of existing debt payment schedules.

France Defaults For Third Time

PARIS, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—For the third time France defaulted today on her war debt to the United States and turned back to the distracting task of trying to fill an almost empty treasury.

Due on December 15 was an interest payment of $22,200,925 on the remaining war debt of $3,863,650,000. Also due today was an installment of $6,093,759.44 under the terms of the 1931 Hoover moratorium.

Neither will be paid, and France stands today more than eighty million dollars in arrears of sums owing to the United States.

There was no official announcement of the default. There were no speeches in Parliament, no demonstrations in the streets of Paris—merely a note to be presented in Washington.

Even the press, which on previous occasions hailed default in black type, was largely silent. The Paris Soir was the only paper to comment at any length. It said:

"Americans don't realize it, but debts are dead."

It added:

AID PROMISED ON MORTGAGES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt today approved a plan for loans by the Reconstruction Corporation to relieve holders of defaulted guaranteed mortgages.

The President approved extending small loans in cases of actual distress after a conference with Jesse Jones, chairman of the RFC, and George Van Schaick, New York state superintendent of insurance. Jones said:

"We can work out something providing loans in the needy cases."

Jones estimated that perhaps fifty million dollars would be involved in the relief effort. He estimated that loans up to about 25 per cent of the value of the mortgage certificates would be allowed.

He arranged for a conference later today at the RFC to work out details of the plan.

CHAIR TO KILL 9 ON SAME DAY

International News Service.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 15.—Shuffling into eternity, eight men and one woman must walk the "last mile" together in a death parade to the grim embrace of the Kilby Prison electric chair in early February as the State of Alabama exacts the ancient law of a life for a life.

Convicted murderers, the nine doomed, all Negroes, are scheduled to meet death in a mass execution unequaled in Alabama's history and unparalleled in the nation in recent years.

The State Supreme Court today had affirmed their death sentences and set February 9 as the execution date.

No Error Found In Vote Recount

Judges Ambrose B. Reid and W. Heber Dithrich have handed down an order setting forth that no substantial error was found in a recount of the ballots cast in the First District of the First Ward, North Braddock, at the general election. The $50 posted for the recount is therefore forfeited.

A similar order was made in the First and Third Districts of North Fayette Township.

DOLAN GUILTY IN VOTE CASE

MAN CAUSES STIR

A shabbily-dressed man caused a stir in the courtroom after the verdict was read by announcing:

"I am John Doe."

A fifth defendant, whose identity was never disclosed, had been indicted under the name of John Doe.

United States Attorney H. S. Dumbauld, sitting nearby, took the man in custody and turned him over to First Assistant James I. Marsh. The latter released the stranger after questioning him. He apparently was mentally unbalanced, Marsh stated.

More than 50 government witnesses testified they voted straight Democratic ballots. According to the testimony only 18 straight Democratic ballots were found in the ballot box. A handwriting expert for the government testified he found phantom marks on some ballots and others he said has crossmarks for candidates made by two different persons.

DENIAL BY DOLAN

Dolan denied having forged the name of M. M. Spandau to the return sheets, and the other defendants said a fifth person served on the board under that name as a clerk. Dolan testified that when he opened the polling place in the fire engine house in Neville street, a man representing himself as Spandau and as a voter in the district, asked to be placed on the board. He said that after finding the name on the registration list, he swore him in as a clerk to serve under Mrs. Daschbach, minority inspector. He described the man as being about 32 years old, five feet, seven inches tall and weighing about 160 pounds. The latter was indicted under the name of John Doe, but never apprehended.

SPANDAU ON STAND

During the trial Spandau, who formerly resided in the same apartment as Dolan on Bayard street, testified he had not served on the board, or voted there although he resided in the district 10 months, prior to February, 1932. Dolan on the witness stand said he was not the man.

Mrs. Daschbach said she had served on the election board for 11 years. When asked why she did not appoint her own clerk she said it was hard to get persons in that district to serve.

The retrial of the first case in which a jury disagreed after being out 30 hours will open Monday, Special Prosecutor Earl F. Reed and First Assistant United States Attorney Marsh announced.

The case involves the election board of the Ninth District, Third Ward.

FREE YULE FUND IN CLOSED BANK

Christmas savings depositors in the closed West End Savings Bank and Trust Company today were offered the opportunity to collect their money before Christmas.

A depositors' committee preparing for reopening of the bank notified depositors that while the reorganization plan originally provided for payment of Christmas savings in full upon the opening of the new bank, the plans have been changed. The notice said depositors may receive their accounts in full on or after tomorrow.

The announcement said 90 per cent of the stockholders have approved the reorganization plan, and waivers and consents aggregating more than $2,221,765.03 have been received from depositors, or approximately 80 per cent of deposits. The only part of the plan remaining to be completed, it said, is the sale of about $60,000 in stock of the new bank for cash.

WALLACE GIVES NEW WARNING ON INFLATION

Sees Farm Conditions Improved in Report To Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A reiterated warning that currency inflation is "not a cure-all" for farmers' troubles was issued by Secretary Wallace today in his annual report to President Roosevelt.

Inflation would raise general price levels, he said, but would not eliminate the disparity between prices of agricultural and non-agricultural products, which he termed essential to permanent farm relief.

Of the administration's gold purchase plan he said:

"It may not have any great effect for some time on livestock and dairy prices. Eventually, however, most of our raw material prices should rise to the extent to which the gold in the dollar is reduced."

URGES GRAIN CURB

Wallace recommended regulation of grain exchanges and separation of savings from commercial banks in order to strengthen country banks.

He blamed the rise in farm prices from last March to July on inordinate speculation in the commodity markets and told the President "it is imperative for the government to supervise, and if necessary to regulate, grain speculation, because such supervision is the only means of preventing abuses."

Balancing production with demand was the keynote of Wallace's report. He predicted a permanent program of crop control in line with needs of the domestic market.

The adjustment act, he said, "is a program for economic planning—the first of its kind in the nation's history."

"It contemplates the organization of producers for action which they cannot take individually, but which is necessary to substitute order for chaos in the agricultural industry," he continued, adding that it had improved farm conditions in the last six months.

CITES PRICE GAIN

Farmers will have been paid before the end of the year approximately 300 million dollars in direct benefit payments in return for agreeing to reduce crop and livestock production in 1934, the report continued.

The entire adjustment program was said to be admittedly a temporary plan, since it had the disadvantages of taking out of production both efficient and inefficient areas.

Farm mortgage indebtedness in 1932 was estimated by Wallace at 86 million dollars and carrying charges on this, he said, would take about 13 per cent of the gross farm income. He said the farm credit administration had made progress in alleviating that situation.

The probable gross farm income for 1933 was estimated at 61 hundred million dollars, plus three hundred million dollars in benefit payments.

TAX REVISION DEMANDED BY MORGENTHAU

Favors Lower Levy On Earned Incomes

Aides indicated, however, the Treasury felt the return would be nearer one hundred million dollars than the committee's estimate of 270 million dollars.

In his comparatively brief reading, before taking a seat in the audience at the House office building, Morgenthau revealed the Treasury had started a survey of the whole relation of federal and state taxation.

HIGH SPOTS

High spots in Morgenthau's recommendations included:

Joint returns by a husband and wife, estimated to bring in 40 million dollars of additional revenue and discourage "innumerable colorable transactions."

A single normal tax rate with surtaxes adjusted accordingly but with personal exemption and credits for dependents allowed only on the normal tax.

Elimination of depreciation and depletion reductions.

Retention of the capital gains tax with some deduction for capital losses, but with capital losses deductible only from capital gains and not from income. A net loss could be carried forward for deduction one year.

Complete redrafting of the exchanges and reorganization provisions.

Continuation of the credit allowed American taxpayers on foreign tax payments.

Deduction of partnership losses as long as partners must report all partnership income.

CITES MITCHELL CASE

In presenting his recommendation that separate returns be filed by husband and wife, Morgenthau referred directly to the case of Charles E. Mitchell, New York banker, saying:

"The present law encourages sales by one spouse directly to the other. In the most notorious recent case the jury acquitted the husband from a criminal charge in such a situation. The income taxes which the husband sought to avoid in this manner amounted to over one million dollars."

He agreed with the committee plan of fixing a single normal income tax rate and adjusting surtaxes accordingly, but pointed out the committee rates for this change would put the heaviest burden on taxpayers with incomes from $15,000 to $20,000.

MAGILL PROPOSAL

Taking up where his chief left off, Magill suggested beginning the proposed new surtax rate at $6,500 instead of $4,000 as the sub-committee recommended.

He contended the sub-committee's surtaxes, which lower existing brackets and increase the rate to offset the proposed reduction in normal tax through the single rate of 4 per cent, would give the wealthy man the advantage.

He said persons with net incomes from $15,000 to $20,000 would be hit hardest under the proposed schedule—a 23 17-100 per cent increase—but after that the increases would go down.

As Magill discussed rates, Representative Crowther (Rep.), of New York, objected, asking if the Ways and Means Committee was going to have anything to do or if the "Treasury is going to write the whole bill."

This drew a hot retort from Representative Lewis (Dem.), of Missouri, who observed the Treasury had made a thorough study of the problem and was well qualified to speak wisely.

man is like the rhinoceros bird to the rhinoceros. When the enemy comes the rhinoceros bird tells about it. When a successful man is making mistakes the enemy immediately calls attention and warns the man.

Friends praise you, pointing out good things that you do. You know all about that. Your enemies attack you, point out your mistakes. Get yourself a first-class enemy, cultivate him as an enemy, and when you achieve success, thank him."

TWENTY-TWO members of Italy's Senate yesterday swore "allegiance to their country," but omitted from their oath the usual pledge of loyalty to King Victor Emmanuel, while Premier Mussolini looked on. The present king will probably not be disturbed, but many Italians believe that he will have no successor.

Italy may decide to do without a king, but gratitude to the royal house that has served Italy so faithfully will long survive among patriotic Italians.

BANKS LAUNCH 50-CENT CHARGE

Pittsburgh district banks not members of the Pittsburgh Clearing House Association will charge 50 cents a month for service on checking accounts with an average balance of less than $100.

This action is mandatory under the NRA bankers' code adopted by Group Eight of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association and becomes effective throughout 14 counties in Western Pennsylvania "on or before" January 1, 1934.

Announcement of the new charge was made today by a group of North Side bankers meeting in the Dollar Savings and Trust branch of the Peoples Pittsburgh Trust Company.

It was pointed out that member banks of Group Eight were permitted under the code to make a 50-cent service charge, although Clearing House members must charge $1 for the same service.

A number of banks in the Pittsburgh district have been assessing a 50-cent charge on accounts with a balance of less than $50.

N. J. FIRM LOW IN GARBAGE BID

An estimated saving of $25,200 for disposal of garbage on the North Side in 1934 appeared probable today when bids were opened by St. Clair Cooper, chief clerk in the Department of Public Health.

The Spiniello Construction Company, Inc., of Orange, N. J., was the low bidder, offering the city a flat contract of $5.85 a ton on both garbage and rubbage.

This was 42 cents a ton cheaper for garbage and 73 cents a ton cheaper for rubbage than the bid of the Allegheny Garbage Company, present holder of the contract.

The American Reduction Company was the only bidder for disposal of garbage and rubbage for the rest of the city. Its bid was $6.58 a ton for garbage and $6.80 a ton for rubbage, the same as for 1933.

Johnson Retirement Denied in Capital

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Published reports that Gen. Hugh S. Johnson would retire from his post as recovery administrator and accept a new post in the administration met with wide denial here today.

Gen. Johnson himself laconically dismissed the report by saying "There is nothing to it," and at the White House it was stated that nothing was known of any impending change in Johnson's status.

GREECE GRANTS EXTENSION TO INSULL

Ex-Utilities Magnate Gets Until Jan. 31 To Leave

ATHENS, Dec. 15. — (AP.)—Samuel Insull today was granted an extension to January 31 in the length of time he will be allowed to remain in Greece and he told the Associated Press:

"I am going to bed and will stay there."

The shock of notification that he must leave Greece by January 31, which the former Chicago utilities magnate had not expected, apparently seriously unnerved him. He appeared haggard and worn.

Previously, in refusing to renew the former American utilities operator's police residence permit, the government announced he would be forced to leave the country January 1.

His present permit expires December 31.

Mr. Insull requested and was granted the extension today after the Minister of the Interior had informed him that he would be expected to leave by the first of the year.

At the same time, today, he was informed that his passport will be visaed to any country he chooses to visit after leaving Greece. However, as he has no passoprt Mr. Insull will be required to travel on temporary papers.

The aged fugitive, wanted in Chicago to face embezzlement charges, made formal application for the extension of the permit yesterday.

Within a few hours the Premier himself announced the decision.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—In whatever direction Samuel Insull crosses the Greek border he will enter a nation with which the United States has an extradition treaty.

State Department officials were silent today except to say that so far as Greece was concerned the department was out of the Insull case.

JOHNSON URGES PROSECUTION

a criminal indictment against Weir, citing all his actions since a strike was called at the Weirton plants several months ago as evidence of deliberate evasion of the labor provisions of the NRA.

TEST OF LAW LOOMS

Filing of such charges against Weir undoubtedly would result in a constitutionality test of the Recovery Act.

Under the act, Weir would be liable, upon conviction, to fines of $500 for each day the court found him in violation of the steel code, and 30 days' imprisonment for each such day.

Johnson's decision to enter on a showdown fight with Weir and his companies, which represent the third largest unit of the steel industry, followed vain attempts yesterday to communicate with the steel magnate by telephone. Johnson then sent a telegram, which said:

"This is to advise you that in my opinion you are about to commit a deliberate violation of federal laws and that, if you do so, I shall request the Attorney General to proceed against you immediately. In the meantime I shall at once call an open hearing to determine whether your Blue Eagle should be withdrawn and whether you should be henceforth denied the privileges of the steel code."

AGENTS AT PLANTS

Attorney General Cummings yesterday announced that Department of Justice agents had been sent to Weirton, W. Va., to observe the manner in which the company sponsored the proposed elections today under regulations imposed by a company union hastily organized last June when the company learned it eventually would come under a code for the steel industry.

The Attorney General had been asked earlier in the day to make such an investigation and then seek an injunction restraining the company from interfering with the National Labor Board's plans for a fair election of workers' representatives.

Stock Exchange Plans To Reveal Secrets

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The New York Stock Exchange is going to tell the public more about itself.

In what brokers described as the most radical step enacted in many years, the law committee of the exchange approved yesterday an extensive publicity and advertising program designed to inform the public of the many phases of the stock exchange's operations.

This program will embrace a more liberal attitude toward pre representatives, increased use of direct mail advertising, the lecture platform, motion pictures and the publicity media.

Although not yet included, it is understood that officials have under consideration the use of paid newspaper advertising of the institutional type which is now used by banks and clearing houses.

The Herald Tribune says that, with congressional regulation considered a certainty by the brokers, the plan is not designed to swerve public opinion immediately. Rather, it is said the exchange proposes a long-run change in policy for the protection of its business, threatened, brokers say, by a confusion between financial malpractices and legitimate trading.

Women Should Run U.S., London Editor Says

We, the people, should hamstring Congress for a year and let President Roosevelt run the country, R. D. Blumenfeld, editor of the London Daily Express, visiting the United States, said today at the Hotel Schenley.

The next best thing, in the opinion of the American-born editor of one of England's leading newspapers, is to turn it over to the women of the nation. He said:

"Women are more intelligent than men. They do the best reading, and consequently the best thinking. They've quit rocking the cradle in this modern age. Now they more frequently rock City Hall."

If the NRA fails, Blumenfeld said, "it will be awful." He added:

"The success or failure of the Roosevelt administration will have a basic influence on the history of the world. If it fails, well, it will mightily affect Europe as well as the United States."

The English editor spoke to the Allegheny County League of Women Voters on "Behind the Scenes in Political Europe" at its regular session today.

KING ZOG GETS 'DOPE' ON U. S. DEBS IN HUNT FOR QUEEN

NEW YORK BUDS ALL AGOG OVER ROYAL QUEST

Monarch's Envoy Eyes Many 'Prospects' for Albanian Throne

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—What may be the first chapter in a modern Graustark romance will close tomorrow with the sailing of Catin-Pascal Seraci, of Albania, on the Ile de France.

Seraci, counsellor to Zog, king of the Albanians, is returning to his country after a secret mission in the United States which may result in an American queen of the Albanias!

The suave counsellor, himself a bachelor, has been reported looking over the matrimonial market with a weather eye for queenly material for 36-year-old Zog, whose subjects feel it is time he married.

He is said to have photographs and biographies of America's prettiest debutantes in his diplomatic baggage.

EXPECTS TO RETURN

Seraci himself lent weight to the report today by refusing to deny his purpose in coming to the United States was romantic and adding that he expected to return in another month or two. He protested:

"I am not here officially. I am not supposed to be giving the interviews. I shall be back again soon, after I have visited in my country."

That means—according to intimates of the diplomat—that Seraci has gathered material he thinks worth while discussing with Zog. And Park avenue is all agog about what the material is!

For Seraci set up the most stringent regulations of birth and breeding for his potential Queen of the Albanias, it is said. She had to come from an aristocratic family, with a lengthy, known pedigree, something less commonplace in this country than the flowers that bloom in the spring. She had to be beautiful, needless to say, and educated, and sweet-tempered.

Who can she be? Whose requirements are being considered?

MEETS MANY DEBS

The buds to whom Seraci was presented, and there were many during his month's stay, did not know until the close of his stay that the "economic" mission on which he declared he had come had the romantic slant, so whatever impression they made was spontaneous. Which, the best bride-picking agencies tell us, is as it should be, for successful selection.

Zog, a wealthy king, is not insistent that his queen bring a fortune to the throne. Indeed, there are several Albanian damsels said to fill the bill of particulars, but their numbers are against them. In Albanian society, marriage of the king to one family creates jealousy among the families who were "runners-up."

Seraci himself has been very popular. He is tall and brunet, with meticulous manners. He is a Roman Catholic, while his ruler is Mohammedan. But, he has assured friends, Zog does not keep a harem. He said:

"Perhaps, when I come back, I can talk with you."

Now if that doesn't sound promising, what does?

SCIENTIST HELD IN KIDNAP CONSPIRACY

Show Magnate's Son Intended Prey; Real Name Kept Secret

SEATTLE, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Detective Capt. Luke S. May said today a plot to kidnap John von Herbert, 16-year-old son of a Seattle theater magnate, was conceived by a "brilliant scientist deranged by years of lonely research," who wanted fifty thousand dollars.

The scientist, he said, is "J. B. Logan, a well-known man using an alias," who was arrested with "Ed Brown" by Sheriff W. E. Faulkner, of Snohomish County, before the alleged kidnap plan could be carried out. May declined to disclose the real names of the two.

May, a criminologist and scientist, said "Logan's" cabin contained a fine scientific library.

May explained:

"Logan has a towering intellect which has been undermined by years of solitary toil—writing a monumental scientific work I believe him to be a case of brain fag—a brilliant mind overburdened to the breaking point.

"He has worked for 13 years alone among his books and papers, writing a treatise on the atomic composition of the ether which permeates empty space.

"At one time he held responsible positions on eastern newspapers. He said his decision to kidnap young von Herbert came after his mind was upset by the recent San Jose kidnaping and lynching."

Prosecutor Robert M. Burgunder, King County, said the most serious charge he could bring against the two arrested men would be conspiracy to kidnap. That is a misdemeanor punishable by $1,000 fine or a year in jail.

Burgunder said he had asked State Representative W. G. Magnuson, who has a death-penalty-kidnap bill for submission in the state legislature at Olympia, to include in it a clause making it a felony to agree or conspire to kidnap anyone, to make possible a penalty of 10 years imprisonment and a $5,000 fine, even though the actual kidnaping is never accomplished.

GARY COOPER, SOCIETY GIRL MARRY

Rites Held in Home Of Bride's Mother In New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Gary Cooper, of the movies, and Sandra Shaw, society girl who made her debut in the films last year, were married today at the Park avenue home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Paul Shields.

A bit of a surprise marked the wedding. They had announced that it would take place at the Waldorf-Astoria. Instead they went to the Park avenue apartment for the ceremony, apparently seeking to avoid a crush of admirers.

The bride wore a gray crepe ensemble and carried white orchids. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. George A. Trowbridge.

The couple was to leave immediately for a wedding trip to Phoenix, Ariz., after which they will go back to Hollywood.

The bride in real life is Veronica Balfe. She made her debut in society two years ago.

Cooper has appeared in more than 30 pictures in the last three years.

The pair will live at Gary's ranch house, a spacious place 20 minutes from Hollywood. Gary, a native of Montana, is fond of ranch life. He had the house "westernized" when he took it.

Cooper is 32, and his bride 20. They met on a motion picture lot she visited, while he was working on a picture.

WIDOW DENIES TORCH MURDER OF HUSBAND

Mrs. Hanson Firm in Testimony; Tells of Blazing Auto

ROCKFORD, Ill., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. May Hanson, testifying in her own defense, today denied she had any part in the torch murder of her estranged husband, a Rockford factory executive.

She returned a firm "I did not" to her attorney's question, "Did you kill your husband?"

The prosecution has charged that she drenched Hanson with gasoline and set fire to his clothing as he sat in his automobile after returning their daughter from a visit to him.

Mrs. Hanson told her version of Hanson's death in a clear, strong voice, without emotion.

On the night Hanson died, she said, she had been in the basement of her home sorting clothes for the next day's laundry, and hearing a door slaim on the floor above, went up to investigate. Through a window she saw a fire in the lane beside the house and ran to it. She found Hanson's car burning. She said:

"I thought June might be in it.

"I went up to the right side of the car. The flames burned my face and neck and dress."

'HUBBY' WORTH $100,000 WEDS

International News Service.

DETROIT, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Marian Mitchell, terpsichorine, today was the ever loving bride of Gary Leon, the football player who turned adagio dancer and whose affections are currently quoted at $100,000.

The wedding took place amid the strains of Lohengrin from a full symphony orchestra last night, on the stage of the Fox Theater here. An audience of 2,500 witnesses looked on.

The wedding seriously complicated matters for Mrs. Katherine Smythe, who, claiming to be the wife of Leon, has filed a $100,000 suit against Fay Webb Vallee, charging theft of the dancer's love.

Leon denies he ever was Mrs. Smythe's husband or that he ever loved the ex-wife of Crooner Rudy Vallee.

After the wedding the orchestra played "Let's Put Out the Lights and Go to Sleep."

It has been attended by light rain in the Middle Atlantic and Ohio Valley states and the southern lake region, while snow is falling in the Upper Mississippi Valley and upper lake region. Duluth, Minn., reports eight inches snow on the ground. High pressure overlies the Atlantic coast states (Boston, 30.56) and another high appears in the Canadian Northwest, with temperatures there considerably below zero. Pressure is low off the North Pacific coast (Seattle, Wash., 29.58) and inland to Wyoming.

TRIANGLE DEATH DRIVER NAMED

BEAVER, Pa., Dec. 15.—Robert T. Jackson, Beaver Falls, married and father of five children, was named as the "mystery driver" of the automobile and the target of bullets by James Milton Crawford, 51, railroad telegrapher of Conway.

Crawford is on trial for his life before Judge Frank E. Reader for the killing of his wife, Mrs. Hilda Marr Crawford, 37, who was fatally wounded by one of the bullets fired by Crawford at Jackson.

Jackson's claim is that he drove Mrs. Crawford home from a party at the home of Mrs. Hattie St. John, New Brighton, on the morning of October 25.

Crawford had returned home unexpectedly from his trick at Canton, O., and found his wife gone. He waited with the revolver. Jackson's connection with the affair was revealed when he was brought in as a material witness on a detainer from the District Attorney's office.

Crawford, a man of distinguished appearance, pleaded not guilty.

STRANGLED GIRL IDENTIFIED

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The body of the young woman who was strangled to death in bed with an electric light cord was identified yesterday as that of Mrs. John Criochock, of Shenandoah, Pa., but authorities disagreed on the motive for her slaying.

Police said they believed gangland's revenge was responsible for her death. Acting District Attorney Sylvester Ryan, of the Bronx, said he believed robbery was the motive.

Her husband identified the body at a morgue and said she was 30 years old. They were married at Hartford, Conn., in 1925, he said, and have a son.

Police said Mrs. Criochock, alias Marion Smith, was kept in jail 10 months to protect her from underworld retribution for testifying in a murder case. She was released December 2.

When her identity was established, two detectives were sent to Sing Sing to question George De Perno and Irving Leder against whom she gave evidence. A third member of the gang still is at liberty.

PEDDLER ADMITS TORCH KILLING

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A few minutes after the blazing body of a man had been found in a vacant lot police had a suspect in custody today and said he confessed to the slaying.

The victim was John A. Jobb, 53, building caretaker, and the man held as his slayer is Fred Markham, a bill peddler. Police said he confessed.

It was to 8-year-old Jackie Threlkeld, whose mother, Mrs. Threweld, identified Jobb's charred body, that police owed their clue that led to the quick solution of the mystery. Jackie told of a "terrible fight" in the building where he lives with his mother and where Markham also resides, and where Jobb was employed as janitor.

CADETS HONOR 10 PITT CO-EDS

With traditional ceremony, 10 University of Pittsburgh co-eds this afternoon were made honorary officers in the university's R. O. T. C. They were appointed by the men students holding the offices, and were approved by Dean Thyrsa W. Amos. Enice Natali was named honorary colonel.

SLED HITS AUTO, BOY KILLED

Raymond Wachter, 9, of 1133 Wayne avenue, McKees Rocks, was killed when his sled crashed into an automobile driven by William Egler, of 2214 Wilson avenue, North Side, near his home last night, according to the Coroner's report.

He was taken to the office of Dr. J. R. Davis, 1000 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks, and pronounced dead from internal injuries.

Norbert Curran, 10, of 5912 Center avenue, suffered cuts on the head and left arm last night when his sled collided with an automobile in Spahr street. He was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

Mrs. Josephine Gardner, 24, and her six-year-old daughter, Irene, of 6605 Deary street, were treated at Pittsburgh Hospital for slight injuries suffered when they fell on the ice near their home.

KIDNAP DEATH PENALTY VOTED

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Death or life imprisonment is the future penalty for kidnaping in West Virginia.

The House by unanimous vote gave final legislative approval to a kidnaping bill, already approved by the Senate, which also provides lesser penalties when abducted persons are returned unharmed.

An effort to eliminate the lesser penalties was voted down after sharp debate over whether giving a jury discretionary power to impose them would increase or lessen the possibility of lynching.

The measure fixes 20 years as the penalty where the kidnaped person is returned unharmed after ransom is paid. Where the kidnaped person is released unharmed without ransom, the penalty is ten years.

Former Legislator Dies at Northampton

NORTHAMPTON, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A former member of the State Legislature, Joseph C. Rupp, died yesterday in his 86th year.

He represented Lehigh County in the Legislature for one term in 1893-94. Prior to that he was recorder of deeds for Lehigh County. He is survived by his son, T. J. Rupp, justice of the peace here, at whose home he died.

REED AND BRIDE HONEYMOONING

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—James A. Reed and his bride, the former Mrs. Nell Quinlan Donnelly slipped out of Memphis today as quietly as they came into the city last night.

Reed and the woman he married Wednesday night at Kansas City left their hotel i na taxicab and transferred to their own automobile somewhere outside of the city. They would not reveal their destination and even the direction in which they headed was not known.

The 72-year-old former Senator from Missouri said he and his bride, owner of a Kansas City dress manufacturing business and once a victim of kidnapers, were trying to avoid publicity, but before he left consented to an interview in which he criticized the Roosevelt program. He said:

"I think we are headed for a whole lot of trouble, piling up the national debt to a point where we will ultimately break down the national credit."

Wife's Grilling Saves Man 60 Days in Jail

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—After hearing Mrs. Doris Clark cross-examine her husband during his trial on a non-support charge, Judge Theodore Rosen sentenced him to 30 days in jail, instead of the usual 90, but ordered him to pay $50 of overdue funds within 24 hours. The judge declared:

School Girl Fears Test, Leaves Home

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Police of the missing persons bureau were asked today to search for Beverly Roberts, 17, daughter of Dr. Carl G. Roberts, prominent Chicago physician and former school girl, missing from home since May 13 and believed working in a New York restaurant.

Beverly ran away from home and left a note saying she was afraid she would fail in a pending school examination.

SEWER BLASTS ROCK CHICAGO

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—A series of terrific underground explosions rocked more than a square mile of this city, centering on the West Side, today, injuring at least three persons severely and causing considerable damage to property.

Severel great craters, 15 or more feet wide, reaching down to the sewers, were torn; windows were smashed, man-hole covers were hurled into the air, at least one fire was started and traffic was tangled.

A lighted candle, carried into a basement by William Stankiewicz brought the first blast. Immediately there followed a series of underground explosions.

Sidewalks buckled and cracked like glass. Showers of glass imperiled scores of persons and threw them into a state of terror.

New York Supplies Roosevelt Yule Tree

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The "honored" White House Christmas tree will be from President Roosevelt's native state of New York.

State Conservation Commissioner Lithgow Osborne today supervised the freighting to Washington of a 20-foot tree cut from the capitol district game refuge in Rensselaer County.

DENTIST DEATH LINKS ACTRESS

International News Service.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 15.—Believed to hold the key to the riddle of the "Sphinx murder case," a beautiful dark-eyed actress at the Pasadenda Community Playhouse was sought today for questioning when it was learned that Dr. Leonard Siever, slain Pasadena dentist, musician and socialite, had for a week before his murder attended five performances of a play in which she appeared.

The handsome Russian-born dentist, who was shot down in the pouring rain last Tuesday night under the stony gaze of the two great Sphinxes that guard the Scottish Rite Cathedral, went to several performances at the playhouse and went back stage on two occasions, it was discovered.

The play was the "Master Thief" and the music-loving dentist had an extraordinary interest in one of the players, according to Chief of Police Charles Kelley.

Twice, it was learned, he was seen in the "green room" backstage, where the players gather after the performance, talking to one of the actresses.

Shower Halts Mercury After Rise to Record

Mercury in Pittsburgh thermometers played hide and seek today, while Weather Bureau statisticians wore out pencils following its gyrations.

At noon the temperature broke all local records for December 15 when it climbed to 62, one degree higher than the previous mark and 55 higher than early last Tuesday morning, when it went down to 7.

The shower which began shortly after noon took the mercy down another degree by 1, and at 2 it had gone still further. It hovered at 60 at 3 o'clock.

Lowest temperatures for tonight, it was predicted, would be 50 or 51, accompanied by light rains which will turn to snow flurries tomorrow as a breath of the cold that is now gripping the Northwest comes in over the lakes.

Tomorrow will be cooler and it may be quite cold by Sunday morning unles the cold wave is blocked before its full strength gets to Pittsburgh.

Light rain which fell last night melted most of the snow that has made street traffic hazardous since Sunday when the heaviest snow fall of the season was recorded.

3 Pigs and Bad Wolf Crash Art Exhibit

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Those three pigs and that wolf looked down from the famous walls of the Art Institute of Chicago today, virtually recognized as art.

They were there as part of an exhibit of the works of Walt Disney, the movie cartoonist. One hundred of his originals, including sketches of Mickey Mouse, were displayed.

Director Robert B. Harshe saw a "high degree of poetic fantasy" in the pictures, along with "excellent draftsmanship." He decided:

"They constitute art in nearly every sense."

The movie animals bowed to the best Chicago society, a tea marking the reopening of the institute after a shutdown of a month and a half. A pianist on the balcony performed Beethoven, Brahms and "Who afraid, etc."

Sharing gallery space with the Disney pictures were works of Rockwell Kent, Eugene Berman and a group of young French painters; photographs by Arthur Upham Hope and illustrations by Boris Gregariev.

The cartoonist's display included water colors and black-and-white pictures, all originals from Disney's movies.

5,305 AWAITING TEST FOR JOBS IN RUM SHOPS

Tomorrow will be "school day" for 5,305 applicants for jobs in Allegheny County's 21 state liquor stores. As they sharpened pencils in preparation for the tests, word came from Harrisburg that the Liquor Control Board has created a new competitive post, carrying with it the title of director of purchases and a salary of $8,600.

At the same time it was learned that two liquor warehouse sites, in Pittsburgh and Erie, had been selected by the board. Announcement of addresses is being withheld until after conferences with the successful bidders.

'SMART PEOPLE'

There is at least one applicant for a liquor store job who is convinced that the stores will be operated by smart people. He was rejected for "insufficient education," although he has had six years' accounting experience, received bachelor of arts and bachelor of laws degrees at the University of Michigan and is employed in a lawyer's office here.

Four hundred Pittsburgh high school teachers will supervise the competitive examinations tomorrow in the following five school buildings: Schenley, Peabody, Taylor Allderdice, Fifth Avenue and South High. The examinations will start at 8:30 a. m.

NUMBERS USED

Applicants will be admitted and known only by number cards mailed to them from Harrisburg. They will also be finger-printed.

State police will guard the doors of the examination rooms. They also will bring the examination papers under seal from Harrisburg tonight. The papers will be handed to the applicants tomorrow morning by the high school teachers. The seal will be broken by the applicant himself, and his completed examination paper will be sealed by him when he turns it in.

That's all there is to it, except for those applying for typist positions. They must bring their own typewriters, according to Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of schools, who is in charge of the examinations.

The 23,000 applicants for liquor store positions who were rejected will have another opportunity to try for jobs next June, the Liquor Control Board announced.

Make Survey Here On Harmful Liquor

Dr. W. W. McFarland, city health director, said today he was making a survey to determine if "harmful blends" of liquor are being sold in Pittsburgh. His action follows that of officials in New York and other cities.

No reports of serious harm from the new blended liquor have been received at his office, he said, but a check will be made by the Bureau of Food Inspection under direction of Lester Pacton to avert a harmful flood of liquor here.

Michigan Adopts State Rum Stores

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The state senate this morning approved Michigan's liquor control bill, a conference committee compromise which previously had been passed by the house.

The measure provides for a three-member liquor control commission. Liquor will be sold through state stores and through hotels and other public places.

Irish Whisky Quota Increased in Deal

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Michael MacWhite, minister from the Irish Free State, told newsmen today after a conference at the State Department that Ireland has secured an increased liquor quota from the United States in return for concessions on American agricultural products.

Persian War Head Held in Rebel Plot

MOSCOW, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The Soviet Telegraph Agency today said in a dispatch from Teheran, capital of Persia, that Jafar Quli Khan Assad, minister of war of Persia, and three members of the National Assembly were arrested for plotting against the government.

$8,600 Rum Job Waits Test for Man Over Forty

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—There's a job open for a man over 40 with the State Liquor Control Board and it pays $8,600 a year.

It is that of Director of Purchases and a special competitive examination to select the man for the post has been set for Saturday, December 23, at Harrisburg. Applications must be filed by noon of the previous Thursday.

In addition to being over 40, candidates must have had at least seven years' experience prior to prohibition in the wholesale purchase of liquor; at least 15 years of general business experience; at least two years' experience as executive head of a merchandising business concern; residence in Pennsylvania for the last three years and must be a qualified voter.

Almost 23,000 applications for other liquor control board positions were rejected yesterday. The applicants were notified that the next examinations will be held in June, 1934.

Tomorrow morning, a total of 35,000 applicants for the posts will take examinations in 36 cities and towns.

APPEALS COURT DROPS RUM CASE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Criminal cases arising under the Volstead act and left pending in Far Western states when the Eighteenth amendment was repealed were invalidated yesterday by a decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals here.

The opinion was handed down on a motion in behalf of James Green, of Pocatello, Idaho, who appealed the case on the fact that the constitutional amendment supporting the Volstead act had been repealed.

Arizona Ex-Governor Hurt in Fall, Dies

In 1908 Mr. Sloan was instrumental in obtaining adoption by the Republican national convention, to which he was a delegate, of the Arizona statehood plank.

Three Children Burned to Death

WRANGELL, Alaska, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Imprisoned in their blazing home, three children of Tony Hernandez, a Mexican, burned to death here Thursday while their parents were away from the house. The dead were Juanita, 4; Julia, 2, and Tony, a baby.

Merlin, Producer, Marries Actress

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The marriage of Frank Merlin, theatrical producer, and Dorothy Brown, actress, at Elkton, Md., was announced yesterday at Merlin's office.

Merlin has been known on Broadway for more than 15 years as director, playwright and producer.

Denies Engagement To Phillips Holmes

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Grantland Rice, wife of the sports writer, denied last night that her daughter, Florence Rice, was engaged to marry Phillips Holmes, motion picture actor. Mrs. Rice said:

"That's perfectly ridiculous."

Firemen Watch Store But Find No Blaze

Firemen maintained watch at the F. & W. Grand store, 306 Fifth avenue, for more than one and one-half hours early today after they had been summoned there by a still alarm. The alarm was sounded by a passerby who said he saw smoke issuing from a basement window. Investigation failed to disclose a fire, but firemen remained as a precautionary measure.

Seek Knife Wielder For Street Attack

Police today sought the assailant of James Clark, 60, of Chatsworth street, victim of a knife attack at Oakland avenue, near Sennot street. He was taken to Montefiore Hospital. Police sought a man by the name of "Pat Scanlon," who they said Clark accused of the cutting.

"Hang up the baby's stocking
Be sure you don't forget
For the dear little dimpled darling
Has never seen Christmas yet..."

Just a week, then comes Christmas Eve. Dad, busily trimming the Christmas tree having the time of his life. It has been a tough year for dad yet the burst of affection that comes pouring down on him now compensates for his efforts. Grandpa looks on contentedly. Mother fondly hangs up baby's stocking. And Grandma sits thinking . . . remembering as other Christmas Eves pass in rapid succession before her eyes. It's Christmas Eve at home. Can mortal happiness surpass it!

Then Christmas Morning . . . and starry-eyed children staring at the shiny tree . . . breathlessly reaching for their stockings. The day of days begins. Christmas belongs to the home and the folks there. Times may be difficult and the road rough but while families everywhere can close the door behind them and hang up the baby's stocking nothing can hurt them very seriously. Will Christmas in your house cast a glow of happiness over the year to come? Prepare for it at Gimbels tomorrow in such a way that it may.

ROOSEVELT BIDS NAVY TO ENTER RUM SHIP WAR

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—President Roosevelt today ordered the United States Navy to aid the Coast Guard to prevent smuggling on the Pacific Coast.

This action was taken after owners of the British freighter Mogul, lying off the coast with a cargo of 40,000 cases of liquor, had petitioned the government to permit immediate entrance of the liquor into Los Angeles harbor, saying they would agree to cease selling to smugglers for six months if their request was granted.

This cool offer was regarded by the President as impudent, and as a challenge to the authority of the United States government and he forthwith ordered the Navy to join the Coast Guard in stamping out smuggling activities off the West Coast.

The "impudent" offer was transmitted to the government by the Siegfried Olsen Shipping Company, of San Francisco, and was addressed to Dr. James H. Doran, who has just resigned as Commissioner of Industrial Alcohol to become associated with the distillers' institute.

The letter concluded by saying that J. H. Maloney, of the California Industrial Alcohol Bureau, "agrees with us" that the proposal offered the best solution for smuggling on the West Coast.

Herbert E. Gaston, special assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury, said the vessel Mogul had been acting as a mother-ship to 10 fast rum-runners plying to the coast.

The ship has laid off the Southern California coast, "feeding" rum-runners and on occasion selling direct over the side to anyone who came out to buy. These over-the-side sales recently have been discontinued because the owners were "stuck" with counterfeit money.

Phila. Strike Holds Fruit and Produce

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Hundreds of carloads of fruit and produce remained tied up on railroad sidings today as a result of a truck drivers' strike, which union officials said they had not authorized.

Railroad officials said cold weather has prevented the merchandise from spoiling.

Chiang Foes Predict North China Revolt

HONG KONG, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Newspapers in Kwangsi, a South China province, today attacked Chiang Kai Shek, Nationalist government leader, and published reports of an impending widespread revolt in North China.

Supreme Court Rule on Dry Cases Speeded

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The government today sought an early decision by the Supreme Court on a case to shape federal policy in handling prohibition litigation.

Solicitor General James C. Biggs asked the court to review on January 15 a case from North Carolina, in which two men were discharged on the ground the Eighteenth Amendment had been repealed.

The decision was delivered by Judge Johnson Hayes in the Middle District of North Carolina. The defendants were charged with conspiracy to violate and with actual violation of the national prohibition law.

Judge Hayes took the position that repeal of a statute pending a prosecution for an offense which it creates stopped all prosecution and deprived the courts of authority to impose sentence, even though the defendants were convicted.

The Solicitor General explained:

"There are thousands of cases pending in which indictments have been returned, and other thousands of alleged offenses in which indictments could probably be obtained charging acts which at the time committed constituted violations of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"If the North Carolina decision stands it will have the effect of quashing all indictments now pending or on trial under the National Prohibition Act and result in the discharge of all those against whom such offenses are alleged."

TRUCK CRASHES HOME, 1 HURT

GREENVILLE, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A truck failed to make a turn today, skidding down ice-coated tangent road into the residence of Sophia K. Zundel, smashing furniture and the partition through the floor to the cellar.

The front of the house was demolished.

The truck is owned by William H. Williamson, of 1705 East street, Pittsburgh.

BOYCOTT URGED TO CUT PRICE OF WHISKY

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—A boycott on liquor until prices are slashed was proposed today by Representative John J. O'Connor (Dem.), of New York, militant wet, as he continued his campaign against the alleged "whisky trust."

Meantime there were indications of a further letting down of the bars on foreign liquor which may have its effect on the price situation in the next few months.

O'Connor's charge of a "whisky trust" which has carried its lobby into Washington aroused members of the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means committees as preparations were made to write a tax measure.

TRUST CHARGE MADE

A trust charge by New York liquor dealers was sent to the Federal Alcohol Control Administration by Representative Crowther (Rep.) of New York, member of the Ways and Means Committee.

Representative O'Connor declared:

"I would suggest a boycott on liquor until the prices are reduced. There is no justification for present prices.

"The distillers will take from the American people five hundred thousand dollars above a fair profit in six months if the present system is continued. I am opposed to strict federal control of the liquor business and am against price fixing. The public can cure the situation."

The Federal Alcohol Control Administration, it was disclosed, had provided an extra liquor quota of two million seven hundred thousand gallons of whisky for importation from Canada. The liquor is to be used in American distilleries for blending purposes.

RELIEF FOR 'DROUGHT'

This special quota, in addition to the general five and a half million gallons foreign quota, may relieve the "drought" throughout the country, officials said.

Investigation of O'Connor's charges of lobbying in Washington and control of distilleries may be undertaken by the Ways and Means Committee in writing a liquor bill.

Under present plans, the committee will draft its tax measure in time for presentation soon afer Congress meets. Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, Democratic House leader, said it would be brought promptly to the floor.

Wide division of opinion still existed over the rate of liquor taxation, with the result that the Ways and Means Committee is expected to seek aid from President Roosevelt in fixing the tax.

Labels to Show Rum Ingredients Proposed in N.Y.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Father Knickerbocker sought the help of state and nation today in enforcing a plan that would require explicit labels on whisky bottles.

Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, city health commissioner, invited several officials to confer with him Monday on the plan.

They included Joseph H. Choate, Jr., federal liquor "czar" and Chairman Edward P. Mulrooney, head of the state alcoholic beverage control board. Also invited was Dr. James M. Doran, now heal of the National Distillers Institute.

Dr. Wynne disclosed he had received hundreds of messages commending the proposal to require that labels tell the exact ingredients of bottles.

The board of health, after receiving reports on samples of liquor sold in various parts of the city, considered an amendment to the sanitary code requiring distillers to specify on their labels the ingredients that go into every bottle of whisky sold here. The amendment was referred to the board's counsel to be put into legal form, and will be voted on next Tuesday.

Dr. Wynne issued a warning to the public yesterday not to buy liquor labeled "whisky blend" or "whisky compound."

He said:

"This is not whisky in the true sense of the word, and in many instances may be found to contain industrial alcohol."

His warning followed an earlier announcement that the Board of Health was prepared to place an embargo on liquors found harmful in any degree.

Chemists were set to work analyzing samples picked at random from liquor stores in the city. Dr. Wynne said that a certain type of whisky labeled "for medicinal purposes" and bought for $1.90 a pint was found to be the worst of all the whiskies examined.

He said that one of the cheapest whiskies purchased was found to be the best.

CWA Fires Workers On Ohio Projects

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Dec. 15.—Maj. J. C. Runk, of Columbus, field representative of the National Re-Employment Service, today discharged 100 workers on the CWA stadium project at Patterson field because their names had not been certified by the Columbiana County Bureau.

The Board of Education ousted seven foremen, and named Albert E. Froesch as chief engineer of the project. Left on the work, for which $73,335 has been alloted, were 125 men.

LAW MAY JAIL BOOTLEG USERS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Senator Couzens proposes to make the purchaser of bootleg liquor equally guilty with the seller.

The Michigan Senator said today that when the Senate Finance Committee, of which he is a member, takes up the liquor tax bill he will suggest an amendment to penalize the purchaser of illegal beverages. He said:

"There is considerable difference between patronizing a bootlegger under prohibition and patronizing a bootlegger when there is plenty of legal liquor."

Members of two committees, Senate Finance and House Ways and Means, already were at odds over whether the federal government should collect all the liquor tax and return part of it to the states.

Rum Prescriptions To Cost Five Dollars

GEORGETOWN, Ky., Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Drinkers beware! Whisky prescriptions will cost $5 here.

The Scott County Medical Society meeting here last night voted to raise the price of prescriptions and to make the boost effective immediately.

Gunmen Hijack Truck of Yeast

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Four gunmen who hijacked a truck near La Grange abandoned it when they discovered it contained, not wet goods, but yeast—$8,500 worth in all.

Warns Son, 9, Against Liquor, Ends Her Life

BECKLEY, W. Va., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Leaving a note warning her 9-year-old son against drinking liquor, Mrs. Lola Mabe, 29, killed herself last night.

GIRL LEADS PAIR IN HOLDUP

MIDLAND, Ark., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Two men and a young woman robbed the Midland State Bank this morning, obtained an undetermined amount of money and kidnaped Cashier C. M. Finn, whom they released three miles north of here.

Officers believed the bandits were father and son. The young woman was a well dressed blonde.

Cashier Finn said he was alone in the bank when the trio entered.

GUINAN'S GIFTS FROM ROYALTY TO BE SOLD

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Gifts and purchases from royalty; sparkling tributes from presidents, statesmen and the "suckers" who admired her are in the collection of Texas Guinan's jewelry which is doomed to the auctioneer's hammer next week.

For the taking price, you may own the diamond neckchain which Texas bought from Queen Marie. The chain gleams with the lights of 204 diamonds and the pendant is not to be overlooked with its setting of 162 diamonds.

If you don't care for that, take a look at the diamond-studded gold vanity case that Czar Nicholas presented to Lillian Russell complete with the royal Russian coat of arms. Tex bought that, too.

A nice little ornament to wear to dinner is a three-karat diamond dinner ring augmented with a pair of four-karat dazzlers which are described by John Stein, who used to be Tex's business manager, as "a Christmas present from her employes." That does not mean Tex's famous little girls. It means waiters and business partners.

There is also an enamel miniature clock inscribed "The Only Texas," a gift from some notable.

A little campaign token is represented by a nine-karat diamond ring set in platinum which Stein says was a gift from a candidate for whom Tex campaigned.

Another impressive gift was a black and green enamel vanity case studded with diamonds. It is engraved, "Listen, Miss Tex—E." "E." says Stein, stands for Edward, the rest of his name is Windsor, none other than the Prince of Wales.

U. S.-Financed Home Under Way in Ohio

CLEVELAND, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The suburb of Euclid is celebrating today the first actual work on a housing project under the PWA.

Ground was broken on a site for a residence to be built with a federal loan for P. J. Cook, now living in Cleveland Heights. The official start was made by the Euclid Housing Corporation, organized to carry through a $2,000,000 program.

Undertaker Says Christmas Ruins His Business

IRON RIVER, Mich., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The mortician's business is going to be dull for the next several weeks, says William J. Johns, local undertaker, who cites figures to support his theory that the holiday spirit is so powerful it keeps people from dying.

In the last six years, Johns said, he has had but one professional call within a day of Christmas. After Christmas the mortality rate is high.

MERCY DEATH TAKES BABY

TORONTO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Nine months of suffering was ended today with the death of a Toronto baby whose mother had appealed to doctors to end its life.

Victim of hydrocephalus which caused its head to grow to three times normal size, the infant became unconscious early this week. Pressure on the brain paralyzed all the vital centers.

Dr. Luke Testey, surgeon, said it was "fortunate the parents are sensible about it; that the mother is bearing up well after the terrific and utterly unnecessary strain placed upon her by inhumane, cruel law." He added:

"Perhaps now the senseless superstition which seems to control government action in such conditions and cases will be overcome and the authorities will realize the needless agony and suffering which have been caused a baby who did nothing wrong and two parents who loved it."

Newfoundland Bill Wins Commons Fight

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—The bill enabling the British government to take over the government of Newfoundland to save it financially passed its second reading in the House of Commons today in a lengthy sesion prolonged by heated debate.

Laborite members of the opposition obstructed passage of the bill throughout the night.

Boy, 5, Comes to U. S. Alone From China

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Chow Wee Wing, 5, en route alone from China to New York where his parents have a restaurant, welcomed strangers who met him at a railroad depot by pulling their coat tails and grabbing their legs. He speaks no English.

CHILD LABOR DRIVE PUSHED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The child labor amendment, which was submitted by Congress to the states in 1924, today reached the halfway mark toward ratification with approval by Minnesota, eighteenth state.

Only six states had ratified prior to 1933, but with the impetus of unemployment among adults, NRA codes, and active support of Secretary Perkins, of the Labor Department, the amendment took on a new life which brought a dozen ratifications since January 1—and the year still has 17 days to go.

Tax Rise Avoided By Westmoreland

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 15.—Despite the fact that Westmoreland County will suffer a large deficit this year and will be compelled to borrow to operate from January until May, the County Commissioners have decided there will be no increase in the county millage.

The deficit will be $250,000, but this has been taken care of by the sale of $300,000 worth of bonds.

23.95 MADE BY LANE CEDAR CHESTS

"Hope chest" may be passe as a phrase, but it's still very much in vogue as an article, and the wise young man knows that nothing will please his sweetheart so much as one of these fine cedar chests for her linens, bedding and so on. Wives and Mothers like them too, of course, particularly these which are such smart looking pieces of furniture. Each with an insurance policy to doubly protect the owner from damage by moths. Several styles at this price. Made of walnut veneer.

CHAIR AND OTTOMAN

Will Keep Your Man Home Nights!

FIVE SMART TAPESTRY COVERS

You may exert a few charms yourself, but, personally, we think this will do the trick. It is so deep and comfortable that once down in it no one ever wants to leave. And when he puts his feet up on the Ottoman— well, you'll probably even have to tend the furnace yourself. Yet it's not the kind of a chair that looks out of place in a lady's drawing room. The covers are of exceptionally fine grades of tapestry (better than we've seen before at this price), the lines of the chair are good, the cushion reversible, and the Ottoman has a spring top and is shaped to fit the chair. All in all, we can't think of a better Christmas gift for man or woman.

WEATHER LAWS EXPLAINED BY BROTZMAN

Don't blame the weather man if the skies pour rain when the forecast predicted sunshine, United States Weather Forecaster W. S. Brotzman advised members of the Federal Business Association.

It isn't a controllable action when pressure areas change their courses or fail to move at all and that's when the forecaster loses, Brotzman said at the quarterly luncheon yesterday in the Roosevelt Hotel. Long range predictions are as yet impossible and past records of the various seasons do not assist in predicting future seasons, he added.

Brotzman gave an illustrated talk on how forecasts are made. The hottest day on record in the United States was in 1933 when the thermometer reached 134 degrees in Death Valley, he said. Trees are fair indicators of the past weather conditions, he added, since the trunk shows a ring for each year and by their variations the growing conditions are recorded.

W. VA. TEACHERS PLEDGED PAY

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Confidence that needy school teachers will receive their salary checks before Christmas was expressed today by Gov. Kump.

His statement followed a meeting of the Board of Public Works, at which steps were taken toward borrowing one million dollars from banks in the state for payment of the teachers' salaries for the third month of the school year.

Definite plans for borrowing the money are expected to be worked out in a day or two, officials said, and added that if the plan falls through another will be devised.

TRAVELING MEN PICK OFFICERS

H. W. Neely has been elected president of the Tri-State Commercial Travelers' Association, which is considering plans for an NRA code applying to traveling salesmen.

Other officers elected by the association include W. Frank Barnard and W. H. Wells, vice presidents; L. W. Seemen, secretary; Fred C. Storz, treasurer, and W. A. Jones, sergeant-at-arms.

The board of directors consists of Joseph Steinberg, Robert K. McQuiston, Clarence D. Kurtz, F. B. Nichols and M. B. Cohen.

Night High Pupils Give Play Tonight

The Drama League of Gladstone Junior High Evening School will present "The Antics of Andrew," in Greenfield School Auditorium tonight. The play, a three-act comedy, will be under direction of Mrs. Betty Rolf.

BUCHER FIRED, CWA PROBER DECLARES

A. W. Motley, state employment director, announced the definite dismissal of Harold F. Bucher, local Civil Works employment head, late this morning. Motley said he was informed of the dismissal through a telephone call from Gov. Pinchot's office.

Motley will direct the bureau until a permanent supervisor is named, he said, and will retain Bucher's advisory council and clerical force. According to Motley, the office is at present "on top of all orders," but the system will be changed so that large groups of workers may be assigned speedily.

SPEED NEEDED

Speed and efficiency will be needed, he said, to provide men for work on the many projects to be started in Pittsburgh next week.

The permanent director of the bureau has not been named, Motley said, but added that he may know Bucher's successor when he returns Sunday night from Harrisburg. The director, he said, will be chosen by Miss Charlotte Carr, Secretary of Labor, and by the Governor's office.

Discounting political motives in the firing of Bucher, he said:

"I'm here to run an employment service, and to keep the CWA running smoothly— politics has nothing to do with the office."

TOOL PURCHASES

Simplifying the procedure of getting tools and materials for CWA jobs, James L. Stuart, County Administrator, has set up a purchasing department in connection with his office. The department will use the $200,000 recently loaned the city by the state CWA.

By this method Stuart says he will eliminate the red tape connected with city purchases.

Approvals received from the State Administrator by Stuart yesterday numbered 15. They included the following:

Improving school buildings and grounds, Pittsburgh, 97; building repairs, Glenfield, 7; surveying Memorial Park, Scott Township, 38; clerical work in Welfare Department, Pittsburgh, 5; population study at Mayview, 9; plans for home for tuberculosis insane, 2; improvement of Stoops Ferry and Shousetown road, 253; shelter houses in South Park, 212; dam site, North Park, 33; county survey work, 22; county clerical work, 39; construction of walk in Liberty Tubes, 28; laboratory and office work in Carnegie Museum, 19.

Employment for 676 jobless in Allegheny County will be given in CWA projects approved yesterday by Eric H. Biddle, State Administrator.

APPROVED PROJECTS

The list of approved programs throughout the state furnishes employment to an additional 39,342, bringing the total to 247,230. Of this number 176,528 are working on county projects, 61,606 on state work, and 9,096 on federal jobs.

The Allegheny County jobs are: Clean Chartiers Creek banks, Carnegie, 50 men; grade Walnut street, Verona, 24 men; improve Bank street along Sewickley High School, 45 men; study for McKeesport garbage disposal plant and stables, three men; study of McKeesport Park and playgrounds, three men; coordinating Avalon surveys, seven men.

Grade Summit and Rainbow ways to Fourth street, Clairton, 41 men; improve Ewing road, 13 men; grade Chartiers avenue and improve Backbone road, 15 men, all in Crafton; improve grounds at Pittsburgh experiment station, 9 men; construct sewer on Turner, Sampson and Doyle streets, Wilkinsburg, 32 men.

Widen, grade Fawn Township roads, 44 men; grade and place cinders at Brackenridge, 32 men; improve Locust street in Scott Township, 27 men; clean and improve Crooked Run, McKeesport, 103 men; improve South Versailles Township streets, 17 men; study maintenance of McKeesport streets, three men.

Construct concrete wall and sidewalk in Scott Township, 29 men; sidewalks and sewer at Verona, 53 men; construct brick gutter and grade Oak alley, Glassport, 34 men; prune trees in McKeesport parks, etc., 22 men; clean and paint classrooms and improve school grounds, West Deer Township, 49 men; improve Clairton athletic field, 21 men.

SPEAKERS FAIL WAITERS' RALLY

What was heralded as a mass meeting of employes to complain about the hotel and restaurant code was attended by less than 100 persons—a few of them women—last night in Moose Temple.

An organizer who identified himself as Harry Rich conducted the meeting. He was recognized as one of the leaders in the recent packing house strike which was tinged with communism. The headquarters of the so-called restaurant workers union is the Fifth avenue office of the local organizers whose activities are affiliated with the Communistic Trades Union Unity League.

Not only did Rich, the organizer, express disappointment at the size of the turnout, but also lamented the failure of most of the speakers to appear.

Rich was the principal speaker, the only other one being Pete Perris, who said he was a waiter.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union, Local 115, which Rich says has 400 members.

FOUR MILLION ON CWA JOBS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The Civil Works Administration said today that more than four million are now on its payroll.

This was the goal set by President Roosevelt in authorizing use of upwards of 400 million dollars for direct employment of persons heretofore on relief rolls. It is expected that Congress will be asked to provide more funds for this purpose to carry the CWA into the spring months.

Harry L. Hopkins, Civil Works Administrator, told reporters his information showed that the full quota of employment planned for December 16 has been completed. He could not, however, give any definite figures and contented himself with the statement that four million are employed.

Needy Artists Start CWA Projects Here

Designing of M'Nair Lobby Ceiling Among Jobs

Mayor-elect McNair likely will have a new ceiling for the office he plans in the foyer of the City-County Building.

It will be something beautiful for the new Mayor to gaze up at during any idle moments he may have as he sits at his desk in the lobby.

For the arts committee on the Civil Works Administration decided at a meeting last night to have several of the 12 artists who start work today on art projects make a design for the ceiling. And if material and federal money can be had, the decoration will be completed.

This was one of half a dozen projects ordered begun today, as the committee, headed by Homer Saint Gaudens, director of the fine arts of Carnegie Museum, started the 12 artists to work—the first art projects in the country to get going.

Some of the artists are among the country's most distinguished men and women upon whom the traditional "starvation in the attic" has befallen.

EDUCATIONAL PANELS

A series of panels depicting education, to be installed when completed throughout the administration building of the Board of Public Education, was also ordered begun.

And included in the other projects, plans for which are to be made, are decorations for the walls of the children's rooms of East Liberty and Homewood public libraries. These buildings, Ralph Munn, director of the libraries said, originally should have had decorations, and adaptable to the spaces are fantastic fairy lore or other children subjects. He will furnish the materials to begin work as soon as the designs were made.

A wall space in Crafton School will also be filled, and artists whose specialized field is the woodblock will make a portfolio from woodcuts showing the historical developments of Pittsburgh.

FIRST IN COUNTRY

The start of the projects today makes the local committee the first of the art groups to begin functioning in the country. Instructions were received from Washington Wednesday. In New York, some delay is being encountered due to a modernist-conservatist feud, the latter group declaring the former has control of the committee.

No such situation exists here, committee members said.

They pointed out that their interest is to get needy and reputable artists to work, according to their instructions from Washington. Such artists from West Virginia as well as all Western Pennsylvania are entitled to apply for such projects, and are urged to get in touch with Saint Gaudens.

The design for the City-County Building ceiling was presented with the architect of the building, E. B. Lee, sitting on the committee. He explained that it was the intention at the time it was designed to place a decoration there. Edward Trumbull, former Pittsburgher and now in New York, had worked in such a design, but the matter was dropped.

TRADERS BACK NRA, LAUD FISHER

Terming differences between Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and former Gov. John S. Fisher "personal," and the latter's position "misunderstood," the Chamber of Commerce yesterday reaffirmed its loyalty to the NRA program in a resolution adopted by its board of directors.

Belief that a more complete understanding of the facts would have prevented Gen. Johnson's request for Fisher's resignation as head of the Pittsburgh NRA committee was expressed by the board in the resolution, which read, in part:

"The chamber will continue to offer all its facilities to the fullest extent to the government in its work for national recovery.

"Be it further resolved, that a vote of confidence be given our president, Gov. Fisher, who has faithfully served the interests of the National Recovery Administration as chairman in this vicinity, but whose position, unfortunately, has been misunderstood."

Resolutions indorsing the proposed creation of a Works Authority, enabling Pittsburgh and Allegheny County to secure federal relief funds for public works, and the old age pension bill, now pending, also were passed by the board, as was a resolution opposed to a graduated income tax for school purposes.

Reversal of attitude on old age pensions by the commerce chamber, whose opposition to the legislation last spring aroused a storm of denunciation, was "unofficially" declared due to the modifications in the new law, which provides aid for indigent persons over 70.

WEIRTON STEEL VOTE DEFIES NRA

benville, O., other employes were voting in the company plant there.

QUIET PREVAILS

But there was no occasion for the policing. The scenes were vastly different than those of last October when the workers struck under the banner of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers.

Leaders exhorted their followers to be peaceful and leave the dispute over the manner of electing employe representatives in the hands of the government.

The Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers held two mass meetings last night in Weirton. A crowd estimated at 5,000 attended. William J. Long, strike leader, told them:

"We don't want any more strikes. If we do strike, it will be because of the company. We will vote only under government supervision. President Roosevelt and the NRA are back of us. We will be in back of them 100 per cent."

The appearance of Gen. Johnson in the dispute—by virtue of his communication to Weir—was regarded as proof that the administration has moved for a showdown on the government's authority under the National Recovery Act.

TEST FOR NRA

Primarily, it will determine whether the National Labor Board, set up under the NRA, can dictate the terms under which labor is to choose its representatives to bargain collectively with industry.

The company claims the election held today is not its concern; that the rules providing for election by secret ballot are those of its employes who are members of a union described as a "company union."

As proof that the company union members comprise the majority of their employes, officials cite the results of a "primary" held last Monday in which they claim 74 per cent of the employes voted despite the exhortation of Amalgamated leaders that they stay away from the polls.

Company officials said that of 11,344 eligible to vote, 8,839 were at work and 8,436 cast ballots Monday. Less than 5 per cent of the ballots were not bona fide, they said.

The contents of the ballot boxes were not disclosed publicly. Amalgamated leaders said many contained nothing more than derisive quibs at the election procedure.

John Larkin, chairman of the company union rules committee, reiterated that the election today is being held in accordance with the by-laws of his organization.

PREPARES BALLOTS

Asked who was preparing the ballots for the voting, he said:

"We are."

He explained "we" were the members of the union executive committee. There are no dues nor fees imposed on the members, he said, and in response to inquiry as to who was defraying the cost of having the ballots printed, he said:

"I think we may have a little party, or we may hold a dance. But if we don't get enough money, we will take up a collection among the committee."

Larkin said an election by petition, as proposed by the National Labor Board, was "illegal according to West Virginia laws." He added, facetiously:

"If I don't get elected myself, Senator Wagner will hang me."

Senator Robert F. Wagner is chairman of the National Labor Board.

T. E. Millsop, assistant to John Williams, president of Weirton Steel, said this morning that by comparison, more employes voted this morning than had voted in Monday's "primary."

The polls opened in the Weirton mills at 1 a. m., when the early morning shift began. They opened at Steubenville and Clarksburg at 8 a. m. Ballots are being cast for employes on a slate of 98 names. Forty-nine are to be elected at the three plants.

CULTURAL LINK WITH SOVIET IN MAKING

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A doctor of philosophy, whose hair is gray but whose eyes are bright and boyish, sails tonight as a cultural ambassador to the Soviet Union, bent on healing a breach that has separated two civilizations since the Czar fell.

Dr. Stephen Duggan, vibrant with enthusiasm, today told how cultural relations will be re-established between America and Russia now that President Roosevelt and Commissar Litvinoff have put them back on speaking terms.

Dr. Duggan is director of the Institute of International Education, which is endowed by the Carnegie Corporation and the Rockefeller Foundation.

BACKED BY WEALTH

Backed by part of the wealth of these powerful philanthropic agencies, he goes at the invitation of the Soviet government to develop the same educational and artistic co-operation as the United States enjoys with France, England and other countries.

He will arrange for exchange of professors and students, stimulate the study of English over there and Russian here and plan for a swapping of educational exhibits.

On this side, the work will be handled by the institute; on the other, by a new Anglo-American institute at the University of Moscow.

At summer sessions, Soviet professors speaking English will expound Russian literature, music, art, the theater and even criminology to American students.

MAKING READY FOR HIM

Dr. Duggan is unworried regarding the effect modern-day Russian literature, so much of it written from a consciously Marxian viewpoint, might have on America.

He expressed the personal opinion that intelligent Americans probably fear more for the safety of their institutions as a result of certain economic abuses brought to light in recent years than as a result of the influence of Lenin and Trotzky. He said:

"We needn't fear a spread of Communism or Socialism as long as Americans have an inborn idea that they can better themselves, or at least that their children can. As long as Americans feel that way, the idea of the class struggle will not take root."

FOREIGN TO POLITICS

His institute, he points out, has nothing to do with politics or economics. Russia, like other countries whose political philosophy varies from ours, has a civilization, he says, "and if we're wise we'll want to know about each other."

Russia, he believes, has interesting things to tell America, for instance:

"They look on a criminal as either diseased or unfortunate. We regard him as a bad egg to be punished. That's interesting."

While there, Dr. Duggan will make a survey of Soviet higher education at request of the Russian government.

JAP 'DREAM WAR' STORY SEIZED

International News Service.

HONOLULU, T. H., Dec. 15.—Custom officials declared today that no action was contemplated against importers of 5,000 copies of a Japanese magazine depicting a "dream war" in 1936 between the United States and Japan.

Walter Doyle, Collector of Customs, reported that the articles were inserted in the magazine unknown to the Japanese publishers.

A former Japanese naval officer was the author of the story which describes an imaginary sea battle between the two countries, with Japan invading Hawaii and the ultimate victor.

Doyle said the Army intelligence staff had been notified of the seizure aboard a vessel which docked here from Tokio.

Soviet Fetes Bullitt With State Banquet

MOSCOW, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—William C. Bullitt, newly-arrived American ambasador to Russia, was to be the guest of honor at a state banquet tonight presided over by Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinoff.

CUBA MAY SEIZE ALIEN PROPERTY

HAVANA, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—An investigation of the property rights of landowners which may lead to the government's appropriating thousands of acres of uncultivated foreign-owned land for distribution among Cuban farmers was outlined today.

Dr. Antonio Guiteras, Secretary of the Interior, author of a program for revision of the rights of foreign landowners, said "the investigation would be conducted in "fairness to all."

However, he added, it will be carried on "with a view to bettering the conditions of Cuban farmers and giving them a chance to produce their own foodstuffs."

As the government concerned itself with a consideration of the Guiteras plan for "agricultural reconstruction," military leaders took extraordinary precautions to prevent disorders in connection with a manifestation in support of the new decree requiring that 50 per cent of the employes in all commerce and industry be Cubans.

BINGHAM SAILS; NOT RESIGNING

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—United States Ambassador Robert W. Bingham and Mrs. Bingham started home for the Christmas holidays today. They expect to return to London in February.

British and American friends and American Embassy attaches bid them farewell when they left Waterloo Station for Southampton to embark on the Empress of Britain for New York. The Ambassador said:

"There is not the slightest foundation for the report that I may not return or that I am going to another post."

He will go to Washington to see President Roosevelt en route to his home at Louisville, Ky.

Mr. Bingham expected to discuss matters involved in Anglo-American relations with the President, such as currency problems, imports, wheat and naval building programs.

O'DUFFY STARTS NEW LEAGUE

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—In an attempt to save his blue shirt emblem, Gen. Eoin O'Duffy has shrewdly substituted the new League of Youth for the banned Young Ireland Association.

He at once asked the High Court for a ruling as to the legality of the new organization.

The League of Youth was described as a disciplined and unarmed association. Its objects include the promotion of the social order and opposition to Communism and alien control and influence in Irish affairs.

The Young Ireland Association was an affiliate of the United Ireland Party, an opposition group of which O'Duffy is a leader.

SULU PRINCESS SEEKS ISLETS

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The Sulu royal family is pressing territorial claims again.

The Sultan of Sulu never has relinquished his claim to a large slice of what is now British Borneo and now his adopted daughter, Dayang Dayang Hadji Piandao, Princess Dayang for short, is after title to 16 islets in the Sulu archipelago.

The Sultan and royal party were in Sandakan, British North Borneo, today, conferring with British authorities.

The claims were regarded by American officials here as constituting rather a comic opera affair.

The attitude of the Americans was that title to all the islets around the Sulu Sea and British North Borneo has been settled by treaties between the Moros, Great Britain and the United States.

But Princess Dayang, a woman of strong character, was not content and the expedition to the British followed. She said the Stimson treaty of a few years ago affecting Turtle island failed to settle the title of the 16 islets and that the title, therefore, rested in her.

SAFETY OR BAN DEMANDED FOR AUTO RACES

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—"Automobile racing isn't a sport; it's a disgrace. If it can't be stopped completely then it should be made safe."

Adding to the storm of public protest caused by the deaths and injury of automobile race drivers, H. W. Keller, vice president of the Automobile Club of Southern California, today appealed for support of the movement against what has been termed "licensed murder and suicide" on the speedways. Keller said:

"These young men go out and risk life and limb to provide thrills for a morbid crowd. I don't believe the automobile was ever intended for such vicious use.

"Certainly, the move to diminish the danger of death at the races—if not to put a stop to them entirely—should receive the support of every right-minded citizen."

Making a total of 12 Legislators who have come out in favor of the removal of the death menace on the race tracks, four more Los Angeles assemblymen today declared in favor of law or regulation to accomplish that purpose.

'UNHUMAN,' SAYS PASTOR

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—Universal)—"Automobile racing as now conducted in California is not only un-Christian—it is unhuman!"

From his study in the Temple M. E. Church, the Rev. Edgar A. Lowther, president of the San Francisco Church Federation, made this pronouncement yesterday.

His was among the many protests from leaders throughout the state against the profitable practice of killing or maiming an indefinite quota of racing drivers at regular intervals for the benefit of excitement seekers who would not care to take human lives themselves.

Dr. Lowther said:

"It is a reversion to barbarism, a reversion to the morbid times when thousands thronged Roman arenas to see Christians fed alive to lions.

"I believe that if people actually felt a personal responsibility for the legalized murder involved in the slaughtering and crippling of human beings on our speed courses, they would not encourage it by their presence."

M. E. Secretaries Hold Conference

Executive secretaries from Philadelphia, Columbus, Chicago, New York and Washington will attend a conference of executive secretaries of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the Koppers Building tomorrow.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, Washington, will be one of the visitors, and Bishop Adna Leonard, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will be in charge.

Sprigle Distributes Thermometers Strategically

There are plenty of thermometers in the courthouse even if the County Commissioners can't see them.

The strategy of the situation was explained at yesterday's budget session by Director of Supplies Ray Sprigle. He said:

"No, you can't see the thermometers. We hide 'em. Then when people complain about being cold, we lead them around behind a door and show them where it's 72."

AUTHOR HAILS 'LAST ROUNDUP'

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Gray-bearded Lincoln Steffens may be headed—to quote him—"for the last roundup," but he's had such a good time the prospect fails to worry him.

The 67-year-old author, lecturer and editor, relaxed in his compartment aboard a west-bound train yesterday, and wisecracked about a sudden illness with which he was stricken Tuesday in Chicago.

Steffens said he became ill after addressing the Chicago Rotary Club. He explained:

"I was walking along a street when I felt a sudden tendency to veer toward the left. I thought perhaps it was because I had become so radical in recent years. But the doctor said the same thing would have happened if my political tendencies had been toward the right."

CONVICTS BEAT PRISON HEAD

ATLANTA, Dec. 15—(AP.)—Two convicts yesterday kidnaped Supt. B. H. Dunaway as he was returning them to the state prison at Milledgeville and held him captive for several hours until he escaped while they were holding up a man and his wife in Atlanta to obtain another automobile.

Dunaway was overpowered near Madison, Ga., while en route to the prison with T. B. Burris, Durant Shadix and Bill Evans, all escaped convicts. Evans did not take part in the attack and was the first to report the kidnaping to officers.

The desperadoes beat the prison superintendent before forcing him to accompany them on a roundabout 150-mile drive to Atlanta. They also robbed him of a $300 diamond ring and $1.50 in cash.

When Dunaway's car ran out of gasoline the two men held up Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Smith. The Smiths reported the men also took $25 before they escaped as Dunaway and an after-theater crowd watched.

DOPE AND CRIME WRECK LIFE OF GIRL-MOTHER

Universal Service.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 15.—Clutching her 10-month-old baby to her breast, a pretty 20-year-old girl-mother sobbed out to police here a tragic story of how her husband, crazed with narcotics, forced her to help him in a career of crime.

The girl, a former nurse, was arrested as she stepped from a train here yesterday. She is Mrs. Ruth Sorahan, an attractive, wisp of a blonde.

Her husband is Philip Sorahan, under arrest in San Jose for a series of burglaries which, according to Mrs. Sorahan, encompassed the entire San Francisco Bay region. The girl sobbed:

"Philip was a good husband until he started to use marihuana. We were happily married, and both looked forward eagerly to the birth of our first child.

"Then some one got him smoking marihuana. Overnight he changed. From then on he seemed like a stranger. He lost his job, and when our savings ran out, he started to steal to get more money to buy the dope."

Her story punctuated by wracking sobs, the girl told how Philip was alternately hysterically gay and inhumanly cruel. She continued:

"He would beat me until I fainted from pain.

"He threatened to kill me if I didn't help him dispose of the things he stole. In fear of my life, I would take them to a pawn shop. Philip would go into insane rages when I failed to get what he thought was a good price for the things."

Woman Enforcer Maps Fight on Narcotic Trade

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(Universal.)—With the determination to smash the "dope" peddling rings in Chicago and adjacent states, Mrs. Elizabeth Bass, head of the narcotic bureau here, was en route to Washington today.

She will confer with both Treasury officials and Attorney General Homer S. Cummings on an extensive plan of co-operation in speedy prosecutions.

While Mrs. Bass refused to discuss the purpose of her visit to the national capital, it was rumored the recent raid she directed on the South Side disclosed a number of key spots in the illicit traffic in this section.

It was also reported she will confer with members of the Appropriations Committee and urge them not to cripple the activities of the Chicago district with too much economy.

Despite the depression, it was learned, there is an increase in the number of addicts in this district, due to the smuggling over the Canadian and Mexican borders.

Her main objective, it was said, is to smash the local "dope" ring first and then round up as many as possible of the addicts and send them to government institutions for treatment.

ASK TO DEPORT DOPE SUSPECT

Joseph Frank, 33, Homestead politician, yesterday furnished $3,500 bond before the United States commissioner, pending action of the federal grand jury on a charge of violating the narcotic law. A hearing was held before the commissioner on November 27, and the latter's decision holding Frank for the grand jury was announced yesterday.

Frank, arrested November 24 by William T. Duffy, government narcotic agent, and City Detective Walter Monaghan, was accused of selling 169 grains of heroin November 17. He was convicted in the Homestead liquor conspiracy case in Federal Court in 1927 and served 15 months in the Atlanta penitentiary.

Chief County Investigator Leo Riordan said he intends to institute proceedings against Frank on the grounds that he is not an American citizen, and upon conviction on a narcotic charge, would be subject to deportation. Frank was born in Russia and said not to be naturalized, as he was 13 days past his twenty-first year, when his father obtained naturalization.

FOOTBALL FINAL :-: 'Hansel and Gretel' Olsen and Johnson :-: ON RADIO

Last Lineup, Nazi Talk On Air

The last of the season's All-America Football Shows brings Harry Kipke, Michigan's famous coach, to a CBS-WJAS microphone tonight at 9:30.

Kipke, who brought the Wolverines through the season undefeated with his "punt, pass and prayer" tactics, is interviewed by Christy Walsh, Sun-Telegraph football expert.

The extent and importance of the Nazi movement in the United States is explained over NBC-KDKA tonight at 10:45 when Representative Samuel Dickstein gives the final finding of the House investigating committee.

Dickstein is chairman of the committee checking up on the activities of the Hitlerites in this country.

BABES IN WOOD

"Hansel and Gretel" is a highlight of an all-Christmas musicale offered over WCAE at 9. Cliff Marshall directs the orchestra and a mixed quartet. Luke Barnett and Rosey Rowswell indulge in a bit of banter.

A new program of dinner music by the Rajah String Ensemble is inaugurated over WCAE tonight at 6:15. Ann Page, soprano, sings with the orchestra.

Al Bernard, a veteran of the old-time minstrel shows and one of radio's best known exponents of the black-face art, is the guest of Lum and Abner at their Friday night Sociable over NBC-WCAE at 10:30.

Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Flight of the Bumble Bee" is played by the Stokowski-Philadelphia Orchestra tonight at 9, over WJAS.

'The Knife,' Tense Murder Drama

An absorbing mystery drama involving a murdered mail carrier and a boy's jackknife found near the body is heard over the following stations this afternoon and evening.

WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., 1:30 p. m.; WHBC, Canton, O., 2 p. m.; WALR, Zanesville, 5; WJAC, Johnstown, 5:15; WOBU, Charleston, W. Va., 5:15; WAIU, Columbus, O., 7:15; WADC, Akron, 7:45, and WLBW, Erie, 9 p. m.

Jimmy Long Gives Sports Review

James J. Long, dean of sports columnists, whose "Sports Comments" are a regular Sun-Telegraph feature, gives his weekly review of sports highlights over WCAE this evening at 6.

The Globe Trotter, voice of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, broadcasts the news over WCAE-WJAS at 12:15 and 2:15 p. m.; over WCAE at 6:30 p. m.

Plan Gigantic Broadcast On President's Birthday

By AIRCASTER

It was some humble worker in the radio vineyard who proposed one of the most remarkable ideas of the year to the broadcasters yesterday.

That's what the raido chieftains thought also, for they're combining the NBC and Columbia networks to put the thing over, with one grand, nation-spanning broadcast January 30.

That, in case you don't know it, is the fifty-second birthday of President Roosevelt.

From 11:15 p. m. on, on that date, the three major networks, using all their outlets and tying up with numerous independent stations, are pooling their best talent to give Mr. Roosevelt a radio birthday party.

PASS THE HAT

At the same time, if the country will co-operate, hundreds of family, club and social organization parties, in every town and village, will get under way, with the radio supplying their dance music and entertainment interludes.

At each of these functions, if the chambers of commerce can manage it, small fees or collections will be taken to make up a gift for the President, who in turn, will divert the funds where they will do the most good for infantile paralysis sufferers.

POLL PANS 'EM

The Literary Digest breaks out today with the first results of its poll of radio likes and dislikes.

So that the unpleasant items may be disposed of first, the response of the public to the queries covers what turned out to be aversions.

For instance, in the matter of jazz music, the vote was 10,876 against it, and 518 for it.

Seven hundred and twenty-six ladies and gentlemen, who take radio seriously, voted thumbs down on orchestra vocalists, while only 78 eavesdroppers defended them.

The highlights of the poll show up—

LIKE THIS

	Dislike	Like
Crooners	726	78
Sob Singers	2,442	58
Blues Singers	1,352	38
Torch Singers	892	8
Sopranos	748	68
Hill Billies	684	232

Overwhelming dislike of wise-cracking, coy and patronizing announcers, was revealed, and 7,974 listeners were against excess commercial ballyhoos, while nobody defended them.

Jess—"How do you like those Traffic Court broadcasts of ours in the mornings?"

Lady—"They're grand; I always listen to them! I was so disappointed when I tuned in for it on Friday, and all I got was Walter Damrosch!"

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

"Danny Boy," based on old Londonderry air, is the feature of Paul Gannon's 6:45 Eventide Songs.

PINCHOT THREATENS TO CALL ANOTHER SESSION

Two School Girls Win First Prizes In Better Traffic Essay Contest

Five Others Given Scholarships to Colleges Here

First prize winners in public and parochial schools' senior division of the Better Traffic Committee's seventh annual Essay Contest are girls.

Anne E. Menary, 15, of 5008 Broad street, Bloomfield, a sophomore at the Bellefield Girls Trade School, Oakland, is the public school winner. Her prize is $35. What will she do with the money?

"Buy a fur jacket and a Spanish grammar! I surely was surprised because I never dreamed I'd win. My teachers didn't even think my essay was the best in an hour."

Rose Gallogly, 16, of 801 Lilac street, a junior at St. Roselia School, Greenfield, is the parochial school winner. She receives a like prize and she says:

"I'll use the money to have a mass said for the sisters in the convent and to buy Christmas presents. Yes, I expected to win. I won second prize last work on my essay."

In the senior high school division, open to twelfth grade students, five receive scholarships:

Erskine Manterfield, Westinghouse High School, scholarship to the University of Pittsburgh.

Walter J. Ellis, Allegheny High School, to Carnegie Tech.

Helen Weber, St. Martin's School, to Duquesne University.

Dorothy Walsh, Holy Rosary School, to Mt. Mercy College.

The remaining prize winners among the 424 receiving a total of $2,080 in prizes will be announced at exercises in Syria Mosque tonight.

ANNE MENARY . . . . . SHE DASHED HERS OFF QUICKLY

Republican Chiefs Essay Role of Interpreters Of Constitution

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—For some time throughout the state, in progressive circles, there have been expressions that the Republican leadership of the Legislature, especially in the House, was not capable of new ideas. The leadership has been charged with plodding along the same old road of reactionary tradition, an attitude which is in part responsible for the trepidation with which the Republicans face the next statewide elections.

Mr. Shields

But that now develops into a fallacious theory. The Republican leadership no longer ago than this week developed a new idea.

That it was not enthusiastically received by the Legislature, and that it is something strange to contemplate should not detract from the central development that the idea popped up. It startled some members, and led to a situation which was solemnly ludicrous.

There was presented the spectacle Wednesday night and Thursday of the 208 members of the House, their occupations ranging through lawyers, merchants, clerks, political hangers-on, farmers and whatnot, solemnly setting themselves up as interpreters and arbiters of the Constitution.

The humor of this is apparent from the fact that even Supreme Court justices frequently disagree on what the Constitution means, which is why we have five-to-four decisions. Further, the Supreme Court usually acts on constitutional questions after lengthy argument, the reading of long briefs and the examination of authorities and precedents.

But the House was expected to act after hearing a couple of political-legal arguments, tinged with bias.

The object, of course, was merely another effort of the Republican organization to evade meeting an issue on social legislation, an attempt to dodge the main question.

Fisher's Comment on Strategy Recalled

It is no novelty, of course, to have legislative arguments based on the constitutionality of bills. Former Gov. John S. Fisher, a veteran of the legislative mill, and a lawyer, used to say that when all other arguments exhausted themselves then there could be recourse to the cry that the bill was unconstitutional.

But what Mr. Fisher meant, and the usual procedure, is that the vote is had on the bill rather than an interpretation of the Constitution as applied to it.

It doesn't work that way under this new Republican organization parliamentary procedure, and the best example is yesterday's row over the bill of Representative John J. Kane, of Pittsburgh, to abolish the coal and iron police force. There are no coal and iron police now, but that is because Gov. Pinchot has refused to commission any. They are possible under the law.

When the bill came up for final passage Representative A. J. White Hutton, of Chambersburg, Republican regular floor leader, cited an option from John Fertig, director of the Legislature Reference Bureau, that the bill was not

COUNTY COSTS FACE NEW CUT

With a $6,806,000 bond issue authorized, County Commissioners met today in their second attempt at budget slashing.

Provisions for a permanent assessment registration plan spoiled yesterday's session from a slashing standpoint. Appropriations showed an increase of more than $10,000, according to Nick Stabile, chief county statistician.

In authorizing the bonds, however, the Commissioners played their trump card in meeting a tax situation characterized by Chairman C. C. McGovern as the most serious the county ever faced.

Of the bonds, $5,000,000 were to be issued against delinquent taxes. This will be at no cost to the county, and may even bring in a slight profit from the difference in interest rates.

For road improvements voted by the people in 1928, $1,206,000 was issued, and $600,000 for parks.

Although some $4,000 was lopped off appropriations in other departments, the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes received an increase of more than $14,000 caused largely by the new census plan.

2 Homeless Men Found Dead in Cold

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 15.—(INS.)—James Boyce and Frank Meyers, who had no home and who have recently been sleeping at the municipal lodging house, were fonud frozen to death today on the bank of the Passaic River. The men had built a fire in a can and had gone to sleep near it. The fire went out during the night.

Crafton High School Presents Senior Play

Rioting Breaks Out in City Streets, Many People Are Slain

(Republished from Cosmopolitan Magazine and soon to appear on the screen as a Cosmopolitan production made for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and starring Marion Davies.)

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

But Operator 13 was no longer listening or looking at the stage, for there, in a stage box, sat Andrews with Claire Quilter, and in shadow behind them stood a figure in evening dress that set every nerve and drop of blood throbbing in the youthful body of Operator 13.

How to get at her lover she had no remotest idea. It was probable that he was there for a few moments only, for he remained standing. The girl scarcely dared take her eyes from him, yet somehow she must follow him and discover where he was going.

All around her was a din of yelling and laughter as she rose and made her way out to the steep stairway and hurried down it to the gallery entrance. There was no opportunity to call in No. 143; she might miss John Gailliard by going to the ater alley. Even now, the first act was over and the audience swarming out to lobby and sidewalk.

Dressed like a young tough of Cherry street, she skulked along the curb trying to catch sight of her lover in the milling crowds around the theater.

At that instant she saw him opening the door of a handsome private carriage. In desperation she shoved forward, hoping to stage a row sufficient to bring a policeman to arrest them both; and she jostled him so violently that he stumbled and nearly fell. Instantly she swore at him and showed fight.

"Who yer shovin,' bully boy with the glass eye?" she demanded, with her best Five Points leer. "D'yer want yer swell hat bashed? Aw right! Come on, then! Put up yer dukes!" And she squared off and danced up to him.

Decisive Action

But there was no row. John Gailliard gave her one amazed look; then took her by the shirt collar and the seat of her fancy pants and threw her halfway across the street.

As she picked herself up, confused by the swift shock of painful impact and the unfeeling laughter of the crowd, Gailliard stepped calmly into his waiting carriage and drove away uptown. He too, was smiling; and it maddened her. But when she ran to a hack and offered the grinning hackman a 10-dollar tip, begging him to follow the carriage, he told her to go hire a balloon.

It was a painful and mortifying episode for her, but she did not see how she could have done any better under the circumstances. And although for a day or two it hurt her to sit down, her main anxiety was to find this outrageous ex-lover of hers, save his neck from the hangman's noose in spite of himself, and preserve the rest of him for a future life of married misery.

On the fourth of July Vicksburg surrendered to a young western general named Grant, Three cheers! said the newspapers. But Meade had not yet moved South after the retreating Lee.

On the eighth of July, Port Hudson surrendered. Three more cheers. But Lee had run away to live to fight another day.

On July eleventh, the draft law went into operation and the first compulsory enlistment began. The next day being Sunday, there was no draft.

War weariness was paralyzing the Peace Party of the North. The blood of its young men dead was suffocating it.

Fatuous Tools

While unburied corpses still littered the meadows of Gettysburg, the Peace Party was holding a huge meeting at the Academy of Music with bands and cheers and Gov. Seymour dispensing sweetness and compromise, and shuddering at the shadow of martial law. And so the Peace Democracy, fatuously oblivious of the conspirators who were planning to ruin the Union, demanded the recall of the

McNair 'Not Talking' After Camera Clash

McNair's silence follows a series of newspaper reports of speeches and interviews said to have disturbed many of his advisers.

He is understood to have determined to refuse interviews to anyone before his inauguration and today was telling reporters:

"I'm not talking."

Yesterday when he appeared in City Council's budget hearing the Mayor-elect sought to escape having his picture taken. When photographers insisted, he grappled with one. They were separated by a policeman.

CITY TO DISCARD GAS LIGHTS NEXT YEAR

$5,000 for Concerts Aimed to Aid Musicians

City Council today agreed to terminate the Sunlight Illuminating Company's contract for gas and gasoline street lamps by the end of 1934 and replace the service with electric lights.

A contract is to be drawn for the replacement of the 3,213 gas lamps in secluded sections of the city, removing 25 per cent of the total in each quarter of next year.

Council also has asked the Bureau of Light to make a study looking toward further reduction in the number and size of electric street lights for next year.

Samuel Harden Church, of Carnegie Institute, agreed in a letter to Council to cut $1,989 from the supplies at Carnegie Library if the money could be transferred to salaries to increase the operating time of four branch libraries. Council accepted the cut, but did not make the transfer.

PARK CONCERTS

At the request of a delegation from the Pittsburgh Musical Society that the city appropriate money for music in the parks in order to help unemployed musicians, Council agreed to set up $5,000 for park concerts, provided the money can legally be used from unemployment relief bond funds.

The city is still short of cash and there is not yet enough money to meet all the payroll which falls due on various days between now and December 22.

FIRST PAY MET

The first pay was disbursed yesterday, and there is $120,000 in cash to meet further payrolls totaling $280,000. Tax collections within the next 10 days are being relied upon to furnish the money.

Councilman George S. Oliver has announced a plan to transfer approximately $700,000 in wages of temporary employes out of the 1934 budget and into the work relief bond fund voted by the people. This proposal would use the bond money remaining after materials are purchased for the Civil Works Administration.

Assistant City Solicitor Thomas M. Benner today declared that money from the bond issue could be used only for genuine improvements, not repairs, and that the work must be done by unemployed.

Can't Fool Bankers When They're Born With Gold Chisels

Every day the professor pulls the statistics out of his thinking cap. He has it up to $34 an ounce. And that ain't hay.

Nobody knows how Europe knows the daily price before we do. That's just as easy as smelling what the neighbors are cooking for dinner.

Wedding Obscure But Her Divorce Is National Event

Herewith the Sun-Telegraph presents the dramatic life story of Mary Pickford, now suing her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, for divorce. Earlier chapters told of her childhood, her first stage and screen work, her success as an actress, and her meeting of Owen Moore, who, quite by chance, was called in by D. W. Griffith to help Mary rehearse her first movie love scene.

By MARJORIE DRISCOLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 15.—Whether or not Mary Pickford's romance with Owen Moore had its inception on the day when a shy young film beginner used Moore as a subject on which to practice movie embraces, it flowered into marriage on January 7, 1911, in Jersey City.

Mary Pickford's first marriage was not the front-page story that her second one became. She was very little known, even the audiences, watching the films in which she appeared, scarcely knew her name.

A few years were to make a vast difference, but when the names of Mary Pickford and Owen Moore were blazoned in newspapers throughout the country, nine years later, it was not the story of a marriage in which two young people looked forward to happiness, but the story of a divorce that marked the end of Mary's first romance.

Although it was generally known, among movie folk and ardent movie fans, that within a few years after their marriage Mary Pickford and Owen Moore were not happy together, both kept their troubles to themselves. It was not until March, 1920, when Mary slipped away to Nevada and got a divorce, that details became public.

ALMOST FOOLS JUDGE

It was a very quiet and publicity-avoiding divorce that she succeeded in obtaining. Somehow, she managed to elude notice during her brief stay in Nevada.

The chauffeur, who drove her around in a dilapidated car—a contrast to her own luxurious limousines — ruefully admitted thereafter that he never guessed who his passenger was.

Even the judge who granted her decree said that he did not recognize her until, shortly after she took the witness stand, she removed her dark glasses and turned down the collar of the fur coat that was half hiding her face.

The story of her marriage to Moore, as it is set forth in the transcript of the proceedings, is one of quick disillusionment and long unhappiness. Not that Mary had complained or had talked about her troubles. It was not until she actually took the witness stand in the Nevada courtroom that anyone except a few intimate friends heard the details.

TELLS OF DISCORD

According to her own testimony, the bloom faded from her romance within a few months after marriage.

She and Moore went to Havana, she said, and there she was "very unhappy."

She charged that Moore became intoxicated and quarreled with her, not once but many times.

She asserted that he frequently accused her of extravagance, and often told her that a wife was a luxury.

With her own film career assured, Mary Pickford had wanted everyone dear to her to have an equal chance, if that were what

LATE SHAKEUP FACES POLICE

One last shakeup before the Herron administration quits City Hall was planned in the Police Department today.

Police Superintendent Franklin T. McQuaide said announcement would be made probably tomorrow of approximately 16 changes, involving promotions, demotions and transfer of patrolmen.

McQuaide said Director of Public Safety Harmar D. Denny, Jr., Mayor John S. Herron and himself had been in conference for several days and had decided to promote a number of patrolmen to lieutenancies. Among those on the list is Patrolman Arthur Baker assigned to the Traffic Division.

McQuaide said there was no significance in the belated action other than it was decided upon as an expression of appreciation of the work of some of the men.

DEMANDS VOTE ON HIS P. S. C. APPOINTEES

Governor Tells Plan To Force Showdown In State Senate

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15—If the Senate adjourns next Thursday without acting either affirmatively or negatively on Gov. Pinchot's five appointees to the Public Service Commission, the Governor within 15 minutes will summon the Senate back into special session.

It will have before it no other business than the reiterated demand of the Governor that it act on his nominees.

Announcement of the Governor's intention was made ready today in his absence, but from a source close to him and authorized to speak.

ACTION MONDAY

Monday night in the Senate an effort will be made by the Pinchot forces to force discharge of the Committee on Executive Nominations from consideration of the five Pinchot Commissioners: P. S. Stahlnecker, Jay C. Goodnough, George W. Woodruff, Frederick P. Gruenberg and Herman Goldberg, unless the committee anticipates the move by bringing the names to the floor.

In the last regular session of the Senate the committee, of which Senator Chauncey W. Parkinson, of Greene County, is chairman, made no move to recommend the nominees either for approval or rejection. In the special session there has been no intimation that Senator Parkinson, guided by the Republican state organization, intended to reverse his policy of silence.

Gov. Pinchot, as well as the commissioners, is understood to be tiring of the uncertainty which surrounds the situation. If the Senate should do nothing the Governor could rename the entire five immediately after adjournment, but he and his appointees are represented as prepared to demand a showdown. They want the Senate either to reject or confirm them.

RARE PROCEDURE

A two-thirds vote of the Senate is required for confirmation, which means approval could be blocked by seventeen senators. A majority vote is needed to discharge the committee and bring the subject to the floor. This is an unusual procedure in the Senate. It was attempted last year when a Senate committee refused to report out the old age pension constitutional amendment, and was defeated.

The Governor, under the Constitution, can call the Senate into session without the House being present if there is no other business but the consideration of executive nominations. In this situation the House could adjourn next Thursday as planned, the members going home. It is claimed that the call to Senate alone would involve no extra cost to the state.

Sentiment in the Senate is reported friendly to Stahlnecker and Goodnough, but there has been a decision thus far to keep the names of all commissioners bottled up rather then report out one or two.

Republican organization leaders over the week-end intend to confer on the subject and decide a course of action for next Monday night.

M'Nair to Address Crafton Councilmen

Crafton Borough Council will hear Mayor-elect William N. McNair speak at the Hawthorne Avenue Presbyterian Church, Crafton, Sunday night. The Rev. Dr. C. E. Ludwig, pastor, has arranged special music for the program beginning at 8 o'clock.

GEN. ADELBERT CRONKHITE MRS. ANNA DILLE

GEN. CRONKHITE HELPING TO PACK CHRISTMAS BOXES

Helping to pack Christmas gifts, many of which will go to his "boys," Maj. Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite, war-time commander of the 80th Division, in which hundreds of Pittsburghers served, participated in the Christmas activities of the Veterans' Hospital Committee of Allegheny County yesterday.

Cigarets, chocolate bars, socks, neckties—all these and many more useful articles, went into the 600 boxes which Maj. Cronkhite and some of his men, joining in the work of 75 members of the committee at the U. S. Marine Hospital, prepared for Christmas Eve distribution in the various district hospitals.

Formerly individual organizations throughout the county prepared the Christmas packages, but since this caused a great deal of duplication of gifts, 27 organizations formed the Veterans' Hospital Committee in 1924. This committee meets monthly every year from September through December.

Thomas A. Joyce is chairman of the group. Other officers for 1933 include Mrs. J. W. Arnfield, vice chairman; Mrs. Albert Oskin, treasurer, and Mrs. Catherine Monahan, secretary.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 15.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Roscoe Turner and I just breezed in here 2 hours, 400 miles to do a little stage acting at a benefit. Roscoe's jokes better be good, for with the Democrats doing all that can be done, and the Republicans keeping still, why it don't leave me much to work on. So my little riddles are not so hot.

Will Rogers.

France handed us their yearly laugh. We told 'em it was debt paying time, and they just said "Yeah." They have even borrowed our English language.

Say, with Jesse Jones offering 35 dollars an ounce for new gold, every man, woman, or child, that could get a burro and a pick have gone to the hills. This country has gone "nugget minded."

And if they do what they ought to do : d make silver a money, instead of just a thing to shoot craps with, why this whole West will boom and we will have the king coming over with a pick and shovel. Yours, WILL.

SLUM CLEANUP BILLS NEARER PASSAGE

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—Chances for the passage of legislation establishing limited dividend housing corporations for the eradication of slums were brighter today with three bills before the Senate amended in a manner which may prove satisfactory to opponents of the right of eminent domain.

As originally introduced in the House by Representative John J. Kane, Pittsburgh, the eminent domain bill vested the condemnation right in a bureau at Harrisburg. With this clause included the House earlier in the week defeated the bill. Kane, however, was able to have the adverse vote reconsidered, and inserted an amendment that efforts at condemnation should be determined by the court of common pleas in the county where a building project is under consideration.

House opponents, satisfied, passed the bill yesterday. Proponents hope that this concession will prove satisfactory to Senator William C. Hunsicker, of Philadelphia, who was able to block the program in the regular session last winter.

Prospects for adoption of the Fitzgerald minimum wage bill by the Senate next week are reported dim. Backers of the bill agreed that administration of the law should be removed from the Department of Labor and Industry, putting it in the hands of a seven-man commission, with the Lieutenant Governor having the deciding vote.

NO COMPROMISE

However, Republican State Chairman Edward Martin is reported to have told one of the Grundy leaders in the House, an opponent of the bill, that there would be no compromise by the Republican regulars in the Senate, and that the bill would be held up. If it is not reported from committee it is possible an effort will be made to force it to the floor through discharging the committee.

Through House action yesterday the Senate has for action next week the Kane bill, abolishing the coal and iron police, establishing the "check-off" system, through which employers collect union dues, and the railroad full crew bill.

The Senate also will get the McNair plan for a five-to-one real estate, with the tax on land five times that on buildings. This measure was passed yesterday in the House, the Republicans figuring they were playing a huge joke on the Democrats, especially those from Pittsburgh. All of the Democrats did not approve the bill, but, confronted with repudiation of the Mayor-elect of Pittsburgh or voting for the bill, they chose the latter course and said "aye." The bill probably will be stifled in the Senate.

The McGinniss bill extending the present Pittsburgh graded tax law to the school district passed second reading in the House yesterday and will be up for final passage Monday night. There is sufficient time remaining of the session for it to receive Senate approval.

HARRIS BILL HELD UP

The Harris permanent registration bill, which has passed the Senate, has been held up in the House, and is threatened again in this session with the same rough fate which it met last winter.

Representative Kane's bill to permit the County Commissioners to issue revenue bonds for public works has been killed for the session. If there is to be any consideration of a program through funds from the federal government it must come through the "authorized by Representative James H. McClure and approved by the Commissioners.

The bill has passed the Senate, and is to be considered finally in the House next week as amended to meet the objections of some utility representatives. However, it does not yet prohibit spending the money for anything but new projects, and for that reason may be opposed by Senator James J. Coyne. The Senator is opposed to opening the way for purchase of the Wabash bridge and tunnel for a traffic artery to the South Hills, insisting that if conditions warrant a new bridge and tunnel should be constructed.

Emerman, Scrap Iron Trade Leader, Dies

ERIE, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Benjamin Emerman, 79, who rose from carrying a pack through the mountains of Eastern Pennsylvania to organize the first chain scrap-iron business in the country, is dead.

Locating in Akron, O., in 1885, he formed the Cleveland, Akron and Canton Iron and Metal Company. He came to Erie in 1905 and formed the Erie Iron and Metal Company, and in 1913 organized the Emerman Company, which has offices in Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Detroit.

Erie School Head Beaten on Press Ban

ERIE, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Efforts of Dr. R. W. Shepard, newly-elected school board director, to bar newspapermen from meetings of the Erie school board committee of the whole, have failed.

The board last night defeated Shepard's motion to close the doors to the press if charges of cocktail drinking in Erie Technical High School, made by Mrs. Bertha Winter Mahoney, Erie's only woman school director, were made public.

DRIVER OF TRUCK 'KIDNAPED'

A truck driver was bound, gagged and kidnaped in upper Fifth avenue today, according to a police report.

The driver, Israel Yarchever, of 5258 Second avenue, who was forced to alight from the machine in Dinwiddie street, near Rose street, said he had been robbed of $70 collections and a watch valued at $25. He was employed by M. Horovitz, of 2026 Murray avenue.

Yarchever said two men got onto his machine as he drove in Dinwiddie street, near Fifth avenue.

URGES CLEANING MILK BOTTLES

Declaring that 800,000 milk bottles were salvaged from garbage and rubbish in Pittsburgh last year, W. W. McFarland, director of the Department of Public Health, today urged householders to clean and return all such bottles.

By returning bottles clean to dealers, McFarland said, a definite health menace will be removed, the cost of refuse collection would decrease because of drop in tonnage, and milk cost overhead would be lessened, paving the way, possibly, for lower retail prices.

Grant Withers Weds Third Time

LODI, N. J., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—News of the marriage Monday night of Grant Withers, motion picture actor, to Miss Alys Walsh, aviatrix, leaked out yesterday. Recorder Anthony Della Penta said he had performed the ceremony.

Withers' age was given as 29 and the bride's as 23. It was the third marriage for the actor who recently was divorced from Loretta Young, screen star.

Marlier Named Aviation Advisor

Raymond M. Marlier, former president of the Aero Club of Pittsburgh, has been named aviation advisor to the CWA of Pennsylvania, Eugene L. Vidal, director of aeronautics in the Department of Commerce, Washington announced. He will be located in Harrisburg.

While in Pittsburgh Marlier was active in aviation affairs and at one time was chairman of the aeronautic committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

BOOM PHILLIPS FOR GOVERNOR

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Added to the growing list of probable gubernatorial candidates next year is the name of Thomas W. Phillips, Butler oil man who ran against Pinchot for the Governorship in 1930 and who recently declined the Governor's offer of a place on the state liquor control board.

A wet, Phillips' candidacy has been mentioned frequently since he refused the liquor post and word came from Philadelphia yesterday that it will be announced this week.

Charles A. Waters, state treasurer, also has been mentioned often in recent discussions about the contest and observers said he will run with the support of forces allied with Joseph R. Grundy, head of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association.

This week also saw friends of United States Senator James J. Davis intimate he will be a candidate.

POLITICS

within the special session call, and therefore unconstitutional.

Dr. Hutton is a law instructor at Dickinson, and he spoke to the House as he would to one of his classes, instructing them on the law as he saw it. Opposition lawyers, and Mr. Kane, who is not a lawyer, spoke from the opposite viewpoint. Dr. Hutton seemed to feel pretty confident, for similar tactics the night before had ruled out a bill.

However, there was more political interest in the coal and iron police bill, a subject which should, of course, never enter into the decision of constitutional questions.

A Supreme Court Without the Robes

Representatives John Scorza and Joe Lynch, you could easily see, were engrossed with this constitutional discussion. So was Representative Louis Schwartz, of Philadelphia, not to mention scores of others who have no training in the law.

For the time being they were functioning as the Supreme Court, though without the robes.

And did they smack Mr. Hutton's doctrinary arguments? They did, for 95 members of the House, most of them not lawyers, said he was haywire on his law, and considerably fewer upheld him.

Then the House proceeded to pass the bill with a thumping majority.

This business of voting, not on whether a bill should pass, but on whether it is constitutional, can best be described as silly. It is ridiculous to expect men unversed in the law to decide such questions, when lawyers themselves can't agree—which is why we have law suits and courts.

However, credit the Republican organization with a new idea, even though it tickles the risibilities. A little fun is a fine leaven to a record of sad and gloomy stumbling.

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint, (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar, stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing, rumbling, hissing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.

Girl Artist Tours Town With Brush, Pencil

By PENELOPE REDD

Miss Redd

A mere matter of being a patient in the Magee Hospital does not worry Mary, at all. She calls for her sketch pad and her water color pensils and sets to work doing the available vistas.

No one would realize how many there are until Mary Marohnic shows them. One of this series is developed into a canvas, in which the Presbyterian Hospital rises mirage-like above the roof tops of lower Oakland.

She always is seeing visions across the valleys so characteristic of our town. From her home in the Chartiers' Valley, she climbs to a hilltop to some cozy homes of men, with barren trees as sentinels and blue hills as guards.

If she stays within her house, she likely is to assemble a still life totally different from the average artist's repertoire.

The show also includes an album of 21 historic ladies painted on parchment. From Lilith to Lou currently revived, they are funny.

Mary Shaw Marohnic's world is one to which we like to be invited.

Cold reason tells us there are many better craftsmen in town, but none quite have her entrancing ways.

MEETING URGES SOCIAL BILLS

Organizations interested in social legislation which has passed the House and is before the Senate met at luncheon today in the College Club to map a final drive in behalf of the measures, which include old age pensions and minimum wage bills.

Among the speakers were State Senator William D. Mansfield and Miss Gertrude Schermerhorn, state secretary of the League of Women Voters.

After the luncheon groups planned to visit state senators to urge their support of the pending bills.

CHARGES BRIDE WENT ON LONE HONEYMOON

His bride took his automobile and went on a honeymoon by herself, Roy W. Stafford, of Ingomar, testified before Judge Ralph H. Smith in asking a divorce from Sarah J. Stafford.

They were married March 13, 1929, and separated October 15, the same year, Stafford said, adding:

"She clawed my face before she left."

Attorney John W. Cost, who entered his appearance for Mrs. Stafford, cross examined witnesses, but did not offer any testimony. Cost informed the court:

"Mrs. Stafford told me yesterday she did not have the clothes to come into court. My only purpose in being here was to keep this case as clean as possible, as a child is involved."

Stafford testified there was a child, but he had never seen it, adding:

"I received a bill from the hospital for the child."

Stafford testified he tried to get his wife to return and live with him, but said she told him she was having too good a time.

DANCER IN DARK ON DIVORCE

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Maybe Tillie Losch, internationally known Viennese dancer, is going to divorce Edward Francis Willies James, brother of Mrs. Marshall Field III.

Maybe, when and if that divorce occurs, she will marry Prince Serge Obolenski, whose first wife was Princess Catherine Alexandrome Barcalinsky, daughter of the Czar, and whose second wife was Alice Muriel Astor, sister of Vincent Astor.

And maybe she won't.

In thick veil and dark glasses, she came into New York on the Europa and took elaborate precautions to avoid reporters. Her name wasn't on the passenger list and at first when the reporters found her she denied her identity.

Then she was asked about the James divorce. She declared:

"I intend to defend the action, of course. But all I am here for now is to enjoy the Christmas holidays with relatives."

The status of her divorce action was not even made clear. She sued him first, and then, it seems, he sued her, after her name had been linked in London with that of the handsome, highly titled Prince Serge.

FORD AT DINNER OF ATTERBURY

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer, quietly slipped in and out of Philadelphia last night to attend a private dinner annually tendered to the leaders of finance and industry by Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, it was learned today.

Reports that J. P. Morgan was [illegible] the 47 persons at the [illegible] given in the exclusive [illegible]ouse Club with a menu interrapin, wild game, champagne and liquors could not be confirmed. The billion dollar list of guests was brought to Philadelphia from New York in special cars attached to Pennsylvania Railroad trains.

LAMSON MARKS DEATH STAY

International News Service.

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., Dec. 15.—This day, originally fixed for his death on the gallows, found David A. Lamson, 32, handsome Stanford University press executive and doomed killer of his wife, hopeful of vindication and freedom.

Nearly three months of life in "condemned row" has made little change in Lamson, prison officials said. He spends virtually all his time reading or writing letters to his devoted mother and two sisters.

Lamson eats considerably. He and the other inmates of "condemned row" enjoy the best food in the institution.

Guards say the convicted slayer apparently is confident his self-proclaimed innocence will be established when the State Supreme Court reviews his case.

The appeal to the high court prevented today's scheduled execution. Although Lamson's attorneys and state counsel are to argue the merit of his appeal January 8 in San Francisco, a decision from the high tribunal is not expected for at least six months.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The Rev. J. J. McCabe of St. Rita's Church does his own police work.

After a tussle he hauled Joseph Conroy from beneath a pew and turned him over to police. Conroy, who allegedly had taken a dime from the poor box in the church, was fined $100 and costs by a judge.

INDIAN NURSES GET FREE TRIP

Two Indian girls, the first members of a tribe to be graduated from an accredited nurses' training school, are en route to Butler, Pa., today from Ganado, Ariz., as a reward for their achievement, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

The trip is being financed by Charles Troutman, Butler merchant, who spent several months assisting in the management of the Presbyterian Church mission school and hospital from which the two Indian girls gradauted.

The girls, Adele Slivers, daughter of a Navajo medicine man, and Ruth Henderson, daughter of a rug weaver, were classmates of Charles Troutman, Jr., and his sister, Mary, who attended the mission school while their parents were located in Ganado.

The visitors will arrive in Butler Saturday.

Woman, Lincoln's Cousin, Dies at 104

OSHKOSH, Wis., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Kitty Farr, Civil War nurse said to be a cousin of Abraham Lincoln, is dead here. She was 104 years old. She was the daughter of Noel Lincoln and a native of Vermont. Her husband, a Civil War veteran, died years ago.

The prima donna has signed a contract with the newly-formed Chicago Grand Opera Company. She recently starred in light opera.

ASSISTANT WAR HEAD ASSAILS NRA SNIPERS

Private capital's lack of confidence was blamed for retarding re-employment and spending activity by Assistant Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring in an address before Pittsburgh industrialists at the annual meeting of the Pittsburgh post of the Army Ordnance Association in the Duquesne Club.

Although he made it plain he was in sympathy with the President's recovery program, the former Kansas banker and governor admitted the results of the government's measures to finance recovery have been disappointing so far.

RECENT PICKUP

However, in an interview earlier, Woodring said the business outlook was better in the last two weeks than at any time during the present administration.

Heavy industries, he said, must look to private capital for rehabilitation funds, and unless the capital is forthcoming to aid unemployment in the industrial ranks, the government must continue to raise high funds for public and civil works and other relief projects.

"To pay for all this will require the imposition of higher and higher taxes with a growing tendency to extract the great bulk of them from those who have accumulations of wealth. In other words, if private capital cannot be induced to perform its proper function in a normal manner, the government will be forced to carry the burden and finance itself from those who are able to pay."

He attributed the reluctance to advance capital to the lack of confidence that has been "engendered by the studied and adverse propaganda of those who are opposed to various administration policies and other features of the recovery program.

FOR SOUND MONEY

He continued:

"I am a strong advocate of a sound monetary system, and I believe that the President is entitled to the support rather than the opposition of those who oppose greenback inflation, but I cannot condone or agree to go along with the panicky conservatives who dumped our nation into the slough of financial chaos and who now offer nothing more than destructive criticism of present policies and untimely advice to the American people."

Other speakers at the dinner were Ralph M. Dravo, president of the Pittsburgh Post, A. O. A.; Maj. Gen. Samuel Hof, chief of ordnance, U. S. Army; Brig. Gen. W. H. Tschappat, assistant to chief of ordnance; Col. C. M. Wesson, chief of technical staff, ordnance department, and Frank B. Bell, district chief, ordnance district.

MARY'S FIRST ROMANCE FADES

MOORE REFUSES AID

She had helped her sister, Lottie, and her brother, Jack, to start on their film careers. Lottie's appearances were brief, but Jack, with his famous sister's backing, quickly found a place as a popular film juvenile. He was headed toward success when illness forced his retirement and he died in Paris early this year.

As she had done with Lottie and Jack, she sought to do with Moore. More than once, she said, she found work for him, only to have him refuse to leave New York.

In 1916, she testified, when she was leaving for Hollywood and had found a place in a company there for Moore, he declined to go and told her that "it was a good thing that she had to go West as he was happier without her."

In 1915, she said, Moore, during a quarrel with her, called her mother names, and she left home when he refused to apologize.

It was an unhappy story of years of trying to make the best of things; of attempted reconciliations that failed; of brief reunions, ending in new separations.

FINAL PARTING

In 1917, she said, she left Moore for the last time.

She had not applied for a divorce until 1920, she said, because she still hoped that she might regain happiness. But by that time, when her own business affairs had been enlarged until they were filled with complications, she found her status a difficult one.

"I was a wife, and still not a wife," she said.

So she decided to get her divorce.

All during those years when Mary Pickford was hiding her unhappiness, she had been very busy.

Working steadily in pictures, organizing her own company, joining in the organization of United Artists, she had found time for many other activities.

She was one of the first of the film stars to take to the air, although her initial flight was brief and she never became very much interested in flying.

SCORNS FLYING DOUBLE

It happened in 1915, during the filming of "Girl of Yesterday." The script called for the heroine to fly: Glenn Martin had been engaged as the pilot.

It was taken as a matter of course that Mary would stay on the ground, while a double took her place in the plane. But she refused and soared away with Martin, while her director fumed and fretted far below.

She interested herself in many matters outside the narrow world of the films. She became well informed on civic affairs and any proposal for the betterment of the city had her support. Experienced from childhood in handling her own business matters, she became known as a keen business woman.

BECOMES COLONEL

During the war years, she spent many hours in aiding war activities. She adopted the 143rd Field Artillery at Camp Kearny and became honorary colonel of the regiment. She adopted another regiment at the Arcadia balloon school—that rather forlorn wartime organization which spent weary days winding observation balloons up into the air in the morning and down again at night.

She bought thousands of dollars worth of Liberty bonds and became one of the most active volunteer Liberty bonds salesmen on the government's list.

And it was in 1918 that she was summoned to go to a Liberty bond selling tour throughout the country that was to play a large part in her future.

JEWISH LEADER RAPS RULES IN PALESTINE

Speaking in Pittsburgh at the Y. M. and W. H. A. last night, in behalf of the Palestine Labor Movement, Joseph Sprinzak noted Palestinian labor leader and vice president of the World Zionist Action Committee, ad cated less stringent regulations for the admission of Jews to Palestine.

He said:

"Under present rules it is necessary to have, among other requirements, at least 500 pounds (British money) to be admitted to Palestine.

"In my estimation, all that should be necessary is a good character and the desire to be an integral part in Palestinian work and life.

"German Jews who are coming to Palestine are settling in the port city of Haiffa, in Tel-Aviv and Jerusalem. They have private capital and they are rapidly becoming active in the economic life of Palestine.

"The younger German Jews who have left Germany as a result of the Nazi movement are becoming members of the cooperative and agricultural colonies. They are rapidly becoming acclimatized in the cultural and nationalistic life of the country.

"They have the fresh spirit of youth and it is to them that Palestine looks for the future leaders.

"The pioneers in Palestine, that is, those who have been there before the days of the Balfour Declaration, welcome these new additions to Palestine. But the Diaspora Jews must also be a part of the Palestinian movement."

According to Mr. Sprinzak, the fears of Arabs that they will be pushed out of Palestine are entirely unfounded. Since the coming of the Jews to Palestine and the subsequent development of the land and resources, he declared, the standard of life of the Arabs has advanced to a high stage.

Mr. Sprinzak came to America in the interests of the new colony to be established in Palestine in memory of the late Chaim Alazaroff, noted Palestinian labor leader.

Umansky, who is associated with the General Electric Company at Schenectady, recently returned from Russia, where he spent three years with the Soviet government.

Gotham Taxicab Radios Ordered Out

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Radio receiving sets, recently installed in almost one-third of the city's 16,000 taxicabs, have been ordered removed by Police Commissioner James S. Bolan. The commissioner said he had received numerous complaints that the sets were a "nuisance."

Student Learns Much on Grid, Says 'Prexy'

CHESTER, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Col. Frank K. Hyatt, president of the Pennsylvania Military College, says the average college student can learn more in one football game than in two weeks of mathematics classes. The commandant said:

"Away with the tea hounds and social lizards and give us instead red-blooded fighting boys who love football."

Saying he was "not underestimating the academic side," Col. Hyatt asserted, "Our records show that the graduates who make good in the outside world are not the non-sports boys who chalk up 95 and 98 in the classrooms, but the lads who attain percentages of, say, 85 and 87, and participate wholeheartedly in sports."

BRITISH CRITIC ASSAILS ELY

LONDON, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Lieut. Col. Walter Buller, bridge critic, made a vigorous attack yesterday upon the quality of the game in the United States and upon Ely Culbertson. He said:

"The standard of play in America is appallingly low and easily the worst in the world. Culbertson is hot air.

"Many professionals in America are monsters who are continually thrusting parasites upon us. You should no longer be misled by them but transfer your allegiance to those of us who appeal to your common sense."

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Ely Culbertson had said today that Lieut. Col. Walter Buller, his British critic, was not representative of British bridge players. He said:

"Most British players are wonderful sportsmen. Buller does not represent their opinion. He has made a profession of getting free publicity by abusing me and other Americans. He has been badly beaten by me and his loser's squeal is music to my ears."

HARVEY CLOSES OLD BRIDGE

Street car service over the Thornburg Bridge was discontinued yesterday by order of C. K. Harvey, county engineer in charge of bridge maintenance, because of the condition of the structure. The Pittsburgh Railways Company replaced the cars with motor coaches.

The bridge was built in 1875. Harvey explained the closing:

"The closing of the structure was not due to any sudden discovery of defects as a result of surveys following the Rankin Bridge collapse. An appropriation was provided in the 1933 budget and plans were made in November for extensive repairs."

DILLINGER GANG TRAILED IN NEW SLAYING

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The John Dillinger gang of Indiana desperadoes today became the most hunted men in Chicago as police sought the slayer of Detective Sergt. William Shanley, father of four children, in a North Side garage.

A woman companion, who was captured at the scene of the brutal shooting yesterday, refused to identify the killer beyond saying he was known to her only as "John Smith." She gave her name as Mrs. Elaine De Kant Dent, 32.

But two other persons, including a witness to the slaying, identified a picture of John Hamilton, 34, one of the 10 dangerous convicts who kidnaped a sheriff and escaped from the Michigan City, Ind., prison last September, as the man who whipped out a revolver and fired twice as the officer approached to question him.

DESCRIPTION OF KILLER

From the description of the killer given by Shanley's fellow officer police said the gunman might have been Dillinger himself, who outran and outshot police recently in an elaborately laid net, or Harry Pierpont, Terre Haute, Ind., another member of the gang.

Shanley with Policeman Frank Hopkins went to the garage late in the afternoon upon orders from headquarters that one or more of the Dillinger gang had an automobile in storage there.

Arriving at the place at 5320 Broadway, Shanley, twice cited for bravery in his 17 years of service with the department, went on inside and was seated when a man and a woman entered.

Shanley commanded the man to "keep your hands out of your pockets," and made a move as if to reach for his own gun. But he was too late for the other beat him to the draw, and a moment or two later two shots broke the silence of the garage.

Shanley fell to the floor mortally wounded and died a few moments later at a hospital. His pistol had not been removed from its holster.

Cigaret Stub Starts Dollar Bank Blaze

Traffic in Federal street was halted while firemen extinguished a blaze in the cellar of the Dollar Savings and Trust branch of the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company Building, 524 Federal street, last night.

A lighted cigaret, tossed through the cellar grating, ignited wood and paper, firemen said. The banking room and the lobby of the building were filled with smoke. The blaze was extinguished with chemicals.

BANDIT-CONVICT ELUDES POSSE

SEMINOLE, Okla., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A foray into the hills which officers said, took them within a stone's throw of Wilbur Underhill, intensified the search today for the fugitive killer.

Chief of Police Jake Sims, of Seminole, member of a posse which descended upon a house between here and Ada, said Underhill had eluded the officers "by 75 yards."

Of two suspects arrested at the farm, Sims said Bruce Brady, reputedly a brother of Bob "Big Boy" Brady, one of the 10 convicts who escaped from Kansas Prison last Memorial Day with Underhill, was taken to jail at Ada to face an inquiry into Wednesday's $3,000 robbery of the First National Bank of Coalgate, and for questioning as to Underhill's movements. The other man was released.

Congregation Will Install Dr. Shapiro

Dr. Joseph Shapiro will be officially installed as rabbi of the Poale Zedeck Congregation Tuesday night. Installation addresses will be made by Rabbi Bernard Revel, dean, and Rabbi Samuel S. Sar, of the Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary, New York.

Worker Hurt in Fall From Park Tower

J. R. Gold, 27, of 272 High road, Pittock, is in South Side Hospital with a probable fracture of the skull, sustained today when he fell 50 feet from the water tower in Grand View Park.

Gold, making repairs on the tower, slipped on the ice atop the structure, according to a police report.

Truck Strikes Gas Pump, Fire Results

North Side firemen were summoned last night when a gasoline pump in Schreiber's Service Station, Anderson and East Lacock streets, took fire after it had been knocked down by a trailer truck.

A pedestrian sounded an alarm, but before the firemen arrived the driver of the truck doused the flames with a small extinguisher.

The debs' day today started with a luncheon and will end late tonight at a dance—just the sort of day any debutante likes to have.

At the luncheon, which Mrs. Thomas O. Cowdrey and Mrs. Edward Quinby gave at 1:30 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Quinby, Colonial place, Mrs. Cowdrey's daughter and Mrs. Quinby's granddaughter, Eleanor Quinby Cowdrey, made her debut.

The dark-haired, dark-eyed deb wore a most becoming gown of copper green crepe having long sleeves and a gold buckle for ornament. She carried yellow and white flowers. And the luncheon table was decorated in yellow and white, too.

Mrs. Cowdrey chose a black and white costume, and Mrs. Quinby chose black and silver.

Tonight the debs will be entertained at a dinner-dance the Frederic Scahefers will give in their home, Devon road, for Evelyn Freeman, debutante daughter of the John M. Freemans.

Winchester Girls Plan Style Show

And added to the Vassar girls coming home today are Sheriley Campbell, daughter of the David H. Campbells, of Sewickley, and her schoolmate, Martha Jack, of Memphis, Tenn.

Honoring her visiting granddaughter, Eugenia Paull, of Wheeling, W. Va., Mrs. Lawrence E. Sands, of Aylesboro avenue, will entertain Wednesday afternoon in her home.

Hounds of Bath County Track Reynard

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Dec. 15.—The Bath County Hounds, Mrs. Fay Ingalls, master, met Monday morning at 7 o'clock at Nimrod Hall on the Cowpasture River, Edward Porter, who invited the Bath County Hounds to hunt fox over his territory 24 miles from Hot Springs, entertained the field at a breakfast at his farm after the kill. The Saturday meet of the Bath County Hounds was at Mr. Lowman's in Ashwood. After the kill, near the horse show grounds, Mrs. Lanior D. Pole, Mrs. Melitus B. Jarman and Mrs. Hugh Curran Burrus gave a hunt breakfast at Mrs. Jarman's home in Hot Springs. Miss Grace Clifford and Dr. Theodore L. Badger were among those following the hunt.

Club Giving Party for Children

Mrs. Charles M. Bregg

If any member of the Wilkinsburg Junior Woman's Club doesn't have a child of her own, she's going to borrow one rather than miss the party to be given for the little folk on Monday at 6 o'clock.

It's to take place in the Y. W. C. A. Community House and all sorts of plans are in the making. Of course there will be a Santa Claus and a big tree and in addition to the gifts that Santa will bring, there's to be a fish pond full, too.

Miss Martina Oetting is arranging some special music that's sure to please the young guests and even the refreshments are to be just a little different and especially appropriate.

Mrs. Russell Sager, who is chairman for the affair, is being assisted by Mrs. Gladden Balph, Mrs. H. V. Nicholson, Mrs. W. H. Cadwallader, Jr., Mrs. Howard Eckdahl, Mrs. W. Irwin Short and Miss Oetting.

Hood College President Reception Guest Dec. 30

Mrs. John D. Creigh Miller, of Beaver street, Sewickley, will keep open house the evening of December 30 in honor of Dr. Joseph Henry Apple, president of Hood College, who is coming to Pittsburgh for the Hood College Club's Christmas luncheon that day.

Dr. Apple will be honor guest at the luncheon, which is to be held in the Woman's City Club at 12:30 o'clock. Mrs. Miller is president of the organization.

Reservations for Class Party Close on Monday

Reservations will be received until Monday by the Wednesday Currents Events Class for its annual Christmas party to be held Wednesday. For this event, the members will go to the Goodwill Community House, where luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock.

In the afternoon a program of old world folk music will be presented by Miss Bessie Hubach, piano, and Miss Sara Jamison Logan, contralto.

Dracomtra Players To Entertain Orphans

"Every Child's Christmas," a one-act play, will be given Thursday at the German Protestant Orphanage as part of a Christmas program. The play is sponsored by the Dracomtra Players and directed by C. R. Young.

Bradford Woods Club Hostess to Give Program

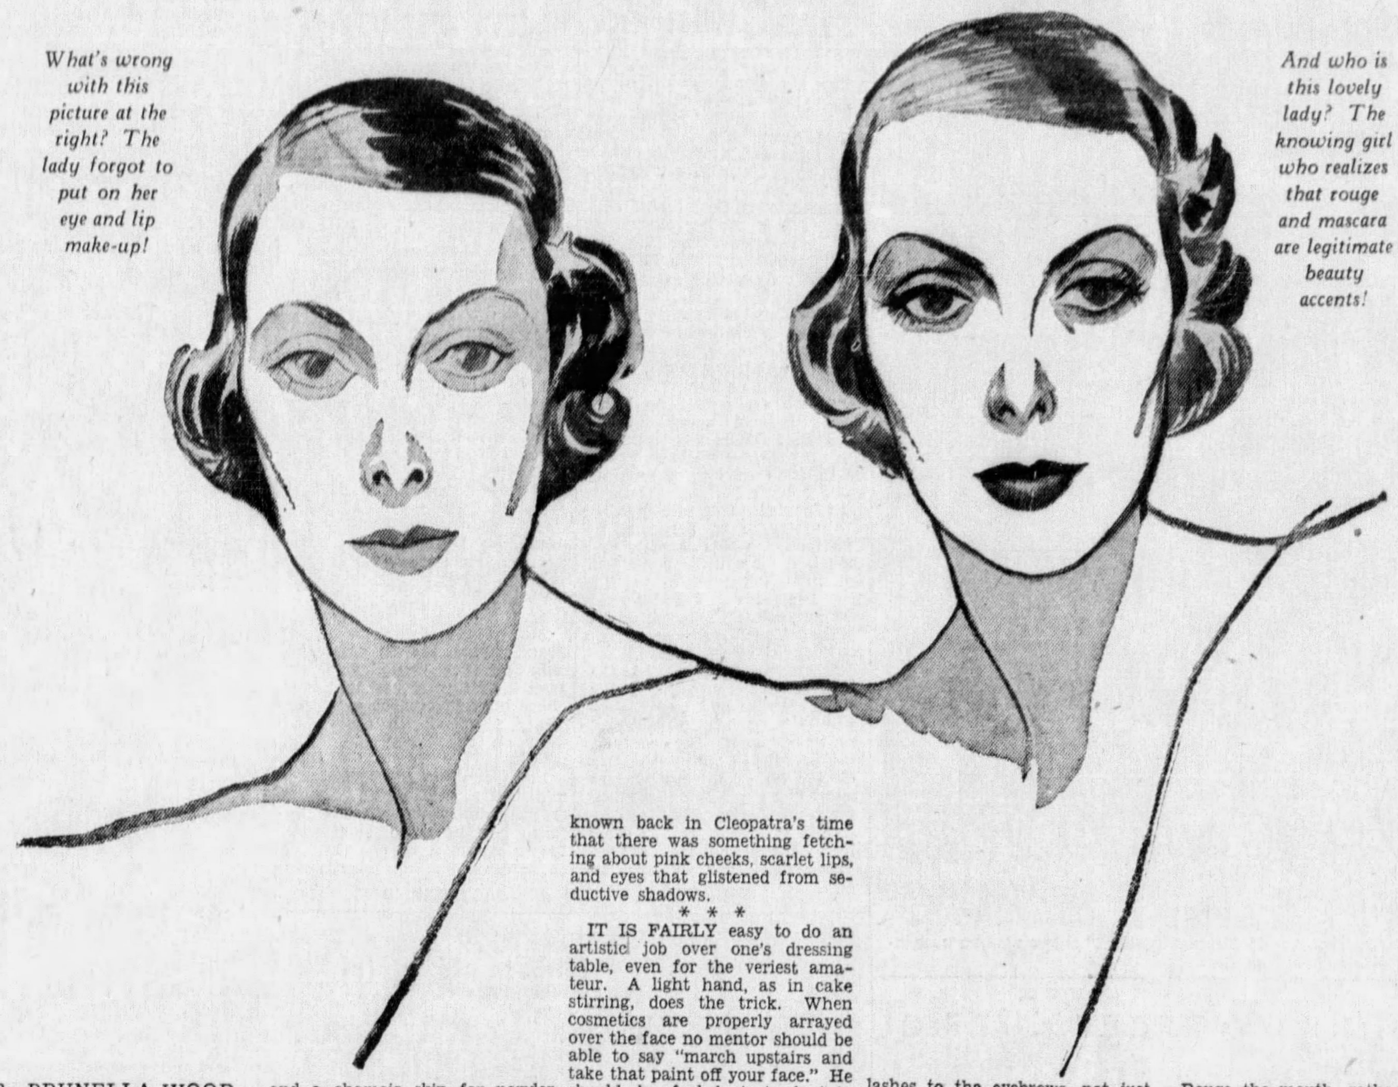
Not only will Mrs. W. A. Crawford be hostess for next Thursday's meeting of the Bradford Woods Civic Club, but she will give the program—a discussion of "Christmas in the Cathedrals." Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. E. E. Kehew and Mrs. R. S. Dougall.

Sidney Teller to Speak For Sunnyside P. T. A.

The newly organized Sunnyside Parent-Teacher Association will hear an address by Sidney Teller, resident director of Irene Kaufmann Settlement, on Monday evening. Mr. Teller's subject is "Challenge of the New Leisure." The association officers will be installed during the evening.

THE EYES HAVE IT IF A GIRL KNOWS HER STUFF

What's wrong with this picture at the right? The lady forgot to put on her eye and lip make-up!



And who is this lovely lady? The knowing girl who realizes that rouge and mascara are legitimate beauty accents!

By PRUNELLA WOOD

MANY A smart young matron could stop and shiver guiltily every time she puts on her rouge and powder. For it was not so long since when any woman who owned a rabbit's hair for rouge and a chamois skin for powder was called a hussy behind her back.

And since no woman takes the trouble to criticize the pulchritude of any other woman but the one she is a bit green-eyed over, the lagging sisters ought to have known back in Cleopatra's time that there was something fetching about pink cheeks, scarlet lips, and eyes that glistened from seductive shadows.

IT IS FAIRLY easy to do an artistic job over one's dressing table, even for the veriest amateur. A light hand, as in cake stirring, does the trick. When cosmetics are properly arrayed over the face no mentor should be able to say "march upstairs and take that paint off your face." He should be fooled, instead, into thinking he never saw you look so fresh since that summer in the mountains, when he first met you.

Try placing the rouge sparingly beneath the eyes, rather than over the cheek bones. Apply eye shadow salve from the upper eyelashes to the eyebrows, not just on the lids.

STOP SHORT at this point to see whether mascara on the lashes themselves will not be just that bit too much; or put on the mascara first and approach the shadow gingerly.

Rouge the mouth, rather than the lips. After all, the effect you are after is supposed to be more natural than exotic, and who ever saw lips that were pink at the corners and cherry bright at the center?

White Christmas Service Observed at Central 'Y'

Central Branch Y. W. C. A. celebrated its annual White Christmas service last night. Children and grown-ups divided into small groups and decorated certain parts of the building. Others remained in the lobby, preferring to sew and fill the toy stockings for the children's parties.

At 8 o'clock everyone was assembled in the auditorium where Mrs. William J. Gilmore read the service. A group from the Schola Cantorum, directed by William D. Beaschler, furnished special music and later in the evening led the audience in singing Christmas carols. At the conclusion of the celebration the audience placed its white gifts at the base of the big tree.

All these gifts will be used to carry Christmas into homes where no other celebration would be possible and which were recommended by the International Institute, the Children's Service Bureau and the Family Society of Allegheny County.

Children from International Institute, 150 of them, are being entertained at Central Branch this afternoon by the health education department.

To find a snake under your Christmas tree is quite a la mode these days! For one of the stores is trumpeting the news 'round about the men's "snake" key chains which have just appeared.

We, for one, were quite taken with them . . . the first time we ever had any affection for a snake. And not much wonder . . . for these are silver plated English chains, one end of which fastens to Your Lordship's belt . . . the other end of which is either a stirrup or riding crop shape, designed to carry keys. And VERY SMART for $2.00.

Don your specs, little bookworm! We have found some of the best looking bookends for your desk that ever an eye did see (even a book worm's eye!)

They are made of wood . . . cleverly antiqued to look like very Methusalehs of all bookends . . . and have designs carried out on them with wrought iron work. In fact . . . one pair of them has the old oaken bucket on the side, well and all! Quite the cutest and most different bookends we've ever seen. Prices range $5 to 6.50.

Flippity-flop . . . this is not us breaking out into a tap dance but merely the sound of the house and bedroom slippers we've found for men, following us 'round.

Here is something worth taking plenty of notes on. (For what man doesn't like comfortable house slippers). Leather sandals held on by two crossed leather straps . . . and elkhide slippers in semi-sandal effect, some without backs, some of them with built-up backs.

Only $2.50 the pair (in all sizes) . . . and you tell HIM that he can wear them right into the shower if he is a lazy soul . . . the leather won't be affected, and the soles won't slip (they're composition!)

Blow on ye winds both loud and clear . . . Christmas is coming and we have THE VERY THING when it comes to men's handkerchiefs!

Sheer, fine, evenly woven linens that will snuggle lovingly against the nose that knows them. With hand rolled edges . . . and the most elegant initials that ever sat themselves upon a handkerchief. Colored cutwork and seed stitch initials . . . whose ABC's are far from simple, 75c apiece.

And to the ladies! That their sniffles may not be overlooked . . . we hasten to babble out the rest of the news. About the white linen 'kerchiefs which are making a debut at 6 for $1 . . . with hand-rolled edges and hand-appliqued and embroidered initials in the corner.

But while we shouldn't have been in a bargain frame of mind . . . still we didn't dare overlook a whole table full of reduced items one shop is featuring just now. Items which make splendid gifts!

Painted silk crepe handkerchiefs . . . that were $1 . . . now for 50c! And stunning $4 silk scarfs with handpainted designs, now at $2.50. Any number of fat little pillow sachets with laces and ribbons, always $1.75 and now only 50c. And lastly . . . 2 of the sweetest little bed jackets we've ever seen . . . silk, with satin ribbons and picoted edges to finish them off with "eclat!" These for $3 instead of the former $6!

Our advice is for you to run quickly to this haven of all Christmas-present gatherers and grasp these while the grasping is good!

How about a little asparagus to tempt you . . . or a blackberry or two? We have been chuckling to ourself for some time over the amusing chip baskets we found in one of the stores . . . all filled up with vegetables made of candy!

There are pods of green peas . . . and stalks of asparagus as fresh-looking as CAN be . . . pumpkins, black and red raspberries . . .and other suchlike. The whole, packed into a miniature-size chip basket and all tied with cellophane and ribbons! Very holiday and festive-seeming . . . and a nice gift for tickling the fancy of one of the youngsters! 39c.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Eric Partridge is the author of a thick and fascinating book called: "Slang Today and Yesterday" (MacMillan) . . . Mr. Partridge is an Englishman, who has edited newspapers, magazines and British dictionaries . . . He pleases me, of course, by even mentioning me among American contributors to slang in literature—although he would have been a better historian of American slang had he put Arthur Bugs Baer, Tad, and other superior slanguage makers on the list . . . Mr. Partridge, in the preface, says that he does not claim to be an "expert" on American slang. He says he is "something more than a dabbler, however" . . . How little more, he leaves to the American critics . . . Therefore, I offer him the following proofreading, so that the next editions of his grand book may be edited a little more accurately . . . For instance, Mr. Partridge has been misinformed when he defines "up and up" as 1929 slang, meaning "successful" . . . The phrase is: "It's on the up'n'up"—meaning—on the level—nothing wrong with it . . . "Beezer" is listed as 1926 slang—meaning "the head" . . . It is older than that, Mr. Partridge, and the beezer is the schnozzle—or the nose . . . The bean is the head, as noted in the glossary . . . "Beat up," says Mr. Partridge, means to "call on a person unexpectedly" . . . It does? I thought "beat up" meant to give a person a beating . . . He says "baseball" means "small, insignificant," which eludes me. I thought baseball was the name of our favorite sport.

"To flicker," it appears, means "to pretend to faint" . . . I never heard of that—flicker, I thought, was a movie . . . "On the make" is listed as "alert for money" . . . Or for a good-looking femme, Mr Partridge . . . "Raspberry" might have meant "a fellow" or "girl students," at one time, but a raspberry, my dear Mr Partridge, is a full-blown and humiliating explosion made by a heckler's tongue and lips . . . A devastating form of criticism, as it were, sir . . . I am not poking ridicule at the new tome—I am trying to be of constructive service, considering that the book certainly will be handed down for future historians . . . But American slang can hardly be complete without such wordage as "Oh, Nertz!", a derisive expression; "stooge," meaning a comedian's foil, assistant, heckler, etc. . . . But this is what floored me. Nowhere in the thick book, under British, Australian or American slang is "whoopee" or "makin' whoopee"—perhaps the outstanding phrase of the last decade . . . Which Dr. Frank Vizetelly, three years ago, said was English slang (Shakespeare) 300 years old. Dr. Vizetelly, however, never explained why it took 300 years before his and other dictionaries gave it a tumble.

Speaking of books, two titles that have always caught my orb were: "Promise You Won't Marry Me" and "Women Live Too Long" . . . Some of us were trading chatter last night . . . One of the new shows, now out of town, was the subject . . . "Where is it now?" someone queried . . . "It's going from bad to worse," flipped a fellow, "and from worse to Philadelphia!" . . . Of an unpopular lad who happened to ankle by, they chirped: "What a lotta empty seats there's gonna be at his testimonial dinner!" . . . I have long lamented the lack in the American language of a national toast so expressive as the German's "Prosit!" or the Swede's "Skol!" which are far richer than our hodge-podge of "Here's How"—"Down the hatch!"—"Muddinyereve!" and "Here's Looking Atchu!" or similar wordage . . . And forgetting the criticism aimed at the last state to ratify Repeal—I give you "Utah!"—with all its implications of the overcoming of fanaticism, the deposing of the bootlegger, the rebirth of good cheer and good fellowship around the flowing bowl—and, above all—the recognition of the Rights of Man . . . Say it aloud: "Utah!"—it has the right ring . . . I like this ending of a letter from one pal to another: "Whether I write literature or [illegible] money—I want you to know that you bat fourth in my [illegible] of friends. Fourth, you know, . . . where they put home-run hitters."

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Two South Hills dramatic groups are busy with plans for new productions. The South Hills Community Players are rehearsing "The Queen's Husband," its second play of the season, to be given in the Washington School Auditorium, Mt. Lebanon, December 27, 28, 29 and 30, with Edward Blaine, director of the organization, in the leading male role. The Dracomtra Players are preparing for the presentation of a musical comedy, "In Your Hat," in the Hillsdale School, Dormont, January 4 and 5, under the direction of Robert Stevens. A cast said to number 200 will begin rehearsals next week.

Achmed Abdullah, novelist, has an assignment to write a Jack Holt starring production, "Too Tough to Kill," based on the story by J. D. Newsome . . . John Boles, who will next be seen in "Bottoms Up," a Buddy DeSylva production, has been made a Kentucky colonel on the honorary staff of Gov. Ruby Laffoon . . . Adolph Menjou will be seen in "The Trumpet Blows," in which George Raft will play a bull fighter. Frances Drake will play the feminine lead . . . Kitti Gallian, young French actress, discovered by Winfield Sheehan in London, will play the leading role in "Marie Galente," from the novel by Jacques Deval . . . Upon completion of his role in Paramount's "Good Dame," with Sylvia Sidney, Fredric March will leave Hollywood by boat for a vacation in New York. Mrs. March and their adopted daughter, Penelope, will accompany him. They expect to return to Hollywood about the middle of February . . . Gloria Stuart will play the leading role in "The Countess of Monte Cristo." It will give Miss Stuart a chance to sing again. She has recently completed singing roles opposite Roger Pryor in "I Like It That Way" and opposite John Boles in "Beloved."

First Beau of Ruby Works Near Al

Ruby Keeler's husband and her first beau have been working on two neighboring sound stages at the Warner studios recently. Ruby's hubby, Al Jolson, is busy in "Wonder Bar" on stage two in that studio. Ruby's first beau was William Janney, a young actor now playing the brother role opposite Jean Muir in the picture "As The Earth Turns," which moves daily from one sound stage to another on the same lot.

Young Janney met Ruby during their first year in the high school which was also attended by Helen Chandler, Gene Raymond and several other Hollywoodites. And it was Janney who used to carry Ruby's books home from school.

Maugham's 'The Circle' In Hotel Schenley

The second winter production of the Pittsburgh Civic Playhouse, W. Somerset Maugham's comedy of manners, "The Circle," will be presented tonight in the Hotel Schenley Theater. Matinee and evening performances will be given tomorrow. Cast in the play are Jean Dahl, Fern Ball, Emanuel Breakstone, George Hildebrand, Alfred E. Smith, Mary Hamilton, Wilmer Swartley and Malcolm McAlpine.

Young Warner Starlet To Marry Rancher In New York

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 15.—Just as I've been telling you, Pat Wing, pretty Warner starlet, and Bill Perry, wealthy young rancher, are to be married this month. Pat and her sister, Toby, leave here today for New York, where the wedding will take place in the home of Mr. Perry's grandmother, Mrs. Ben A. Hagan, of the Kentucky Hagans.

While Pat was rushing around yesterday buying a trousseau and making last-minute arrangements, the blonde Toby was, if anything, even more excited. She makes no secret of her fondness for Maurice Chevalier, and the French star is expected back in this country soon.

Miss Wing

"If I stay in New York until after the first of the year, I hope I'll be able to meet him at the boat," said Toby.

Both the girls have been granted three weeks leaves of absence—Pat from Warners and Toby from Paramount.

The honeymooners expect to return to Hollywood, but will sail for Europe in September. Pat is to continue her film career.

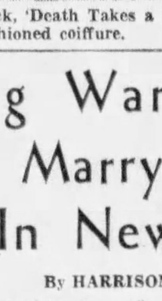
Not even Greta Garbo is to have more privacy in the future than Marlene Dietrich. Orders have gone out barring all visitors from the "Catherine the Great" set. In order not to overwork the guards, Director Josef Sternberg has devised a novel strategem.

There are only two doors to the stage. The one at the side bears this sign:

"Use other door. Set blocks this entrance."



Miss Dietrich

But the door at the end warns:

"Fresh paint. Keep out. Use side door."

Madge Evans is taking no chances. Since her Pekingese, "Minnie," bit Una Merkel in the nose, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star has taken out a substantial public liability policy to protect her if the animal happens to bite someone who might sue.

A very sleepy-eyed George E. Stone showed up on the "Viva Villa" set Monday morning. Seems that he and Gracie Allen played an 11-hour marathon bridge game Sunday night against George Burns and Ruth Romaine.

The final score was Stone and Allen, 64,430; Burns and Romaine, 47,980.

Imagine Dorothea Wieck's surprise when several photographers rushed up to Arrowhead and demanded to take her picture last week end. They thought she was Greta Garbo. In addition to composing a song in Ida Lupino's honor, Teddy Joyce, the master of ceremonies, gave the English star an expensive suit of Chinese lounging pajamas before he left for the East . . . Evelyn Venable, still unkissed by a movie leading man, will go to Cincinnati to spend Christmas with her father, Prof. Emerson Venable . . . Laura La Plante and Bill Seiter went dancing to Ted Fiorito's music at the Cocoanut Grove the other evening. After her long absence, Laura is having a swell time touring the Hollywood late spots. Elizabeth Allan will have to spend Christmas without her husband, W. J. O'Brien. He left Wednesday night for a two-month trip to England. Herbert Marshall gave him a big going-away party.

Once Jan Lov; Has Changed

HOLLYWOOD.

Blue-eyed Jeannette Loff of the golden hair can always wonder what would have happened to her screen career had she followed her desire and made her screen deput some six years ago as "Jan Lov."

Jeannette is Scandinavian by descent, her mother Norwegian and her father Danish. The family name once was Lov, and Jeannette as a child was called Jan.

It was Jan Lov that she played the organ in theaters in Portland, Ore., and sometimes appeared singing in theater prologs, during vacations from school.

But when she went to Hollywood and signed a contract with Cecil B. DeMille, who seems to like American-sounding names, he wouldn't let her be anything but Jeannette Loff.

As Jeannette Loff, of course, she was sentenced to perpetual ingenue roles, which is why, even though she is still Jeannette Loff, she regards her return to films after two years on the stage as a turning point. The picture is "Mating Time," and she plays a country girl who goes bad.

"She turns out all right in the end," smiles Jeannette, sitting on the cream and blue davenport in her cream and blue and white apartment—her own idea, incidentally — "but what a change for me after playing so many nice girls! And they chose me from 50 other girls tested—do you suppose Broadway could have done all that for me?"

Virile Film In Fulton

By HI HOWARD

Spencer Tracy and a speedy out-of-the-ordinary plot make "The Mad Game," new Fulton feature, a good show. In spite of improbabilities, sincere acting and the earnest and determined spirit of the dialogue persuades the audience to forget real-life facts.

This show is Hollywood's powerful thrust at the kidnaping racket, "the mad game." The actors seldom forget their responsibility.

In spite of standardized thrills—the police race to the rescue, the train holdup, the speeding car—they make the audience feel that here is a vital problem which demands action and honest law enforcement.

Spencer Tracy is a sort of genial Al Capone who is making a fortune in the old-time interior decorating business until Uncle Sam checks up on his income tax. He learns in Atlanta that a United States judge can't be fixed.

But prison doesn't embitter Tracy. When his old pals commercialize the "snatch" racket, after the return of beer and legal liquor puts them "out of work," Tracy pleads for a chance to fight on the law's side. And gets it.

In a round-up of "public enemies," Tracy is ahead of the federal detectives. Before he falls, he fires two shots—and breaks the back of one gang of criminals. In the movies, they like to personify the forces of evil and crime in one man. It is too bad that the real thing is not so conveniently concentrated.

Mary and Doug

JUST BETWEEN ourselves there must be something wrong with this game called matrimony. When a couple of folks like Pickford and Fairbanks go blooey, I develop a sneaking hunch that the gag is not quite what it's cracked up to be. If they couldn't be happy together, who the devil can?

Surely no other couple ever had a better start in the Happiness Handicap. They were twenty lengths in the lead when the minister mumbled his magic. And, brothers and sisters, that's a lead in any race.

On the day they were married those two had everything. They were absolute tops in their profession. They were the aristocrats of the picture business. They were famous the world over. And they both had plenty of dough—which often helps a little in the long run.

Come to think of it, they aren't so very different today. If we tried to find a sob story here, it would be a pretty difficult search. They're still the aristocrats of the picture business, even though that is a dubious distinction. They're still famous the world over, and they still have plenty of dough. If you call that doing badly, I am Aimee McPherson's Easter bonnet.

The talkies, of course, didn't do either of them any good. I thought Mary did a swell job in "Coquette"—but who was I against several million legitimate critics? I still think she would ring the box office bell if she could find a suitable vehicle.

I saw Fairbanks but once in the talkies, and that was enough. It was a thing called "Robinson Crusoe," and Doug played a big he-man as though he were broadcasting a bedtime story for the kiddies. Was that a picture!

It's strange, too, because Fairbanks was a Broadway star before he hit the Hollywood silents. If anyone in Hollywood figured to be a riot in the talkies, it was he. But something slipped up somewhere. Maybe it was a feeling that, with the Fairbanks' name, anything would do.

Lots of folks get that way, you know . . .

But I don't think the talkies had much to do with their final split-up. If that were the case, the blow-off would have arrived long before this. No, it must have been something much deeper than that.

The legal document that Mary filed didn't tell us very much. Among the whereases and wherefores, we were informed that Doug had no interest in life other than to travel. That, really, was the sole complaint. Ashleys to Ashleys, and dust to dust!

Over in London, where Doug is giving a fine imitation of a social climber, he is very wisely saying nothing to the press. And in New York, Mary speaks about the weather when reporters speak about her husband. Maybe the weather and this romance have something in common at that. They're both cold.

Thus, with nobody doing any talking, the best we can do is to guess at the reasons for the suit. Perhaps I'm making a mountain out of a hill-billy, and the thing isn't important enough to warrant the space it's getting. Perhaps some folks feel that way. I don't.

After all, Mary Pickford was the idol of every picture fan in nation at the height of her career. There wasn't a shopgirl who didn't speak of her in awe, and there wasn't a debutante who wouldn't have been more than happy to change places with her. She made women feel that there was something to this romance business after all. Many a husband grew unjustly suspicious of his wife when he returned home after a Mary Pickford matinee.

And that Fairbanks! Wasn't he the hairy-chested hero, though! He was to the men what Mary Pickford was to the women. Will you ever forget him as he snatched cannonballs from out of cannons, threw them back at the thousands of men who were defending the castle, climbed walls of spikes, knocked out 50 soldiers with one punch, rescued the girl from 85 armed villains, dived with her into the river a thousand feet below—and landed on the deck of an American battleship? Boy, that was a thrill!

Yes, these two people were a very definite part of a certain American era. It would have been better had they remained together always. Then, at least, we mugs could have had one marriage to point at and say: "Look at Dough and Mary. They're still together, aren't they? How about them, you scoffers-at-romance?"

But, sadly enough, it wasn't to be. Maybe Mary arose one morning and said to herself:

"Look here, Mary. You're over 21 now. The first flush of your romance with Doug has long since died. Your public expects you to stay married—but your public isn't everything in life. Doug wants to travel, as he puts it. You're plenty young enough to do a little traveling on your own part. So why keep up the pretense any longer?"

And maybe, at the same time, Doug was looking at himself in a mirror and saying:

"Look here, Lord Fairbanks. You're no longer a kiddie. The hair is getting plenty thin, and you're not finding the things you want in life these days. Mary's a swell woman and all that—but, after all life passes so rapidly. You have given the public just as much as the public ever gave you. Why not take advantage of the years that are left, and do as you want to do?"

If that's the way it happened, it's okay with me—and it should be okay with the rest of the public. But, deep down, something tells me that Pickford would have gone on until the end if Fairbanks had been willing . . .

Just a moment, folks. The clippings on the Pickford-Fairbanks romance are on my desk, and I see they have been married for 13 years. I didn't realize it was that long, and I must apologize for this entire article.

Married 13 years in Hollywood! They rate more than a divorce! They deserve medals!

The closing morning musicale at Hotel Schenley for this series presented Carolyn Hunt-Mahaffey, contralto, and Helene Kremer, pianist, yesterday morning.

Mr. Lissfelt

The newcomer, Miss Kremer, was most cordially received. Everyone seemed to sense at the depth of her playing a solid understanding of her music. She learned in Leipzig where finger discipline is good and where we were all taught that the piano is an art instrument, not a drum.

There is clarity in her playing, and, as in her Bach, a nicety in phrasing. What I miss most is spontaneity in feeling; her music seems calculated too far and her tone a little too cold for Chopin, though admirable for the more brilliant passages of Liszt. As encore she gave a prelude of Debussy.

Mrs. Mahaffey's voice sounded unusually warm yesterday, easily adaptable to her Brahms. Her best offering was the Berlioz aria, "La Captive," and the mezza voce, "Night Was Made of Loveliness and Prayer." As encore she sang the Christmas carol, "Holy Night," effectively.

Straight Hair Prized By Ann Harding

Ann Harding's hair is one of her prize assets in beauty, and she wears wigs only when playing old ladies or young ones with marcels. In "Westward Passage," because Ann won't tolerate a curling iron, that regular wave was produced on a mop of false hair, with Ann's own flattened beneath it.

The once popular custom of bleaching or dyeing as various roles required has gone by the boards. Wigs are too convenient as well as harmless to the natural hair.

Miss Sullavan's Next Is Popular Novel

Margaret Sullavan's second motion picture will be "Little Man, What Now?" So favorable was the reception of her first picture, "Only Yesterday," that Carl Laemmle, Jr., has decided to star the young woman in this picturization of the Hans Fallada novel. Frank Borzage will both produce and direct "Little Man, What Now?"

Scotch Blood to Fore And Bus Is O. K.

With the exception of Gwenllian Gill, of Edinburgh, Scotland, who is putting her money in the bank, and riding the buses, most of the six young people who were awarded long-term Paramount contracts as a result of their work in "The Search for Beauty" gave Hollywood automobile salesmen a fild day. Four purchased new cars outright a few hours after signing their contracts. The fifth, Alfred Delcambre, of Dallas, Tex., obtained a leave of absence to return home and drive his own car back.

TELL IT TO ELSIE

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Should Women Give Up Jobs To Help Their Husbands?

Sophie wanted to know.

She was climbing up in the business world—saw a bright future before her—while her Big Boy seemed to be at a standstill. Then his chance came—a job with a better salary, a bigger future. But he'd have to go to a distant city.

And Sophie refused to give up her job and go with him.

According to her, he'd either have to wait for a chance where they were then, or go without her. But because he argued with her, she wanted to know what we thought.

Here's Margaret, with plenty of answer!

Do you agree with her?

Dear Elsie Robinson:

I've just finished reading about Sophie's dilemma, and I believe that she should go with Bud to that new job. I think that if she cared for her husband as a wife should, she would want not only to give him his chance, but to give him her company and help, as well.

Whether she worked or not, when Bud married her, he undertook the responsibility of caring for her, and perhaps a family. If a marriage is going to endure, both the man and the woman have to work to make it endure.

I believe a woman should not marry unless she is willing that her marriage, and the upbuilding of her husband's success, should come before her job.

WORK TEMPORARY

Two people divided, pulling in opposite directions, can't make a success of any marriage. And after all, the man's job is the most important. His work is an endless thing. A married woman's work at an outside job shouldn't be her whole life. It is more or less a temporary thing, and under most conditions it comes to an end when she has children.

It is true that many women work after their marriage, particularly those who have made a desirable success in a profession or the arts. Some such marriages succeed. But not one of them can succeed if the woman insists on her success coming before her husband's. And I think that being a good wife is a full time job in itself, anyway.

And there is another angle. When a man marries, he gives up a thing that is precious to him—his freedom. I think it is only fair for his wife to consider his happiness, his welfare, in return.

I'm not writing about something I know nothing of, either. I am married. Before I met my husband, I laughed at the idea of ever "sacrificing" what I was pleased to call "my career" for any "mere male." I shunned my kitchenette like the plague. I scorned knowledge of the domestic arts. But that was before I fell in love.

RESIGNED POSITION

When I married, a little over a year ago, I resigned from my position (an excellent one, too), as a matter of course. If I had a pang at giving up my "financial independence," my husband must have had a similar pang at giving up his independent bachelor existence. Something is lost for everything that is gained.

Evidently, we each felt that we were gaining something in our marriage that compensated us for what we had lost. No one has a right to marry who doesn't feel that way.

My husband's income has been reduced since our marriage, but even that hasn't made me complain. If I could get another job that would leave me free enough to do my job as a wife, I would take it—but I would not jeopardize my marriage.

In no case would I allow any job of mine to take precedence over my husband's, or over my job of being his wife. Married people have to live as a unit, or it is no real marriage—and Sophie should give up that job of hers, and give Bud his chance. MARGARET.

Do you agree with Margaret?

Should the husband's job always come first?

If so—why?

Let's have your ideas.

It is a sweet custom—sending greeting cards at Christmas time, and surely nothing is more welcome than a Christmas letter to dear ones far away.

The Christmas seal, which is for sale at this time of the year for the benefit of the National Tuberculosis Association, makes a bright little ornament for the page of your letter and the back of your envelope.

While it carries the season's greeting it helps a worthy cause.

Write a word of cheer to those who will be happy to hear from you. Remembrance and good wishes are the heart's best gifts.

Dicky Tries to Dodge Job of Punishing the Boys

Dicky's appeal to me to go down to his room, to which he had sent Junior and Roderick for punishment, and "straighten out the kids" for him did not strike a particularly responsive chord in my consciousness.

For a fraction of a second my lips trembled upon a refusal of his request, and then my mother - in - law unexpectedly saved me the trouble of answering him.

"Richard, I am ashamed of you," she said truculently. "You know how much Margaret has on hand today, and how tired she is. Besides, it is your place to discipline those boys. They will think you're weak if you send someone else to them."

"I am weak," Dicky grumbled. "If I start in to beat them up, they'll probably combine forces and sit on my chest. But they wouldn't dare touch Madge. She has the high sign on both of them."

My mother-in-law sniffed.

"Yes; I can see you touching either of those young ones," she said caustically. "Beat them up, indeed! You've never had spunk enough to slap Richard Second's little finger."

I felt the pressure of Harriet's fingers upon my arm, urging me to hurry, and when we were descending the stairs, out of hearing of her mother, she laughed softly.

HARRIET GRATEFUL

"Poor mother!" she said. "What do you suppose she would have done to Richard if he ever had whipped Junior?"

"My imagination fails me," I retorted, with an answering smile. "But she was a dear to play up to me just now."

"Yes, she was," Dicky's sister assented, then added earnestly, "but that is because you have been such a dear all these years. I am not a woman of many words, Margaret, but I do want you to know that I appreciate deeply what you have done for mother. I expected that she would end her days with me, you know, and when that became impossible because of Edwin—you know—"

I nodded, and returned the pressure of her hand, for the effect of my mother-in-law's captiousness upon the highly strung nervous organism of her brilliant son-in-law had been such that Harriet had not dared to have her longer as a permanent inmate of their home. Yet there was a very real and deep affection between the big surgeon and his mother-in-law, and there had been so effective and kindly a conspiracy among us all, that she had never dreamed the real reason for the change in her abode—believed, I was sure, that Dicky and I needed her more than did Harriet and Edwin.

"I feel that I owe you an especial debt," Harriet began again, "because you have in a way taken my place with mother."

"No one could do that, Harriet," I returned quickly.

"In one sense, no, of course; but in another, yes," she persisted. "No daughter of her own could have been kinder to her, or more patient with her."

LONG DISTANCE CALL

"I love her, Harriet," I said simply, and knew that I spoke the truth.

"I know you do," she returned, "and she loves you dearly. I only hope in the years to come, when Junior marries, he will bring you as good a daughter-in-law as you have been."

"Thank you," I said fervently, and a bit huskily, for such praise from haughty, reserved Harriet Braithwaite meant much. I had no opportunity to say anything more, however, for as we came into the lower hall the telephone rang, and Marion, who was nearest the living room door, broke off her conversation with Ronald and answered it.

"New York calling," she said, and I had a premonitory dread of something unpleasant in the offing.

"Yes, Mrs. Richard Graham is here," she went on. "No, I am not she, but I will call her."

She gave me the telephone with a muttered "Forgive me, Auntie Madge, I ought to have asked first if you wanted to talk to anybody."

"That is perfectly all right, dear," I told her, but my fingers clasping the telephone were reluctant, and I dreaded vaguely to hear the voice which should speak to me.

I had not long to wait to have my vague dread realized, as Avis Arlen's voice came to my ears.

"Surprise! Surprise!" she said gayly. "You never can guess where I am!"

Hints for the Household

Salmon repays careful cooking. It should be of even color throughout, equally flaky everywhere, and cooked so that the flakes are just on the verge of separating. It should be boiled very slowly, but steadily. First wrap in oiled paper, then in a band of linen, and tie up. Place a folded cloth in the saucepan under the fish, and add salt and a dash of vinegar to the water. Ten minutes per pound with 10 minutes over is a good allowance of time.

A nice fruit salad can be made as follows: Slice oranges, one to each person, into a bowl, cover with fine sugar, then pour over a very little lemon juice. Add enough fresh milk to well float the fruit. Stand two or three hours—or over night—when the juices and milk will be a thick cream. Any sort of fruit, fresh or tinned, can be added or substituted.

French chalk will remove grease stains from the most delicate material if sprinkled over it on the wrong side. Leave the chalk on until it has absorbed all the grease. Then shake off, and press on the wrong side with a warm, but not with a hot, iron. If you get oil or grease upon your crepe de chine dress material, lay a little carbonate of magnesia on the stains; hold it in front of the fire for a minute, and then gently rub off with cotton wool. The stains will disappear.

New blankets sometimes have a disagreeable odor. You can help to modify this by using camphor blocks, or, if you dislike the smell of camphor, make two or three small muslin bags containing cotton wool, sprinkled with oil of lavendar. Do not allow these to touch the blankets for fear of stains, but hang them on hooks in the linen cupboard.

Shelled green peas are delicious if cooked on lettuce leaves in a pan with very little water indeed. Sprinkle with salt, add a knob of butter, and cook 30 minutes, placing the pan on an asbestos mat.

Shantung, or tussore silk, is very easily laundered if a little care is taken. Make a warm lather with soap flakes, and squeeze the articles gently to remove the dirt, rinse in two or three clean waters, and press or squeeze, but do not wring dry. Let the silk be absolutely dry before ironing; use a hot iron, and do the wrong side first, finishing on the right side when the iron is getting cool.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Lost Opportunities

Sir Guy Domville, of London, is one of the strongest Contract players in England. He has played as a member of two teams representing England in international competition and his judgment as to Dummy and defensive play is very fine. Hence in judging the hand below, which was played in a rubber game at Crockford's Club, London, Sir Guy, in remarking that the hand illustrates many points of bad play, states no less than the truth. The bidding too was most peculiar, particularly West's failure, with the six-card suit, to keep the bidding open for his partner, who had made the first bid. The final contract of three no-trump is not at all unreasonable.

East, Dealer.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♡	Pass	Pass	2 ♣
2 ◇	2 ♠	Pass	3 NT
Pass	Pass	Pass

While the Opening lead of the spade Knave would have taken away any chance North had of making the contract, East cannot be condemned for deciding to open his fourth-best heart. He apparently has entries to diamonds and possibly one in clubs and thus may be able to establish one of his long suits in time to defeat the contract.

North won this trick with the Queen, and not wishing to use one of Dummy's spade honors for the club finesse, he played the Ace of clubs, and luckily dropped the King. He now could have formed a very good picture of East's holding, which quite probably included five hearts, five diamonds, and, as the club King was a marked singleton, two spades. If this was correct, West, then, could hold no diamonds and had a maximum of three hearts. Since North needed to establish but one trick more to insure his contract, being able to count on four clubs, two spades and two hearts, the correct play was to establish the diamond trick at once. Instead, however, North set up his club suit, and West, in the lead with the Ten of clubs, returned a heart. Thus East and West won one club, one diamond and three heart tricks, defeating the contract.

It is unnecessary to say that Sir Guy Domville did not play the Dummy, but in forwarding the hand remarked that he held the South cards.

TODAY'S QUESTION

South, Dealer.

Neither side vulernable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
3 NT	Pass	Pass	4 ♠
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

What should South lead, holding:

♠ A K Q ♡ A K 7 4 ◇ A K 8 6 ♣ A 6

and why?

Answer—South's only safe lead is the King of spades to see Dummy and to enable him to draw any small trumps in Dummy that might take tricks. In the actual hand the doubled contract was made because the Ace of clubs was led and ruffed in Dummy and East's hand contained only spades and clubs.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Canapes and Cocktails

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me how to serve canapes with cocktails, in the living room. Are they served on individual plates with forks, or are they eaten with the fingers? What kind of forks, if a fork is proper? T

On one tray are the cocktails, with the pile of cocktail napkins on the side of the tray. With one hand we take the cocktail glass, and with the other, the cocktail napkin. After this tray has been passed, the tray with the canapes on it is passed. Usually no separate plate is passed for the canapes, and when the canapes are served with the cocktails in this way, in the living room, no forks are provided. An important point is to keep the canapes of such simple varieties that they may be eaten conveniently in the fingers. As a matter of fact, canapes are becoming increasingly simpler, for hostesses have discovered that most guests pass up the more complicated kinds of canapes in favor of the simpler ones.

Future In-Laws

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My brother gave his girl friend an engagement ring. Her mother did not call up my mother. I told my brother that his future mother-in-law should have telephoned my mother. He says that that isn't right . . . that our mother should call up first. Just who is right?

ANXIOUS.

Your brother is right when he maintains that it is the young man's mother and father who make the first social move, after their son has told them of the engagement. You see, the idea is that the young man, his mother and father come to see their son's fiancee to welcome her into the family. And the personal call is the thing to be done, not the telephone call. Indeed so important is this visit-of-welcome that tradition decrees that it should be made, if possible, within 24 hours after they have been told the happy news. And if it is impossible for [illegible] to make this visit with his wife, she goes alone, and as soon as possible.

SUBWAY ISSUE HANGING IN BALANCE

The fate of Pittsburgh's six million dollar subway bond issue still hangs in the balance.

City Council considered voting for its repeal yesterday with the thought of easing the load on the people's borrowing powe.

But the Transit Commision appeared, headed by Gerge S. Davidson, chairman, and asked that the bond issue be kept in readiness in case a chancecomes to build a rapid transit system, possibly with federal aid.

Council listened and did not vote.

The discussion of the merits and demerits of a subway in Pittsburgh was extremely frank. Several Councilmen said the needfor a subway had passed and that he people today would not vote or such service.

DAVISON AGAINST IT

Councilman Frank L. Dugga asked Davison whether he though the people now favored a subway Davison replied:

"I have more expressions against the proposition than for it."

President of Council Harry A. Little declared that in his opinion it would be dangerous for Council to repeal a people's bond issue.

L. W. Monteverde, of the Transit Commission, suggested it could be repealed later. He advised against hasty action.

Little demanded to know why the Transit Commission had not interested the Pittsburgh Railways Company in the subway, and Montverde replied that the railways company is interested to the extent of paying the city any saving over present operations of surface cars.

Little said:

"Yes, the Railways Company gets the first cut."

Edward Snodgrass, Jr., advised against the repeal of the bond issue. He said it might be well to dismiss the idea of building a rapid transit system and consider only a downtown subway.

HOPE FOR U. S. AID

The defense of the subway bond issue presented by the Transit Commission included the fact that it would not relieve the strain on council's borrowing power since it is a people's bond issue; that plans have already been prepared for a rapid transit line from the North Side and downtown to Oakland and East Liberty; that studies indicate large operating savings may be expected, and that the city should be in a position to undertake the work on short notice, if Federal aid were extended.

Councilman P. J. McArdle declared that the original subway proposal in 1919 was made with little or no study, and that plans were developed within 60 days.

North Side Man Hit by Two Autos

Struck by two automobiles, one of which failed to stop, L. A. Blume, of 4 ' Alpine avenue, North Side, was in Presbyterian Hospital today with head injuries, fractured ribs and a broken nose.

Joseph E. Glynn, 30, of 1221 Woodlawn avenue, who police said drove one of the machines, was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Acne Often Due to An Infection

Many health inquiries come from persons in all walks of life. Hardly a day passes that I do not receive letters from young boys and girls, most of them requesting information and advice about a common skin disturbance called "acne."

Dr. Copeland.

Acne is an inflammation of the glands of the skin. It usually afflicts the young shortly after they have reached the age of puberty. It is a common skin complaint of adults, too, particularly if they are careless about their personal hygiene, diet and other health habits.

The affliction is characterized by small pimples and blackheads. These are found on the face, shoulders and back. The skin is greasy and has an unhealthy pallor. As a rule, the pimples become infected, and, if untreated, may disfigure and permanently scar the face.

Though the actual cause of acne never has been discovered, it is probably due to some disturbance of the glandular system of the body. Many authorities believe that the disorder is caused by a germ called "bacillus acnes." This germ has been found in many cases of acne. But another germ, "staphylacoccus aureus," is commonly associated with those cases where pus forms in the pimples.

Since infection plays a role in this disorder it is important that the victim of this disturbance have his teeth, tonsils and nasal sinuses examined to be sure no infection is present. Diet and proper bowel elimination are especially important in the correction of this annoying skin disturbance. I would advise all of my young readers suffering from acne to avoid starchy and sweet foods, such as candy, cake, pastries and puddings.

This may prove to be a hardship. But you will be delighted with the beneficial results from this simple rule. In addition, coffee, tea, cocoa and stimulating beverages should be avoided, as well as fried foods, gravies, spices, nuts, smoked and pickled foods.

I am often asked what treatment I advise for an irritated skin and what soap is most beneficial. It is best to use a soap that is bland and free from all strong chemicals. The face should be carefully cleansed with warm water and soap at least twice a day. The blackheads should be removed with a blackhead extractor, which can be purchased at any drug store.

Never squeeze a pimple, and above all, remember that if pus is present, the pustules should be opened by a physician. Cases of acne are successfully treated by X-ray, but this form of treatment should only be decided upon by your physician. Do not become discouraged. Persistent care of the skin and attention to the diet will lead to the clearing of a poor complexion and the cure of acne.

AUTUMN LEAF PATTERN 406

Old Time Quilt Popular Today

Autumn Leaf is one of the patterns that has been handed down to us from the earliest days of quiltmaking. Its simplicity of construction—its practical quality—make it as much a favorite today as in olden times. It offers the opportunity for a variety of arrangements in materials. Sometimes it is seen with alternate rows of the leaves done in different materials and the alternate plain block of a contrasting material as illustrated. Often, too, we find it with the leaves all of the same materials and the entire background done in one material. Either arrangement is easy to imagine with the leaves done in the lovely colors of autumn. Yardages for both the arrangements described are given with the pattern.

Pattern 406 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10 cents for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

RFC LENIENCY PLEDGED TO RAILROADS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—A policy of leniency toward seven railroads which have defaulted on loan payments due the government was placed in effect today by the RFC, Jesse H. Jones, RFC chairman, said:

"We will take no steps to force these roads into receivership or bankruptcy.

"The government is only one of the creditors in each instance. If other creditors should institute court proceedings to protect their interests the RFC naturally would co-operate with them."

B. & O. LAWYER HITS MERGER

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Claiming the Prince plan would mean "the dismembering of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad," John J. Cornwall, chief counsel for the line, told a gathering of 1,000 persons last night that "Connellsville will be a way station" if the project is not defeated.

Cornwall, former governor of West Virginia, said the plan, calling for the mergering of all lines into several giant systems, would "seriously after West Virginia, where the Baltimore and Ohio is the principal road."

Cornwall, who came here in his special car from Pittsburgh after addressing a gathering in that city, said approximately 300,000 railroad employes throughout the country would be "adversely affected by the plan."

He predicted that the proposal would never be realized since "it too seriously affects too many people."

PENNSY OPENS PHILA. STATION

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The main waiting room and concourse of the Pennsylvania Railroad's 10 million dollar station at Thirtieth and Market streets was opened to the public today.

Under construction since April, 1931, the huge structure of classic Roman design is one of the few stations in this country from which trains leave for the four points of the compass.

It is now handling 537 trains daily, of which 88 per cent are electrically operated.

PENNSY AWARDS STEEL ORDER

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Supplementing a recent award of contracts for 100,000 tons of new steel rails, the Pennsylvania Railroad announced today that contracts have been awarded for approximately 51,000 tons of angle bars, tie plates and spikes to lay this amount of rails and for general maintenance.

The company said this material, including the new rails, which is to be delivered by July 1, represents an expenditure of slightly more than $6,000,000.

U. S. to Loan Pennsy 84 Million Dollars

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Henry M. Waite, deputy administrator, said yesterday an agreement had been reached between the Public Works Administration and the Pennsylvania Railroad on a contract to cover the $84,000,000 loan, made several weeks ago, for electrification of its Washington-New York line.

Waite said officials of the railroad were in Washington and that he expected to be able to complete the contract today.

AVOID THE DANGER OF CONSTIPATION

Delicious Cereal Overcomes This Condition Safely and Pleasantly

The first signs of constipation may be headaches, tired feelings, sallow complexions, sleeplessness, loss of appetite. If neglected, constipation may seriously impair health.

Today, you can banish constipation by simply eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also a good source of iron for the blood.

This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle in action similar to leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, and gently clears out the intestinal wastes.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of common constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Lunches for Winter Hikes Now Problem

Kabobs Are Fun to Prepare as Well As to Eat

With the holidays in the offing and the air crisp and inviting, many of you, Prudence Penny is sure, will be wanting to go on winter hikes. And when you're hiking, eating is of supreme importance.

If you develop a ravenous appetite when out walking, you'll want something substantial when meal time comes around. Kabobs, sent in by Rosemary Farmerie, are a good thing to fix over an open fire. Then, too, you'll have almost as much fun making them as you will eating them.

On the other hand you may prefer to stay close to your warm fireside on cold winter days. For you who do grandmother's cream scones served with a cup of hot tea will be most satisfying.

Whatever your desires, send in your recipe suggestions to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and in return you may receive the $5 prize awarded daily or one of the 10 $1 prizes. No recipes will be returned.

Five-Dollar Prize Winner

MRS. WILLIAM J. HALL,
5381½ Elizabeth street, East Liverpool, O.
GRANDMOTHER'S CREAM SCONES

Two cups flour.
Three teaspoons baking powder.
Four teaspoons sugar.
One teaspoon salt.
Four tablespoons butter.
Two eggs.
One-half cup cream.

Sift dry ingredients together, rub in butter with fingertips. Beat eggs, add cream and mix with flour mixture. Toss on floured board, roll out to one-half inch in thickness, cut in shapes, brush with white of egg, sprinkle with sugar and bake in moderate oven—375 degrees F.

Ten $1 Prize Winners

MRS. J. H. WILKINS,
1611 Princess avenue, Beechview.
NESSEROLE PUDDING

Soak two teaspoons gelatine in one-half cup cold water. Put one cup milk in double boiler and let come to boil, then add yolks of three eggs well beaten with one-third cup sugar, add gelatine and cook a moment and cool. Add one-third cup raisins (grapes may be used), eight macaroons dried and rolled fine, two tablespoons chopped walnuts, one teaspoon vanilla, beaten egg whites. Pour in mould and put in refrigerator over night.

MRS. N. J. ROSSITER,
118 West Ohio street.
SINGLE DISH DINNER

One cup cooked spaghetti.
Two cups cooked peas.
Two cups cooked tomatoes.
One and one-half pounds sausage.
One small onion.
Two cups bread crumbs.
One-half cup grated cheese.
Salt and pepper to taste.

Mix spaghetti with peas and tomatoes. Cook sausage, cut in small pieces, add to vegetables. Cook onion in frying pan, mix with other ingredients. Pour into casserole and bake in oven 325 degrees F. for one hour. Remove from oven and sprinkle with bread crumbs and cheese and return to oven to brown.

MRS. STOWELL C. STEBBINS,
Cathedral Mansions.
SPICED CRANBERRIES

One pint cranberries.
One cup sugar (granulated).
One-half teaspoon cinnamon.
Two teaspoons vinegar.
One-half cup water.
One-half cup raisins.
One-fourth teaspoon ground cloves.

Cook slowly and when nearly thick enough add one-half cup chopped walnuts. (A pleasant change from just cranberry jelly and a good relish to serve with any meat).

EMILY MARR,
Arion street, South Hills.
PRUNE BLANC MANGE

Two tablespoons cornstarch.
Two tablespoons sugar.
Four tablespoons cold milk.
Two-thirds cup hot milk.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-half cup cooked cut prunes.
One-half teaspoon lemon extract.
One-half teaspoon vanilla.

Mix the cornstarch, sugar and salt, and add the cold milk slowly. Gradually add the hot milk. Cook in a double boiler for 20 minutes. Add the prunes, lemon extract and vanilla. Beat well and serve cold with cream.

MISS ROSEMARY FARMERIE,
704 Hemlock street, Avalon.
KABOBS

Eight green peeled sticks of sweet, tasteless wood.
One knife.
One board.
One and one-half pounds beefsteak.
Eight slices bacon.
Salt.

Cut beef into one inch by one-half inch thick cubes. Peel and slice onions. Cut bacon into squares. Thread the pieces of steak, bacon and onion alternately on the sticks, pushing them close together. Quickly sear, close to the hot coals. Then separate and cook more slowly until done. Salt to taste. Serves eight. (Slices of apple, potato and carrot may also be used. This is a splendid hiking recipe).

MRS. J. H. PARE,
624 Boggs avenue, Mt. Washington.
MILK PUDDING FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

One cup rolled oats, uncooked.
One-half cup sugar.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-half teaspoon baking powder.
One egg.
Four cups milk.

Mix rolled oats, sugar and salt with egg, beaten well, and milk and baking powder. Dot with butter and sprinkle with nutmeg. Bake in slow oven.

MRS. J. DWYER,
A WAY TO USE UP COLD MEAT TASTILY IS TO MAKE BURGOUT

Cold meat put through food chopper, macaroni boiled, one can tomatoes, seasoning, salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce, any cold gravy on hand. Put into a baking dish a layer of chopped meat, then one of maccaroni which has been broken into small pieces and boiled in water until tender, then layer of tomatoes, and repeat until dish is full. Season the meat layers with Worcestershire sauce (or any other seasoning most preferred), and salt; add salt and pepper on tomato and macaroni layers. Pour any cold gravy on hand over top, and the tomato juice until moist enough. Cover top with layer of rolled and buttered cracker crumbs, and bake about one-half hour.

MRS. CORA ALEXANDER,
1317 Wylie avenue.
FISH BOILED

Wrap fish in wet cheesecloth. Combine one-half carrot, one-half onion, two cloves, three sprigs parsley, three pepper-corns, two teaspoons lemon juice, one teaspoon salt, blade of mace, one-half bay leaf, one-half teaspoon paprica, dash celery salt. Cover with two quarts of cold water, when warm add fish, simmer gently. After fish is cooked strain and put broth aside to use again. Simmer 10 minutes to the pound.

VANCE WOLFE,
U. S. Veterans' Hospital, Aspinwall.
BROWNED HASH

One cup chopped cold cooked beef.
One cup cold boiled potatoes diced.
One-half teaspoonful of onion juice.
Two-thirds teaspoon broth.
One-fourth teaspoon pepper.
One tablespoon milk.
One tablespoon butter.

Mix all ingredients thoroughly. Spread the mixture evenly in a hot frying pan in which butter has been placed. Cook without stirring until a crust is formed on the bottom. Fold over like an omelet and serve on a hot platter.

MISS HARRIETTE BARNHOLT,
500 South Braddock avenue.
FIG AND RHUBARB PRESERVES

Six cups figs cut in small pieces.
Six cups rhubarb (inch lengths).
One-fourth finely sliced crystalized ginger.
Six cups sugar.

BUYS SHOES FOR 50 CHILDREN

New shoes for 50 young charges of the Volunteers of America here will be the Christmas gift of an unknown woman who has made arrangements with a North Side store to furnish the footwear, Col. Frank H. Wise, Volunteer regional director, announced today.

The woman, according to Col. Wise, telephoned headquarters at 724 East Diamond street and asked him what would be the most acceptable Yule gift for 50 boys and girls. He advised her of the need of shoes. She replied:

"Well then, send 50 boys and girls to the store and they will be given shoes at my expense."

Pitt Students Aid Italian Chorals

Early Italian chorals and Georgian chants will be sung backstage during the presentation of living productions of nativity scenes from the Giotto frescoes in the Twentieth Century Club tonight.

The program will be under auspices of the Junior League and the Italian Women's Committee. Mrs. Henry Scott, Jr., author of the text of the tableaux, will do the readings, and students of the University of Pittsburgh will enact the characters.

Hanukkah Fete Monday Evening

Synagogue music, folksongs, playlets and a talk by a Jewish leader will be a part of the program.

Leaders of national Jewish organizations will be among the guests. Committee members are: Max I. Amdur, Joseph Syna, G. Eisenstadt, William Shiff, H. Mysels, A. R. Kletz, Louis Yale Borkon, Carl Alpern, H. Levite, P. H. Grodner and S. Mallin.

FOOD BASKETS
—Just "Loads" of Christmas Cheer

. . . for someone! Food baskets literally loaded with fancy things . . . or just practical, plain things (if you feel that way about it) make as fine or finer Christmas gifts than an elaborate gadget to wear, or use! There are dainties for the Snooty Sniffens next door (pate de foi gras, anchovies, candied ginger, whathaveyou) . . . and equally sensibly good ones of canned corn, peaches, a dozen rolls and the "turk" for Mrs. George Washington Brown who does your ironing! It just remains for you to decide which goes to which . . . and leave the rest to Santa, and the stores.

In the pages of this newspaper there are numerous food stores and specialty shops which make a feature of their Christmas baskets. You have a wide selection to choose from . . just go ahead and choose!

PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

CHRISTMAS EVE and the children tucked in bed—the tree trimmed and all of the joyful tasks of Christmas Eve completed! This is a pleasant background for an unhurried, informal, easily prepared late evening supper. Most of the day has been busy with Christmas preparations and meals have been mere snatched bites. Now, with everything finished, there is time to rest and relax around the fireplace and enjoy Christmas Eve. These menus suggest the delightfully informal type of meal especially suitable for such an occasion. Either meal will have an appeal to Santa Claus' hungry helpers!

Cream of mushroom soup (ready to serve), crackers, fried oyster and bacon sandwiches, genuine dill pickles, prepared mustard, celery stuffed with cream cheese and sandwich relish, baked apples stuffed with mincemeat, coffee or hot chocolate.

Chilled tomato juice, cold sliced Virginia ham, potato and olive salad, sweet mustard pickle, apple butter or grape jelly, crusty rolls, butter, fruit cake, coffee.

FRIED OYSTER AND BACON SANDWICHES—

Dip 1 pint large oysters in 2 beaten eggs, seasoned with ½ teaspoon salt, pepper and ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Then dip into cracker crumbs, or rice flakes crumbs and fry in skillet in which ½ pound bacon, sliced thin, has been cooked, then removed. Fry oysters until crisp and golden brown. Place oysters and slices of hot bacon between slices of buttered whole wheat bread. Serve with prepared mustard or chili sauce.

BAKED APPLES STUFFED WITH MINCEMEAT—

Core 6 large red apples, being sure to remove all the core, but do not cut through to the other end of the apple. Pierce with a fork in several places, and arrange apples in a shallow baking dish. Fill cavity of each with mincemeat and pour over them a syrup

$33,676 ADDED TO WELFARE TOTAL

Subscriptions totaling $33,676 have been reported in the Welfare Fund's 1934 budget drive since the final report meeting of the public campaign Monday, officials announced today.

Nearly $10,000 of the amount came from Duquesne, which went over its quota of $18,000 with a grand total of $19,497, and which was organized for the drive for the first time this year, John W. Lawrence, chairman, said.

Individual subscriptions included in the final Duquesne report yesterday were E. R. Crawford, J. S. Crawford and Mary E. Crawford, $5,000; employes of the Carnegie Steel Company, Duquesne plant, $4,850; employes of the Duquesne schools, $2,058; business and professional men's division, $1,644, and the women's division, $444.

Dr. C. V. Allshouse, Mrs. T. J. Tindall and A. C. Cummins headed the Duquesne workers.

Unless the $700,000 shortage in the drive is made up by additional contributions, drastic curtailment of member agencies' services will be necessary, according to officials.

It is understood that some action is being taken in this direction by a small group of citizens, they said.

CLUB TO TAKE 'SANTA' INTO ORPHANAGES

The Almas Club, of Dormont, will begin its annual "Make A Child Happy Christmas" visits next Tuesday night by taking an evening's entertainment and Santa to the Baptist Home and Orphanage on Castle Shannon road, Mt. Lebanon. A similar program will be presented Wednesday evening, at the Toner and DePaul institutes in Brookline.

The German Protestant Home and Orphanage, West Liberty avenue, will be visited Thursday, and the Methodist Episcopal Home for the Aged, Friday.

The Almas Club holiday party, given for all members of the club and their families, will be held Thursday evening, December 28, in the Masonic Temple, Dormont.

The committee in charge of the visitations and party is composed of Ferd C. Beinhauer, Charles F. Preller, Dr. J. M. Luther, Charles E. Gross, Frank D. Godard, A. C. Mills, Charles J. Thomas, James Jenkins, John D. Renshaw, Walter E. Griffin, Allan B. Wells, W. H. Millard, E. O. Johns, George Collins, George D. Ceska, George Gleis, William P. Verner, Charles Young, Ben Wells, Taylor Salsgiver, Albert Staley, C. E. Reichenbach, Herbert Heaston, William E. Best, Harry Irwin, James Sullebarger, Edward Suck, Warren Craig, Paul Scheuneman and Elmer Schneider.

made by boiling together for six minutes, 1 cup sugar and 1½ cups water. Sprinkle apples with sugar and bake in a moderately hot oven (about 400 degrees F.) until tender, basting often with the syrup.

POTATO AND OLIVE SALAD—Peel and dice one quart cold, cooked potatoes. Add 2 tablespoons grated onion, ½ cup stuffed olives, sliced, and mayonnaise to moisten. (Add celery, if desired.) Serve very cold in nests of lettuce, garnishing each salad attractively with slices of hard cooked egg.

The Christmas dinner is the culinary highlight of the festive holiday season. On this day of days, the Christmas tree and gifts are important—but the gathering of the family group around the dinner table occupies a place, all its own, in the day's events.

Planning the menu is not such a great problem, for — as with some other holidays—the dinner is a matter of tradition, and we would not think of changing it except in a few slight details. Modern homemakers are fortunate, however, in that, while the modern Christmas dinner is just as delicious as those of other years, it does not entail nearly the amount of frantic cooking and baking in preparation that was required in by-gone times.

Many of the foods are prepared and ready to serve—delicious soups, pickles, relishes, jellies and mincemeat and puddings—may all be had ready for use with all of the time-consuming preparations eliminated. The decorations for the Christmas dinner should be quite simple.

An attractive method of decorating the dining room and table is to place holly about the lights, walls and pictures, and have as a centerpiece for the table a bowl of fine fruits with sprigs of holly placed among them. A sprig of holly tied with narrow red ribbon may be used at each place at the table. This is not an unusual form of decorating, but it is most effective and appropriate. The following menus are excellent ones for real old-fashioned Christmas dinners—the kind that were enjoyed in our forefathers' time. Much of the preparation for these dinners may be done in the modern way—outside the home.

THE DINNER MENU—Tomato juice cocktail, Christmas canapes, cream of green pea soup (ready to serve), celery, stuffed olives, roast turkey or goose with stuffing, mashed potatoes, creamed Brussels sprouts or onions, fresh cucumber relish, cranberry jelly, Malaga grape and pineapple salad, French dressing, plum pudding (ready to serve), hard sauce, coffee, bon-bons.

TOMATO JUICE COCKTAIL—Combine 2 cups tomato juice, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon pepper sauce, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and ½ teaspoon sugar. Let stand for about an hour, until thoroughly chilled, then strain and serve.

CHRISTMAS CANAPES—Cut slices of bread with star cutter and toast on one side. Spread untoasted side with sandwich spread and place thin strips of pimiento, radiating from center to all points of the star. Chill and serve with tomato juice cocktail.

TURKEY STUFFING—Crumble 1 loaf slightly stale bread and add ½ cup melted butter, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon onion juice, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, if desired, and salt and pepper to suit the taste. Mix thoroughly and press firmly into the turkey. This makes a rich, crumbly stuffing, and is deliciously seasoned.

DUCK HUNTERS DIE IN GALE

International News Service.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 15.—A dramatic fight against freezing weather and a roaring gale brought death to two out of three duck hunters off Stratford today, when a rowboat in which they were sitting overturned and flung them into the water.

The two are Dr. John J. Myersick, young physician, and Joseph A. Salo, billboard salesman, both of Danbury. Minot Barber, business associate of Salo, rescued himself by climbing to the top of the boat and drifting up the Housatonic River in the icy gale.

FIREMAN FINDS HIS HOME AFIRE

F. P. Schatz, a Bellevue fireman, took more interest in his work early today than ever before.

While he was on duty an alarm was sounded from Lincoln avenue. Schatz jumped on the fire truck and responded to the alarm.

EINSTEIN SEES JOY IN STUDY

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Dr. Albert Einstein speaks words of wisdom to students through the medium, "Dink," the monthly humorous publication of Princeton University freshmen.

Says the mathematician in the current issue appearing today:

"I am delighted that I am to live among you young and happy people. If an old student may say a few words to you it would be this:

"Never regard your study as a duty, but as the enviable opportunity to learn to know the liberating influence of beauty in the realm of the spirit for your own personal joy and to the profit of the community to whom your later work belongs."

Since Dr. Einstein came to Princeton in October as a member of the faculty of the institute for advanced study, he has not consented to interviews.

AGED HEIR BEGS TO REMAIN AT MAYVIEW

The U. S. A. is a pretty good place, and Mayview is the brightest spot of all, in the opinion of Henry H. Partridge, an inmate, who prefers to remain there to returning to his native England to claim a fortune of $15,000.

More than six months ago Partridge was notified that a sister in England had died and left him the money, but he continued to live at Mayview. He implored Dr. J. S. Hammers, superintendent of the home, not to force him out.

The Union Trust Company is acting in his interests, while the estate of his sister, Mrs. Alice Allen, in Brierly Hill, England, is being brought to a settlement.

Partridge is pretty old now, a little hard of hearing and forgetful. It is possible that the courts will be asked to appoint a guardian for him if he is not returned to England. Asked what he will do with the money he said:

"I'll send half of it to my sister in Straffordshire, the remainder I shall need for myself."

The aged man left England many years ago to go to Canada. After remaining in the Dominion for a time he crossed over to the United States, and for years worked in the steel mills in the Pittsburgh district.

When the depression came on he found himself penniless, and sought haven at Mayview.

Really Attractive Apron

Pattern 1712

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

Some women will make several of this attractive apron as Xmas gifts for friends; some will make it for themselves—one can never have too many; still others know it offers one of the most delightful opportunities to learn to do home sewing! It's really pretty as can be, as well as comfortable, with the seamings accented by colored binding, and those cute little pockets so efficiently placed. Saves many a good frock, from splashes, too. Choose a gay cotton print, a remnant perhaps, and it will be fresh and crisp-looking.

Pattern 1712 is available in sizes small, medium and large. Small size takes 1½ yards 36-inch fabric, and 7⅞ yards binding. Illustrated stey-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Doctor Says Milk Should Be Drunk Daily

Health authority says it contains all elements necessary for growth and health and is essential to everyone; 'drink milk and be healthy' is cited as wise advice.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.
United States Senator From New York.

There is no doubt that supplying milk to the public is the most important industry in America. Some countries fail to realize its great value, but here it is considered essential. What would we do without milk, cream, butter, cheese, ice cream, and some of the other byproducts of milk?

Milk is a complete food, because it contains all the elements necessary for growth and health. It carries sugar, fat, proteins and mineral ingredients, in proper proportions. A baby, a young child, in fact every human being, needs the mineral content of milk to produce sound teeth and proper bone structure. The other ingredients supply energy, heat and tissue building material.

This food contains vitamins A, B, D and G in good quantities. Without a regular supply of vitamin A people lose their vitality and tend to develop infections of the eyes, ears, nose and throat. In some cases kidney and bladder disorders result.

PROMOTES APPETITE

Vitamin B gives normal tone to the digestive tract and promotes appetite. On a continued diet short in this vitamin, a loss of appetite, sluggish elimination and nervous irritability often result. A total lack causes a muscular paralysis known as "beri-beri."

The young mother needs vitamin B. Without a sufficiency of it her milk may be poor in quality.

Lime and phosphorus are mineral elements required to build the teeth and bones. But unless vitamin D is also provided these tissues will not be normal, and rickets and stunted growth will result.

ESSENTIAL FOOD

The last important vitamin in milk is G. This is essential at all ages. A deficiency causes loss of weight, premature old age, sore mouth and digestive and skin disturbances.

Good wholesome milk is essential to everyone. Children should drink at least a quart of it a day, while adults should take at least a pint. Good health and a good disposition will surely result if this important food is added to your diet.

Of course, the ingredients I have mentioned are not found only in milk. They are also abundant in other foods, such as eggs, salmon, liver, cheese, carrots, beets, lettuce, potatoes and many others, in varying quantities. But the proportion of these valuable elements in milk gives truth to a wise saying, "drink milk and be healthy."

Do you know the Answers?

How many kinds of cheese are there?
Counting the cheeses of all countries, there are between eight and nine hundred varieties.

Is there a wide variety available in America?
Yes—a choice of the finest cheeses in the world is waiting for you at your grocer's.

American, Brick, Domestic Swiss, Limburger, Pimento, and Cream Cheese.

Is cheese digestible?
It certainly is. That's why so many doctors recommend Cream Cheese for babies.

What is the best thing about cheese?
Its goodness, of course. That's what makes it the king of foods. And any dietician will tell you that it's also a rich source of protein and fat as well as vitamins and minerals.

Is cheese a good "buy"?
Yes—pound for pound it is among the cheapest protein foods that can be bought. And there's practically no waste.

Why are newspapers, magazines, and people everywhere talking about cheese this week?

Because this is National Cheese Week. A week to renew or increase your acquaintance with the world's favorite food, and to stimulate the business of the dairy farmers in sympathy with Government plans. Make it a point to buy an extra pound of cheese this week. You'll enjoy it—and you'll be helping the dairy farmers and contributing to better business all along the line.

Borden offers the following fine American-made cheeses—at their best—in special packages that do away with rind and waste, and keep the cheese fresh:

POLICE BATTLE STORIES CLASH

After hearing conflicting accounts of a clash between police and Eduardo Malvido, 27, Mexican consulate secretary, and a friend, Magistrate Raymond Schneider reserved decision today in North Side Police Court when the Mexicans were arraigned on suspicious person charges.

Malvido and Armando Robleda, 27, of 117 West Ohio street, have been in Allegheny General Hospital suffering with broken jaws they said police inflicted in arresting them Thanksgiving morning in West Diamond street. They said they were carrying guns and a knife they had taken from two robbers.

Police testified they arrested the pair after Harry Atwood, 915 Sandusky street, and George Ossman, 51, Perryview avenue, reported two men had stopped them and pointed guns at them.

BONES UPSET BY RICKETS

URBANA, Ill., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—X-ray studies showing that rickets scrambles the interior structure of bones were announced today at the University of Illinois.

Rickets is a bone disease common to children and the X-rays show that it is more dangerous than has been supposed. For in the pictures the bones of recovered children were not the same and never as strong as normal.

The pictures show first that a good strong bone is structurally like a mass of toothpicks carefully laid parallel, bound together in orderly bundles. The bone structures resembling toothpicks are the micelles, extremely small fibrous tissues made largely of calcium.

Rickets scrambles these bone toothpicks, turning them topsy turvy, as if spilled out of a box. After the disease is over the disordered array of bone cells freezes together in whatever pattern the cells happen to have. They do not return to their regimented orderliness.

Goodwill Settlement Yule Fete Tomorrow

A Christmas party will be given tomorrow at Goodwill Settlement, Liberty avenue and Twenty-eighth street. Because of the many children connected with the settlement a series of parties is required so all may share in the holiday fun. More than 1,000 boxes of candy and an equal number of presents will be distributed between now and December 25.

Two Bandit Killers Meet Doom by Noose

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Two Negroes, March Jefferson, 22, and Sam Gordon, 21, paid with their lives from the gallows today for the murder of Morriss Kross, 61, grocer, during a holdup.

Two Fraternities To Dine Saturday

Delta Chapter of Pi Lambda Theta will give a joint dinner session with Phi Delta Kappa at the College Club Saturday. The Rev. Ralph Ockenga, of Point Breeze Presbyterian Church, will deliver the address.

Catholic Societies To Hold Card Party

An informal dance and card party will be held in the ballroom of the William Penn Hotel December 27 under the auspices of Allegheny Council No. 285, Knights of Columbus, and Court Allegheny No. 664, Catholic Daughters of America.

Girl Pianist to Give Series of Recitals

A series of three piano recitals has been planned by Miss Margaret P. Llewellyn, of Cathedral Mansions, to be held tomorrow and on March 17 and May 26 in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel, Wilkinsburg. Assisting artists at the first concert will be Miss Lura Stover, soprano, and Max Kroen, baritone.

Altoona Merchant Dies at Age of 75

ALTOONA, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Charles Edward Giles, retired wholesale merchant, died last night at the age of 75. He was at one time a teacher in Huntingdon County.

FREE IN KILLING, DIES BY GUN

Once in the shadow of the electric chair as he stood trial on a charge of murder, Charles Ruttenberg, 51, was buried today after shooting himself.

Ruttenberg, of 5723 Woodmont street, died in Montefiore Hospital Wednesday night from a bullet wound in the chest inflicted while cleaning a rifle.

He was under indictment in Waynesburg on a charge of arson. The fire which destroyed his store and dwelling near Nemacolin, Greene County, December 1, 1931, resulted in the death of his nephew, Herman Zimmerman.

Ruttenberg moved to Wheeling and was arrested, charged with murder. He was convicted of second degree murder in June, 1932, but the verdict was set aside. Later he was indicted on a charge of arson, and his trial set for the December term.

The Sun-Telegraph Christmas

DOLL LADY

Is in Pittsburgh Again! This Year She Brings Gorgeous

"HONEY-SUCKLE"

"Honeysuckle" is 18 inches tall, just the right size the average little girl would like to cuddle up to. The word beautiful doesn't really describe her. She's more than beautiful—she's GORGEOUS.

"Honeysuckle" has flexible rubber arms and hands and rubber legs that can be washed just the same as you would wash your baby brother's or sister's. And WHAT A SMILE! And behind that smile are the most lovable, most roguish eyes you ever looked into. They open and close and she rolls them from side to side like a real flirt. By pressing her legs or by moving her body forward or back, she says "Ma-ma" in the sweetest voice you ever heard. She's dressed like a little queen in dainty organdy and lace, with bonnet and shoes to match.

Oh, we forget to mention her cute dimples, and just as this was written "Honeysuckle" looked up and seemed to say, "Yes; you forgot to tell them about my rubber panties."

"Honeysuckle" is really the DOLL OF ALL DOLLS, and she is going to be so easy to get for Christmas. Shall I save a "Honeysuckle" for you?"

DOLL LADY HEADQUARTERS
622 GRANT ST.

Open From 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Until Christmas. Come in and Meet "Honeysuckle."

Easy to Get!

Every little girl in Pittsburgh and vicinity can easily secure one of these wonderful dolls for Christmas. All they have to do is to take the subscription blanks out among their neighbors, relatives and friends and get them signed. There is no money to pay and no money to collect. Just get the blanks properly filled in, send them to The Doll Lady Department, Sun-Telegraph Pittsburgh, Pa., and you'll have "Honeysuckle" for your Christmas playmate.

Do Your Christmas Buying Now!

Help Make a Merry Christmas for Others

IF YOU delay your Christmas shopping until the last few days before the holiday you are depriving a great many people of the possibility of employment. Merchants are anxious to give their customers the best possible service and if the public will co-operate with them it will be much more satisfactory for the customer as well as the merchants. You can do your share to encourage stores to add extra help and thus enable a great many others to share in the joy of the Christmas festivities. So why not help bring cheer into many jobless homes by making your Christmas purchases now—and thus help create jobs? Another advantage to the early buyers is that they have more leisure to select their Christmas gifts and more complete selections. Those who wait until the last minute usually make their selections hurriedly and without thought and frequently the recipient is disappointed, and at the same time the salespeople are taxed to the limit of their endurance.

Shop the ads in the Sun-Telegraph tonight and then decide to do your Christmas shopping tomorrow. Help make a merry Christmas for others.

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am.
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.
I promise to watch carefully when crossing streets and to aid other children in keeping out of danger.
I promise to study hard and do errands willingly.
I promise to be a 100% Junior Patrol member.

Date of Birth ..... Address .....

School .....

Address this pledge to the JUNIOR PATROL, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Upon its receipt you will be registered as a member of the JUNIOR PATROL and will be forwarded a membership card and an official emblem.

More and more letters today, fellows!

We don't want them to get ahead of us, and so we are going to print as many as we can today.

A new patrol today has Thomas Gast, of Box 132, Pittock, Pa., for a president. He has 12 members in his patrol, and he sends pledges for all of them. Congratulations, and be sure to let us know some more news about your patrol just as soon as you can.

Robert Schildkamp, Regis McGivern, Williams Mears, Edward Connare, Thomas Connare, Francis Mears and James Burks are members of a new patrol in Scottdale. We hope they can get three more fellows to join their gang so that they can form a real Junior Patrol, and so that we can send the captain an armband.

And now here's a letter from Joseph Birmingham, of 234 Union avenue, Oakdale, Pa. He says in his note:

"I am writing to let you know I am starting a Junior Patrol out here in Oakdale. We all voted and I was elected captain. Please send me my armband as soon as you can. And also the pins. I wish you would put this letter in the Junior Patrol Mail Box."

You bet we will put it in the Mail Box, Joseph. The next time you write we hope that you will have more news to tell us. We will send your armband and badges soon.

Joseph Cravotta, of 4109 Forbes street, Pittsburgh, has been elected a captain, he tells us in a letter today, but he doesn't send the necessary pledges for his 10 members. He says:

"We are starting a club and we would like to call it the Junior Patrol. We have all pledged to keep the rules at our meeting last night. We would like to have the badges now and other qualifications."

Just send in the 10 pledges, Joe, and we will send you all the necessary badges and cards. And an armband, officially making you a captain.

PITT STUDENTS TO GIVE PLAY

Students and members of Pitt's fine arts department will present nativity scenes from the Giotto frescoes in the Twentieth Century Club tonight. The production will be under auspices of the Junior League and the Italian Women's Committee, Cathedral of Learning.

Students in the cast are Lawrence McVitty, Mrs. Harriet Perry, Robert Gearhart and Tony Bianco. Walter Read Hovey and Henry Scott, of the faculty, have arranged the presentation.

Music students from Carnegie Tech will sing old Italian chorals and Gregorian chants ofistage as the scenes are portrayed. Mrs. Henry Scott, Jr., will give the readings for the tableaux.

YULE CHECKS GO TO OWNERS OF HEARST STOCK

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—The vast army of stockholders in Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., living in every state in the union and 16 American possessions and foreign countries, are receiving today their regular Christmas dividend on Hearst 7 per cent class "A" cumulative preferred shares.

This dividend is the fourth disbursement made this year and the fourteenth consecutive quarterly payment since the original public offering of Hearst shares in July, 1930.

Dividends for the entire year were fully earned by an ample margin during the first three quarters of 1933, reflecting the strong earning power of Hearst Consolidated in spite of most drastic depression conditions.

PROFITS EQUALED

Net earnings for the 12 months ending December 31, 1933, according to present estimates, will equal the previous year's profits.

Twelve seasoned and successful publishing enterprises, spanning the nation in advertising and circulation, compose the corporate structure of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., and insure the tremendous earning power of that company.

This group includes the American Weekly Magazine, with the largest circulation of any publication in the world; the New York Journal, with the greatest evening circulation of any newspaper in the United States; the San Francisco Examiner, parent newspaper of the Hearst organization; the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Los Angeles Examiner, Detroit Times, Chicago Evening American, Los Angeles Herald-Express, San Francisco Call-Bulletin, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Oakland Post-Enquirer and American Newsprint Corporation.

SUCCESSFUL CAREER

These properties have a background of a half century of successful operation and public confidence.

There are more than 40,000 stockholders in Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., who have invested in this security because of its outstanding record, especially during the depression years.

The Hearst organization in its entirety has made payment during 1933 of $10,833,041.35 for the retirement of current bond maturities, bond interest and dividends on the 7 per cent class "A" preferred shares.

This showing is indicative of the strength and promptness of the Hearst organization in meeting all financial obligations.

URGES PASSAGE OF GRADED TAX

William B. Foster, president of the Pittsburgh Henry George Club, pressed members of the State Senate and House of Representatives today for favorable action on the single tax program for a 5 to 1 graded tax on real estate and buildings.

In letters to every member of the Legislature, Foster asserted that passage of the law will lessen the burden of the small home owners. To State Senator James J. Coyne he pointed out specifically that while taxes in the First, Second and Third Wards (downtown) would be higher, those in the Fourth, Fifth, Seventh, Tenth and Fifteenth Wards, the Senator's district, would be less.

He wrote a similar letter to Representative Max J. Spann, whose district covers the Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth Wards. The proposed law would tax land values five times as much as for buildings.

North Side Man Gas Fumes Victim

Apparently a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning, A. D. Carothers, 65, was found dead late yesterday in his third-floor room at 7 West Montgomery avenue, North Side, morgue attaches reported.

Carothers, who came to the place two weeks ago, was found seated in a chair near a burning gas stove by Blanche Robinson, proprietor of the rooming house. He had not been seen since Monday.

Turtle Creek Man Injured in Fall

Walter H. Cree, 50, of 305 McMasters way, Turtle Creek, who was found with his skull fractured, under a trestle of the Union Railroad at Church street, Turtle Creek, yesterday, is in a serious condition in the Braddock General Hospital today. Police believe he slipped and fell while walking across the trestle.

200 Sparrows Killed As Pests by Police

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—There's a lot of shooting going on in Rock Island, but only the sparrows have suffered so far.

There were so many of the birds about that the pedestrians and motorists complained to the police. Armed with shotguns the police killed 200 in one night.

Michigan Lingerie Store Plans Men's Shopping Night

International News Service.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Dec. 15—An orchid and a roll of drums for Arthur Wilson, lingerie shop proprietor.

For the benefit of bashful swains who like to give little intimate Christmas presents, Wilson has designated one evening next week, as "men's night."

On that occasion no women will be allowed in his store. The usual force of saleswomen will be replaced by male clerks who will tactfully help decide whether "she" would prefer baby blue with lace or pale pink with ruffles.

Guilty of Robbing Drugged Companion

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Convicted of a charge of drugging and robbing 60-year-old Martin Frame, of Los Angeles, his companion on an automobile trip, Alfred L. Cline, Glendale, Cal., insurance broker, will be sentenced by Superior Court Judge F. A. Leonard Monday.

The prosecution alleged Cline placed a drug in a glass of buttermilk given Frame and robbed him of $250.

ILSLEY SLAYING DEFENSE HIT

LEESBURG, Va., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A confession which state witnesses testified was made by George Crawford, implicating himself in the slaying of Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsey, prominent Middleburg, Va., sportswoman, was admitted as evidence today in the Negro's trial for murder.

It was ruled admissible by Judge James L. McLemore, of Loudon County Circuit Court after defense counsel had protested the statement was made in the Boston Jail in return for inducements promised by John Galleher, Virginia commonwealth's attorney.

Galleher contended the statement was made voluntarily and no threats or inducements were employed.

The statement related that after being sworn Crawford told Galleher that:

"The reason I am doing it, I know I am guilty. I can hide it from the public but I can't hide it from God. I am ready to go back, because it's been worrying me ever since I have been here."

Motormen Clash Over Single Track Right-of-Way

READING, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A right-of-way argument with a new twist needed the judgment of a Solomon today as two trolley cars approached each other on a single track with all lights green.

Doors slammed and irate motormen slithered toward each other on icy paving; hot words rent the air; arms waved and signal lights were pointed to as belated passengers glanced feverishly at watches.

Finally one car backed to a switch and the other passed, but the question of blame was labeled "no decision."

BOY, REPROVED, HANGS SELF

International News Service.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Dec. 15.—Annoyed by the quarreling of his son, Elwood, 14, and a younger daughter, J. R. Nusbaum sent the boy to his room as punishment.

An hour later the father went upstairs to tell Elwood he was forgiven and might rejoin the family.

3 YOUTHS HELD IN COIN THEFT

Seeking Christmas money, according to their own admission to police, three youths today were under arrest in Central Police Station, accused of tampering with a weighing machine in front of a store at Sixth street and Liberty avenue. Pennies totaling $1.62 were found in their possession, police said.

The youths held are Nick Baretti, 20, and Williard Rottenfeller, 23, both of 2562 Merwyn street, and John Fazie, 20, of 2658 Glenmore avenue. They were charged with being suspicious persons.

Bill Roper Estate Valued at $5,000

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—William W. Roper, former Princeton football coach, who died last week, left no will.

Roper had personal property valued at $5,000, it was stated in an affidavit accompanying an application for letters of administration granted the widow, Mrs. Elizabeth B. H. Roper. No real estate was listed. Mrs. Roper, her son, W. W. Roper, Jr., a student at Princeton, and a daughter, Elisabeth, are listed as the only heirs.

PENNOCK AND SEWELL AMONG REAL GREATS

Baseball's old timers continue to file through the major league exits. The latest to swell the annual toll of the old man with the scythe were two of the game's most prominent veterans, Pitcher Herb Pennock and Infielder Joe Sewell, released unconditionally by the Yankees. Through 21 seasons in the American League, interrupted only by a year of war service, Pennock was one of the greatest pitchers of all time, a real mound artist who won 250 games while losing 161, and who never was defeated in the six World Series in which he participated. He pitched five victories in derby engagements, and in the last of the five wins, the third game of the 1927 series, he held the Pirates hitless for seven and one-third innings.

Herb Pennock

Sewell quickly developed into a star after being called from New Orleans to Cleveland in September of 1920 to fill one of the hardest contracts ever put up to a rookie, playing shortstop of a pennant-winning and World Series club to replace Ray Chapman, who had died on August 17 of that year from an injury resulting from being hit on the head by a pitched ball delivered by Carl Mays. Joe held the distinction of being the hardest man in the majors to strike out. In his more than 13 seasons he fanned only 115 times. In 1930 and 1932 he struck out only three times, and in 1925 and 1929 his whiffs totaled only four.

The departure of Pennock leaves Rabbit Maranville and Eppa Rixey ranking as the oldest in the majors in point of service. Each entered in 1912, the year of Pennock's debut.

HERO OF LONGEST RUN RECALLS FEAT

The longest run ever known in football was 115 yards, made by Wyllys Terry for Yale against Wesleyan on November 4, 1884. In those days, as was the case until 1912, the playing field was 110 yards in length, instead of 100, as at present. Recalling his record feat in a fanning bee with Edwin Dooley the other day, Terry said he took the ball on a play that was meant to be a kick, dropped back behind his goal line, and then decided to make a run. He was forced to reverse his field four times before he found the final loophole that put him in the clear and enabled him to run the length of the gridiron for a touchdown. The old Yale star relates that the ball became heavier and heavier until it felt like a ton and his lungs were pumping like a pair of bellows.

Terry rates the late Walter Camp as the finest all-around player that football ever had, and even greater as a coach, always patient and tactful and never raising his voice nor embarrassing a player with a reprimand. Wyllys is one veteran who does not hesitate to admit that football is infinitely better and more interesting than in the old days. He thinks the forward pass is the best thing ever brought into the game.

STANFORD GOOD IN INTERSECTIONAL GAMES

Stanford will go into the Rose Bowl football classic on New Year's Day with a good intersectional record to give its players confidence. The Cardinals have been beaten only three times in 12 modern games with teams representing other parts of the country, and against those three reverses they are able to boast six victories and three ties. Two of the three defeats were administered by Pitt. The first of these marked the start of Stanford's intersectional competition in 1922, just after Andy Kerr had left Pitt to become head coach at Palo Alto with Tiny Thornhill as his assistant, the two having been selected by Pop Warner to pave the way for his coming in 1924.

Andy Kerr

Making their first trip to the Pacific Coast, the Panthers in 1922 downed Kerr's Stanford team, 16 to 7. After Pop Warner had taken charge in 1924, the Cardinals were picked for the Rose Bowl game on New Year's Day, 1925, and were flattened by Notre Dame's Four Horsemen and Seven Mules, 27 to 10. Stanford's next intersectional games also were Rose Bowl numbers, a 7-to-7 tie with Alabama in 1927, and a 7-to-6 victory over Pitt in 1928. Intersectional games played since resulted as follows: 1928, Stanford 26, Army 0; 1929, Stanford 34, Army 0; 1930, Stanford 0, Minnesota, 0, and Stanford 14, Dartmouth 7; 1931, Stanford 13, Minnesota 0, and Stanford 32, Dartmouth 6; 1932, Pitt 7, Stanford 0.

ONLY YALE AND HARVARD SEEN BY ROPER

The extent to which competition with outside football teams lacks importance in the eyes of the East's ancient Big Three, as compared with games in their own tight circle, never was reflected in an individual more strongly than in the late Bill Roper while he was coach at Princeton. To Roper, all contests except those with Yale and Harvard were merely incidental.

Once, when the advantages of a certain type of defense were being discussed by a group of coaches, Bill broke in with the question, "How would it work against a formation like this?" The formation he sketched with a pencil was the one used by Yale at that time. That was all that interested Roper. If it were a defense that would be good against Yale, it was what he wanted. If not, he wasn't interested.

LOCATELLI MAKES HIS AMERICAN BOW

Another fistic importation will get an American test tonight when Cleto Locatelli, of Italy, European lightweight champion, meets Tony Canzoneri for 10 rounds in New York. The fight will do one of two things. It will either qualify Canzoneri for a third shot at Barney Ross in an attempt to regain the world lightweight crown, or it will set the stage for an international title match by putting Locatelli in line for a meeting with the reigning king of the 135-pounders.

Tony Canzoneri

The New York Boxing Commission has a rule that requires a foreign boxer to prove his worth at a smaller club before he is permitted to engage in a main bout at Madison Square Garden, but the regulation was waived in the case of Locatelli in view of the evidence of ability he gave abroad in defeating such men as Jack (Kid) Berg, Bep Van Klaveren and Pete Nebo. Cleto shows plenty of confidence in himself in being willing to face an opponent of Canzoneri's caliber without a tune-up. The newcomer has a good hook and a tight defense, but is not a devastating hitter and there are few knockouts in his record. Canzoneri's recent knockout victory over Kid Chocolate may have been due largely to Chocolate's retrogression, but at that Tony still is a mighty good fighter, and it appears unlikely that Locatelli will be able to beat him, particularly as Cleto is said not to be at his best when forced to make 135 pounds, as in this instance.

JIMMY SMITH, of Philadelphia decision over him, while Smith's best effort was a victory over Lou Brouillard, former champion scored just about a year ago.

Ted Yarosz, middleweight contender, of Monaca, will be an interested ringside observer at the Arena, on the North Side, tonight when two of his foremost rivals clash in the 10-round main bout.

The battlers are Young Terry, of Trenton, N. J., and Jimmy Smith, of Philadelphia. It will be one year next Tuesday that Smith upset the dope by defeating Lou Brouillard in a bout in Philadelphia. Brouillard went on to win the world middleweight title and then speedily dropped it, as he had earlier won and lost the welterweight crown.

VICTOR OVER YAROSZ

Terry recently got one of the few decisions over Yarosz that you will find in the record books. The bout was staged in Newark, N. J., where Ted previously had won three bouts, beating Al Rossi, knocking out Freddie Polo and repeating his Pittsburgh victory over Vince Dundee, who subsequently succeeded Brouillard as champion and since has defended the title against Andy Callahan.

The fans have been anxious to see Terry in action. Reports of his bout with Yarosz were conflicting, some of them holding Yarosz was an easy winner, although he did not get the decision. It is said that Yarosz really holds Smith in higher esteem than he does Terry. He'll be on hand as a spectator tonight to size up the pair of them, for the next big bout here probably will see him pitted against tonight's winner.

FOUR PRELIMINARIES

Four six-round bouts complete tonight's program. Marty Gornick boxes Young Bordell, General Burrow meets Ray Winbush, Tony DiPiero boxes Curly Klaas, and Johnny Birek and Johnny Durso renew their feud. The show gets under way at 8:30.

Notables at the ringside besides Yarosz tonight will include Don McCorkingdale, the bloomin' English 'eavyweight, who is on his way to Chicago to box King Levinsky on December 29. He will be accompanied by his wife and his manager, Babe Culnan.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: ANTI-AIRCRAFT GNATS—On June 5, 1933, an army transport plane was forced down on a small island in Great Salt Lake, Utah, on account of water in the gas. Service mechanics from the Salt Lake airport were dispatched to the rescue, and the gas trouble remedied. However, salt water gnats are so plentiful in that vicinity that they were sucked into the air intake of the motor and into the screen of the carbureter. The ship flew as far as Ogden, where the motor slowed down to 900 revolutions and forced a landing. This unique incident of aviation is recorded in the log of the pilot, R. A. Wilson, and in the records of the airport manager in Salt Lake. A DISAPPOINTED FOOTBALL STAR—Al Lefebvre, the star halfback of the University of Nevada team in 1930, was the hero of the California-Nevada game of the same year, and played a phenomenal game whenever he participated. At the end of the season his performances had been so remarkable that he rated honorable mention on Rockne's All-America team, and, Believe It or Not, he didn't even get his school monogram. He lacked just two minutes of playing the time required for that award.

TOMORROW: THE BAFFLING STONES.

ALUMNI GROUP DISAPPOINTED AT DELAY

By JESS CARVER

If there was any doubt in the minds of those in authority at Duquesne University as to who the alumni is backing as successor to Elmer Layden as head football coach and possible as athletic director, certainly it has been removed by now.

The alumni association tendered the varsity squad a testimonial dinner at Webster Hall last night with more than 600 in attendance, but as Bob Waddell, who was the chief speaker, remarked, it turned out to be more a meeting for the purpose of electing Joe Bach, Layden's assistant for the past five years, the head coach.

BACH CHEERED

At every opportunity, the enthusiastic, to say the least, diners rose to their feet, shouted the name of Bach, hammered on the tables, stamped their feet and cheered lustily. But to no avail. Earlier in the day, Rev. J. J. Callahan, president of the university, had declared that a successor to Layden, who has been signed as the head man at Notre Dame, would not be named at the alumni dinner. And the declaration stood.

Father Callahan, ill in Mercy Hospital, was unable to attend the banquet. The alumni were disappointed, as they had counted on hearing the name of Joe Bach proclaimed as Duquesne's new coach. Surely, unless it was Layden himself, the Dukes never have had a more popular choice for the head coaching job than it appears Bach will be if he lands the post.

Three reasons were advanced for the decision not to name a coach last night.

REASONS GIVEN

One was that Bach and the university athletic authorities had decided to take more time to go over the 100 and more applications that have been received for the position.

The third was that the officials did not like to take the play away from Rev. Callahan while he is confined to the hospital.

But there appears to be little, if any doubt, that Bach is the man.

CO-CAPTAINS NAMED

Thwarted in their intentions of giving Bach a merry sendoff had he been named coach, the gathering devoted its attention to cheering Bob Waddell, the chief speaker, and Art Strutt and George Rado, varsity stars, who were elected co-captains for next year.

Strutt, a stellar halfback, a native of Mingo Junction, O., performed in brilliant fashion this fall. Rado, hard-charging, alert guard, won several all-Eastern and all-American mentions. The pair succeeded Al Krankota, star left end of this year's eleven. Both are students in the school of business administration.

Waddell's talk was a pip (as when hasn't one of Bobby's addresses been?) and he closed by paying Coach Layden a great compliment. He referred to the fact that every man who came from Notre Dame as a footballer under Knute Rockne had been, above all else, a gentleman. Then Duquesne's basketball Dukes, intercollegiate champions of the city and claimants of the district crown last year open their 1933-34 campaign in the Bluff gymnasium tonight against Waynesburg College's Yellow Jackets.

The Dukes, their squad intact from last year, are prime favorites to better their splendid record of the 1932-33 season when they won all but one game. They were defeated in the inaugural by Westminster in a game played in the Pitt Stadium Pavilion.

BIRCH ON SIDELINES

Duquesne will meet the Jackets tonight minus the services of one of the star members of the troupe, forward Paul Birch, who, despite the fact that he will only be playing his second year of intercollegiate ball, is a veteran performer. Birch recently had his tonsils removed and is not strong enough to play as yet.

Jim McDougal will start at forward in Birch's place, with Art Feldman as a partner, Irv Brenner at center and Dudey Moore and Marty Reiter at the guards.

Waynesburg, with the clever Rab Currie, Wettie Mancuso, McCracken and Janoski back from last year, may be counted upon to give the locals a stiff argument.

In a preliminary, the Duquesne freshmen meet Bridgeville High School. This game will get under way at 7 o'clock, with the varsity encounter scheduled for 8:15.

PITT FACES PURDUE

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Dec. 15.—Pitt opens its intersectional basketball season here this evening against the Boilermakers of Purdue University, coached by Ward Lambert. Purdue, with more Big Ten basketball titles in its possession than other Conference teams, will be out to revenge a 33-28 setback at Pittsburgh last year.

Leading the Boilermaker attack will be Dutch Fehring, pivot man, and an all-Conference football selection at tackle. Fehring, the key man of the Black and Gold offense, will be up against Claire Cribbs, Pitt's leading court star, and the battle between these two is being eagerly anticipated by mid-western basketball fandom.

Dr. Carlson, Pitt coach, announced before he left last evening, that there would be no changes in the Pitt lineup from that which started against Georgetown last Saturday night. Don McCamant and Skippy Hughes, the unscoring forwards of the Panthers, will again hold down starting jobs, and Russ Ochsenhirt, apparently headed for a good season, and Charley Hughes will be at the guards. In reserve Carlson will have Slim Wainio and Ted Roderick for the forwards, Pete Noon at center, and Kenny Kuno and Billy Bond at the guards.

After the game the Panthers will leave for Evanston, Ill., where Northwestern will be met Saturday night.

SMITH, MANOS GAIN FINAL

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

City Champion Theos Manos, K. A. C. ace, will battle his teammate, J. Parker Smith, in wind-up contest of the Keystone Athletic Club invitation singles handball tournament on the Keystone gallery court at 2:15 p. m. tomorrow. The finalists came through penultimate frays yesterday without loss of a game and are resting today in preparation for the trophy tilt.

The 21-15, 21-17 victory of Manos over young Frank Koubek, doubles partner of Smith, was scarcely an upset, despite the steady advance of the youthful Keystoner in the past twelvemonth. Manos, packing plenty of power bolstered by the experience of years of topflight competition, was pressed continually by his clever and hard-hitting rival, but flashed class in the pinches and staved off all hostile rallies.

Smith, however, was rated by no means the favorite in his semi-final clash with Steve Myers, slashing Downtown Y. M. C. A. luminary, and the 21-16, 21-17 verdict for the Keystone glovester not only constitutes rather a reversal of the pre-battle dope, but also presages a speedy and diverting finale. Myers' terrific right hand naturally bothered Smith no little, but the K. A. C. entry offered customary steadiness and retaliatory pace with result that Steve was ultimately bottled up.

Gus Winkler Rites Set for Sunday

Funeral services for Gus Winkler, former star district sandlot baseball hurler, who died yesterday morning in McKeesport Hospital following an operation will be held from the home of his parents, 805 Leech street, Sunday afternoon.

Winkler formerly pitched for the National Tube nine, of McKeesport and last year was a member of the Glassport Griffins. He is survived by his widow and five sons.

COLUMBUS GETS HODAPP

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Purchase of Johnny Hodapp, second baseman, from the Rochester International League club, was announced today by George M. Trautman, president of the Columbus Red Birds. Hodapp was released to Rochester several weeks ago by the Boston Red Sox.

GRAPHIC GOLF

PITCH SHOTS

Short pitch shots to the green are so variable in nature that only great experience will enable one to become consistently efficient at them. The topography of the ground surrounding the green, the green itself, the texture of the grass, all count in the success of this shot. These, however, come under the heading of shot judgment. Certain fundamentals of form will enable the golfer to execute the shot correctly. Horton Smith, above, for instance, stands near the ball in a shot of this nature with arms in close to his body. In this stance his head is practically over the ball and by keeping his arms in as he swings he can maintain an inside arc. The blow, a descending one, hits the ball on the clubface and takes turf afterward. The spin imparted by this downward path of the clubhead will impart backspin and insure a quick-stopping shot.

BIG 'ALL' TEAM OUT SUNDAY

Sunday's the day.

It's the day for which you've been waiting—the day when the annual All-America football team of the All-America Board of Football, which has come to be recognized as THE All-America team in recent years, will be published in Pittsburgh exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph.

For thousands of fans the All-America team this year means more than ever before, for they are contestants in the Sun-Telegraph's All-America Team Contest, the 10 winners of which will receive beautiful All-America football blankets.

So heavy was the entry in this contest, which ended at midnight Wednesday, that it will take days and days for the committee to sift through all of them and announce the winners. Watch for date of announcement of the awards.

PHILLY RIDERS SEEK REVENGE

The visit of the 103rd Cavalry poloists, of Philadelphia, to Hunt Armory tomorrow night will not be their first invasion of the Artillery citadel.

In 1923, before polo had gained much of a footing here, they sustained a 12-to-7 setback at the hands of the Pittsburgh Polo and Riding Club, avenging that defeat a year later with a 15-4 triumph over the locals in a return match at Philadelphia.

Only one player is those encounters will be seen in action tomorrow night. He is the veteran Capt. Jerry Neill, commander of Philadelphia's Second City Troop, who is rated one of the finest offensive malleteers in the eastern part of the state. Capt. Neill has been on the Cavalry team continuously since 1921.

McArthur Victor Over George Gemas

FAIRMONT, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Buddy McArthur, local heavyweight, gained a 10-round decision over George Gemas, of Philadelphia, here last night. There were no knockdowns. Gemas weighed 194; McArthur, 182.

CELTICS HERE TOMORROW FOR GAME

By TOM BIRKS

After making a strenuous effort to have the game transferred to Rochester, where the soccer sport is taking a big hold, the Rochester Celtics, who will meet Morgan at Greenlee Field Sunday afternoon in the final qualifying round of the national challenge cup competition, are due to arrive in Pittsburgh tomorrow morning. The team will be quartered at the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Rochester put up quite a battle with the cup committee of the national body, and yesterday the Morgan club wired a guarantee of transportation expenses for the squad. It appears that the Celtics wanted to play the game at Rochester with the student body of the high school being invited as the guests of the club.

Just whether that would effect the box office and the guarantee given a visiting club is an important question. In the national open tourney, a club must be guaranteed its expenses.

Manager Dave Matthews has had the Morgan squad working out under the lights this week, although the playing field was in anything but good condition for soccer. Morgan wants to win this game, should the locals get over the famous Celtic aggregation, it is possible that Curry will be met in the next round. A meeting between Morgan and Curry would attract a capacity gate.

Buff and Fred Donnelli, two Morgan-born boys, are playing with Curry this year. Local rivalry means a lot in soccer football.

Could Columbia 'Take' Fordham? Well, Now, Er--

By BILL CORUM
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—And now, because he seems to want to, I'll let Pat Sheridan ask me a couple of questions:

Q.—Do you rate Columbia over Fordham, and why?

A.—Columbia and Fordham would have made an interesting football game. But Fordham lost its chance for Rose Bowl consideration by losing to two Pacific Coast teams.

Q.—Do you honestly believe Columbia has any chance of taking Stanford?

A.—I have not seen Stanford, but I believe Columbia would have given any team I saw this year a hard fight. Army, Harvard, St. Mary's, Oregon State, Notre Dame and so on. On the worst day it hadd all year and practically spotting it to a touchdown on the kickoff, Columbia was defeated by the only unbeaten, untied team of consequence in the country, 20 to 0.

Later that team—Princeton—and Columbia played Navy a week apart. Columbia had by far the easier time winning, and it was the concensus of the Navy, I'm told, afterward that it was the better football team on those two days and dates. Coach Rip Miller, of Navy, also called it a better team than Pittsburgh, having played both.

Columbia has lost three games in three years. Once in four years, against the likes of Princeton, Dartmouth, Brown, Syracuse and Cornell, it has been beaten by a top-heavy score. The figures and smart coaches and officials, who have been really watching 'em play and not guessing, call the Lions a good football team, sir.

OLD LACROSSE RIVALS CLASH TONIGHT

By CARL W. SHATTO

Two of the greatest box lacrosse teams ever assembled will clash at Motor Square Garden at 8:30 tonight, when the Toronto Maple Leafs attempt to oust the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets from the lead in the North American Professional Lacrosse Association race.

Albert Vincent

Playing as Les Canadiens, of Montreal, the Jackets last spring defeated the Leafs in a seven-game playoff series for the world title. The series went the limit, and in the seventh game, played at Atlantic City, two extra periods were played before Leo Bouliane broke a 3-3 deadlock by beating Teddy Gillman, Toronto goalie, on a pass from Harry LaFrance.

GOAL PROTESTED

The Leafs protested the goal, charging interference, but their protest was thrown out by the referee. Never at all friendly, this disputed finish served only to add to the bitter rivalry between the two organizations, and an ambulance may be added to the equipment for tonight's renewal of the feud.

Coach Suds Southerland regards Toronto as the Jackets' most dangerous title rival. The fact that both teams this season are playing in the same division of the association forestalls the possibility of their meeting in another title series, but tonight's tilt will go a long way toward determining the eastern group's representative in the post-season championship playoffs.

David Grayson, a forward almost as fast as LaFrance, and Hal Crayne, a trick goal-getter who last season ranked with the league's leading scorers, are the key men of the Toronto attack. Walter Strong, 190-pound "strong boy," is the bulwark of the Leafs' defense.

VINCENT REAL STAR

Grayson and Crayne may be able to give a goalie many anxious moments, but they will have to show plenty of class to convince local fans that they rank with LaFrance and Albert Vincent as a scoring combination. Vincent almost stole the show against Milwaukee by slamming home three goals, and assisting on another.

The Jackets came through their 8-5 victory over Milwaukee in excellent physical condition, and are eager to prove to the Leafs that their title triumph of last Spring was no fluke. Coach Southerland, well satisfied with the "balance" of his rugged defense and swift attack, contemplates no lineup changes.

W.-J. TO MAKE GRID AWARDS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 15.—Wash-Jeff's athletic council will hold an important meeting this afternoon, the first since early in the recent football season. Chief among matters to be discussed will be the awarding of varsity football letters.

An unusually large number of awards is expected in view of the fact that many injuries to regular players during the season paved the way for practically all players to serve in varsity games.

The election of an honorary captain for the 1933 season has been held up until the letter awards are made as only letter men are entitled to vote. The question of electing a captain for next season will also be discussed.

During the past season Coach Day appointed a captain for each game, but does not consider this plan satisfactory and calculated to create bitter rivalry in the squad throughout a season. Day favors the appointment of a captain by the coach to serve throughout the season and the council is expected to endorse his views.

MAJOR LEAGUES WIND UP CONFAB

ACTION TAKEN TO REGULATE DUAL BILLS

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Baseball affairs today were the property of the hot stove league for a long winter of discussion as to who had the better of it in a record three days of trading.

The annual major league meetings closed last night, with a decision by the magnates to adopt a uniform ball for both big circuits and as many minor organizations as can be brought into line. The question of radio broadcasting failed to come up for official consideration and the clubs will go on for another year, handling the problem as they see fit.

A discussion of Sunday doubleheaders ended in a compromise. It was decided to ban the synthetic holiday programs until after June 15. Part of the owners wanted the question to remain strictly one for the clubs to decide, while others favored prohibiting them until after July 4.

WORLD TOUR PLANNED

John B. Shibe, vice president of the Philadelphia Athletics, was voted permission to recruit an all-star team from the American League to make a world tour after the 1934 campaign. The National League was invited to participate, but declined.

A piece of legislation also was passed for the protection of players sold by major league clubs to minor organizations. Under an amendment to the by-laws, a major league club must guarantee a player's salary if he is sent to a minor league team which later disbands.

The trading was an exclusive American League proposition, the older circuit failing to come up with a deal. The bulk of the unusual amount of business was accomplished by the Boston Red Sox, who obtained the Athletics' two star lefthanders, Bob Grove and Rube Walberg, and Jimmy Dykes. They also obtained Carl Reynolds, from St. Louis, and promise to cut quite a figure in next year's title race.

CUB DEAL FAILS

The closest the national league came to doing anything was a two-hour huddle participated in by the Chicago Cubs, St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Braves just before the rally broke up last night. The Cubs offered Pat Malone in a proposed deal with the Cards, but the latter declined to part with any first string material. Boston wanted Kiki Cuyler, but the Cubs didn't even give the idea serious thought.

Cincinnati's representatives got away from the meeting without announcing the identity of next year's manager. Bob O'Farrell, veteran catcher of the Cardinals, had pulled into the lead as the favored candidate.

Fighting for His Life

IRVIN (ACE) BAILEY . . . INJURED TORONTO HOCKEY STAR

Injured in a rough game with the Bruins in Boston Tuesday night, Bailey was conceded only an even chance to recover today following an operation on his brain. Eddie Shore, Boston defense man, whose collision with Bailey brought about the latter's injury and who later was injured when knocked down by Red Horner, Bailey's teammate, is to be held by Boston police on a charge of manslaughter in the event of Bailey's death, it has been announced. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

BAILEY SHOWS GAIN AFTER OPERATION

BOSTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Irvin (Ace) Bailey, dangerously injured Toronto hockey player, came through a long and delicate trepanning operation on his fractured skull and is in encouraging condition in the neuro-surgical ward of the Boston City Hospital.

Dr. Martin Crotty, Boston Bruins' physician who assisted Dr. Donald Munro of the City Hospital staff, and Dr. John S. Hodgson during the surgery and acted as their spokesman, said the 31-year-old hockey player's condition showed a slight improvement when he was removed from the table. It would be a matter of many hours, he said, before the crisis arrived.

Although his own surgeons refused to hazard an opinion whether Bailey, in the event that he makes a complete recovery, would be able to continue his hockey career, the consensus of non-participating experts was that he would not.

Bailey was removed from the Audubon Hospital, where he was rushed from the Boston Garden rink Tuesday night after being felled by Eddie Shore, Boston Bruins' burly defense star, to Dr. Munro's neuro-surgical ward, yesterday afternoon after his wife and small daughter arrived here from Toronto.

Meantime Shore was at home suffering physical pain from the three-inch scalp wound he received when Reginald ("Red") Horner struck him down in retaliation for his tragic bumping of Bailey. He was in mental anguish over his fears for Bailey's future.

During the afternoon Shore was visited by Inspector John F. McCarthy, of the Boston police homicide squad and, to a police stenographer, gave his version, which follows in part:

"I didn't see Bailey until it was too late and struck him with my left side against his. I don't remember whether I was knocked down or not. There was no ill feeling between us. We have been friends for some time. It was purely accidental."

STATE PROBES SUICIDE OF GLENDON

CHATHAM, Mass., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—State police, not entirely satisfied with the "accidental death" theory of Medical Examiner C. H. Keene, today began their own investigation into the death of Richard J. (Dick) Glendon, Columbia crew coach.

Dick Glendon

They wished to find out why, if he had gone hunting as supposed, he was dressed in light blue trousers and wore only rubbers. And they wanted to know more about the note found in Glendon's room. The note was found by Glendon's father and the contents were kept secret.

Police Chief Everett Eldredge, of Chatham, quoted the elder Glendon as saying:

Dr. Keene was unimpressed by the note and stuck by his "accidental death" theory.

SHOTGUN FOUND

Glendon's body was found yesterday near a fence on Castle Cove road, not far from Chatham Beach. His shotgun, with one shot fired, lay nearby. His right side and abdomen had been torn by shot.

Dr. Keene explained that the coach's shotgun might have been discharged as he climbed a wire fence near where his body was found.

The 37-year-old crew coach presumably had left his South Chatham home Wednesday to go hunting. His father, old Dick Glendon, famous Navy crew coach; his brother, Hubert, a boxing coach at Columbia, and friends searched the beaches and woodland through Wednesday night when he failed to return. A policeman found the body yesterday.

Young Glendon's death climaxed a stormy career. Five years ago, he sued his wife, the former Marie V. Fahey, of Brookline, for divorce, charging cruel and abusive treatment, but dropped the action after a reconciliation.

TROUBLE RENEWED

Their marital shell struck rough water again last summer, when Mrs. Glendon brought charges of assault and battery against the Columbia coach, getting Judge Herman Harding out of bed in the middle of the night to swear the complaint.

When the case came up for trial, Mrs. Glendon withdrew her charge, and they left the courtroom together. But a short time later, the young wife brought suit for separate support, and Glendon countered with a divorce action, charging cruel and abusive treatment. He went to live with his father, whose home is nearby.

Glendon returned to the cape last week-end. He visited his wife, and shortly after moved her effects from his father's house back to his own cottage. Members of the family said they had become completely reconciled and that Glendon planned to take his wife and three children back to New York with him after the holidays.

A search of the room in his father's house he had just vacated revealed his last letter.

BAMBINO HOST AT DINNER

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The hot stove baseball season will open Sunday night with a terrific bang. With football barely out of the picture and weeks ahead of the baseball training season, Babe Ruth comes across with a party for his newspaper friends at the New York Athletic Club, which promises to be one of the most unique affairs of its kind ever staged.

The All-America Board of Baseball, organized 12 years ago, consists of Babe Ruth and sports writers from 10 major league cities, all of whom will attend the dinner in New York as the guests of the Babe. At a meeting on Sunday afternoon, the all-America team for the past 12 years will be selected, and it will be announced Sunday night.

At midnight the windup of this great sports spectacle will go on a coast-to-coast hookup over the Columbia Broadcasting System. Ted Husing, foremost sports announcer, will describe the novelties and funny stunts of the evening and introduce Christy Walsh, who, in turn, will present many of the celebrities present, including Babe Ruth, Lou Little, Harry Kipke, Lou Gehrig and many other names prominent in sport. Each baseball writer on Babe's board also will be heard. Harry Keck, of the Sun-Telegraph, is Pittsburgh's representative on the board.

A few secrets have leaked out, including the fact that uniforms have been borrowed from the 16 major league baseball clubs to be worn by the waiters at the dinner. Other novelties include presentation of the 1933 all-America certificate by Babe Ruth to Jimmy Foxx. Newsreel pictures will be taken, showing the novelties and celebrities attending this big event of the indoor sports season.

AMATEUR TRIO K. O. VICTORS

A trio of knockouts were recorded as the amateurs battled through 10 bouts in the McKeesport A. C.'s boxing show at the Palisades last night.

The quickest knockout of the evening was credited to the punching ability of Frankie Varvara, Monon Valley A. C. 126-pounder. Varvara put Bull Slago, of West Newton, away after just 40 seconds of action in the first round. Slago went down twice and his seconds tossed in a towel.

Charley Burley, Superior A. C. star, won by a technical knockout over Joe Kolvatti, of the Todd A. C., Donora, and John Henry Lewis, of the Monon Valley Club, knocked out Steve Drake, of the St. Michaels A. C., in the third round. The summary:

112-pound class—Joe Verducci defeated John Pertronick.
118-pound class—Jimmy Burns defeated Buster Lostetter.

PROS TO HOLD GRID CONFAB

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Joe Carr, president of the National professional Football League, has called a special meeting of the club owners here tomorrow to discuss proposals for an earlier closing date in the schedule, changes in the rules to open up the game, and general business.

The meeting was called as all club owners will be in Chicago to attend the post championship game Sunday between the New York Giants and Chicago Bears. Carr said:

"It has been proposed that we open the 1934 season just as early as possible and close it the first Sunday in December to insure playable weather for the post-championship game. This year, we opened up on September 15 and closed last Sunday. We've had a good break in the weather but may not be so fortunate again.

"Also it is the tendency in our league to open the game up. Football fans want to see that football, they want to see spectacular plays, kicks, and long runs for touchdowns. We are going to do our best to give 'em what they want."

President Carr said the 1933 season was the most successful in the league's history and that he expected all teams to retain their franchises for 1934.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Fairmont, W. Va.—Buddy McArthur defeated George Gemas, 10 rounds; Mike Mitchell won by a technical knockout over Tod Murphy, 4 rounds; Battling Torchy lost on a foul to Johnny Ribel, 2 rounds; Waltzing Grizzly won by a technical knockout over Charles Jackson, 2 rounds.

At Muskegon, Mich.—Ruben Edmans defeated Dick Sisk, 10 rounds; Andy Esposito defeated Young Geno, 8 rounds; Pete Petroskey knocked out Mel Tipton, 5 rounds; Johnny Sikkenga defeated Louis Hames, 6 rounds.

FLORIDA TITLE BATTLE SET

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey's efforts to break the monopoly Madison Square Garden long has held on the heavyweights had met with a decided setback today as Tommy Loughran continued negotiations looking to a title match with Primo Carnera at Miami, February 22.

Dempsey still has one leading contender under his wing, Max Baer, and seems to have the inside track with another. Max Schmeling, but Loughran's return to the Garden fold has just about ruined the old champion's plans.

Although no contracts have been signed, the Loughran-Carnera bout was considered definitely "in." Carnera, here for a flying 48-hour visit, was too busily engaged at a bankruptcy hearing yesterday to get around to the Garden and talk terms, but expected to make it today before returning to Italy on the same boat that brought him here yesterday morning.

Carnera, interviewed on his arrival, made it clear that he was ready to fight Loughran anywhere, any time so the Garden should have no trouble from that quarter, especially since the champion already is under contract for a title defense under Garden promotion.

Canzoneri Choice To Beat Locatelli

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Heavily favored in the betting, Tony Canzoneri hoped to ruin the American debut of Cleto Locatelli in Madison Square Garden tonight and win the right to meet Barney Ross, lightweight champion, for the third time.

The Italian holder of the European lightweight title comes here highly recommended but Canzoneri rules a 2-to-1 favorite for the 10-round battle. Tony is rated one of the great fighters of all time and never appeared to better advantage than he did against Kid Chocolate a few weeks ago when he knocked out the Cuban in two rounds. He followed this triumph with another knockout victory over Cecil Payne, of Louisville, in his last start.

Five High Scores In Tenpin League

Five scores above 200 were turned in last night in the Westinghouse Tenpin League. Brindley, of No. 1, rolled 215 in his first game; Schoch, of No. 9, hit 219 in his third game; Martin, of No. 4, cracked the wood for 207 in his first game, while Bastian and Dundorf, both of No. 8, each got their high totals in their second games. Dundorf rolled an even 200, while Bastian connected for 214. The scores:

Garibaldi, Kampfer In Feature Bouts

Two American-born stars will take on two European champions in the final and semi-final bouts of the Olympia Athletic Club's wrestling show in Motor Square Garden next Wednesday night.

Paul Jones, rangy Texan, who specializes in the vicious hook-scissors hold, will battle Gino Garibaldi, champion of Italy, in the feature event. Jones and Garibaldi have been seen here in previous shows and have won large followings among Pittsburgh mat fans.

Jack Westrope Turns In Another Triple

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Jack Westrope rode another triple at Epsom Downs track yesterday and ran his winning mounts to 295 for the 1933 season. It was his fourth triple in five racing days.

FANS TO HONOR SCOTT SQUAD

North Braddock will pay tribute to the Scott High School football squad at a banquet and town assembly in North Braddock tonight.

The banquet, to be given by the business men, will be held in the Methodist Church at 6 o'clock, while the town meeting will be held in the Scott High School auditorium.

Scott High School won the Class A championship of the W. P. I. A. L., going through its schedule undefeated. Scott also played McKeesport, a Class AA school, to a 6-6 tie.

Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland, coach at Pitt, will be one of the principal speakers at the town meeting.

A varied program of pre-season basketball games are scheduled for members of the W. P. I. A. L. tonight. The regular season does not open until January 5.

Hitler Boosts Olympic Games

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Adolf Hitler has taken personal charge of the Olympic games to be held in Germany in 1936.

In a pronouncement today the German Chancellor gives his consent to the building of the finest Olympic Stadium in the world. Hitler made no mention of race or creed and the Ministry of Propaganda advised it was without authority to say whether the pronouncement was issued in order to lift the athletic ban on German Jews, as demanded by the American Amateur Athletic Union.

In urging all organizations to support the movement for a great Olympic games, Hitler said the reich sports leader would be responsible to him only, which kills present efforts to put all German sports under the authority of the storm troops.

Security Dealers Meet To Discuss Code

By GEORGE H. SNYDER
Business Editor.

SECURITY DEALERS from all parts of Western Pennsylvania met at the William Penn Hotel last night to discuss provisions which are to be incorporated in the fair trade practice regulations being drawn up as a supplement to the code of fair competition for investment bankers.

The regulations will govern the relationships between investment bankers and their customers and will set up business standards, which, it is hoped, will eliminate many of the abuses of the past.

E. C. Wampler, of Lawrence Sterne & Co., here to lead the meeting which was sponsored by the Investment Bankers' Association of America, declared yesterday that fair practice regulations will give the association an opportunity to effectively police the securities business. He pointed out that in the past only moral suasion could be used to prevent abuses. The new regulations, when adopted, will become a part of the investment banking code and will be enforceable under the law.

Opinions Sought From All Dealers

THE MEETING LAST night represented an attempt to get the co-operation of all dealers in this district, particularly of those who are not members of the Investment Bankers' Association. While the Association has been asked by Gen. Johnson to take the leadership in developing the code, its membership amounts to only 400 out of 6,000 securities dealers in the country. Accordingly meetings are being held in many cities in order to secure the co-operation of non-members.

Mr. Wampler emphasized the fact that the small dealer is the backbone of the securities distribution system. He is essential to the large underwriting houses since he provides a major share of the retail outlet. Accordingly the association is paying particular attention, in preparing fair trade practice regulations, to protecting the interests of the small dealer.

Committee Studies Necessary Reforms

THE GENERAL problems of the code have been under study by a special committee of the Investment Bankers' Association. Many old customs of the business have come under scrutiny as undesirable practices. In some cases extreme difficulty has been encountered in framing provisions of the code which would provide effective regulation.

Among the practices which have been under consideration have been price cutting and special considerations to dealers as well as preferred lists.

STEEL LEADER LAUDS CODE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—"The steel industry stands wholeheartedly with the President."

This was the declaration voiced today by Donald B. Gillies, Cleveland steel magnate, in forecasting an improved iron and steel demand and a substantial gain in production for 1934.

Speaking before the thirty-sixth annual convention of the American Mining Congress, Gillies hailed stabilization and advancement of his industry under the steel code. He said:

"Under the code, the steel industry, operating at greatly reduced capacity, is giving employment to more than 400,000 employes, or practically as many as were on the payrolls in the boom year of 1929.

"It is safe to say that never before has a single industry in so short a time accomplished so sweeping an improvement in employment conditions of such a large volume of workers."

Indorsing the NRA and the President's leadership, Gillies declared:

"Let there be no mistake about it—the steel industry stands wholeheartedly with the President in his great effort to bring about recovery and increased employment.

Evidence is accumulating that steel mill operations have passed their lowest point in the depression and that gradual improvement is probable over the coming months.

STOCKS OF OIL DECREASE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Domestic and foreign crude oil stocks for the week ended December 9 decreased 687,000 barrels from the preceding week, the Interior Department reported today.

Foreign crude oil stocks held in the United States gained 4,000 barrels over the previous week's total of 2,705,000 barrels, the report said. Import receipts, however, showed a drop of 247,000 barrels during the week, compared with receipts during the previous period.

Total motor fuel stocks for the week amounted to 53,360,000 barrels, a drop of 680,000 barrels from the previous year. Daily average crude runs to stills, 2,190,000 barrels, also a decline, amounting to 55,000 barrels from the previous daily average.

TO THE HOLDERS OF
FIRST MORTGAGE AND LEASEHOLD 6½% SINKING FUND GOLD BONDS OF COMAGO SMOKELESS FUEL COMPANY

Notice is hereby given, as provided in Article IV, Section 2, of the deed of trust dated February 15, 1928, securing the above bonds, that sealed offerings will be received until 3:00 o'clock P. M. January 10, 1934, at the office of the Trustee, Central Trust Company, Charleston, West Virginia, to sell to it all or any part of the above described bonds for the purposes of cancellation and retirement, at a rate not exceeding par and accrued interest.

Such offerings shall be at a flat price for each bond with February 15, 1934, and subsequent coupons attached, together with the scrip, if any, issued August 15, 1928, and February 15, 1929, in respect of coupons of such bonds maturing on those dates.

Such offerings as are accepted will be those of the lowest bidders in an aggregate of ten thousand dollars ($10,000), which is the amount allocated to the sinking fund for this purpose. Should two or more holders of bonds bid the same lowest price, the number of bonds taken from each will be, as nearly as practicable, pro rata. Successful bidders will be advised promptly of the acceptance of their bids, and payment will be made on surrender and transfer of the bonds on February 15, 1934.

The Trustee reserves the right to reject any and all bids as in said deed of trust provided.

Proposals should be endorsed "Proposal for the sale of bonds of Comago Smokeless Fuel Company" and addressed to
Charleston, West Virginia.

To the Holders of Certificates of Deposit for
First Mortgage and Leasehold 6½%
COMAGO SMOKELESS FUEL COMPANY

Depositors making offerings in accordance with the above notice should do so directly to the Trustee and in the event that the offering of any depositor shall be accepted by the Trustee, your Committee will, upon surrender to it of the Certificate of Deposit and payment of the depositor's proportion of the expenses of the Committee, forward the bonds represented thereby to the Trustee, who will then make payment directly to the depositor as provided in the notice.

STOCKS TIMID, AWAIT MORE GOOD NEWS

Actual news of an especially stimulating character was lacking. There was no change in the gold rate and the dollar, after sagging in early foreign exchange dealings, came back to around its closing quotations of yesterday. Grains and cotton moved within narrow limits. Bonds were dull and mixed. Stocks were almost at a standstill during the greater part of the session and the ticker tape sputtered lazily.

The carloadings report for the week ended December 7 was about in line with previous estimates. There was an increase of 42,078 over the preceding week and 16,986 over the like 1932 week. The recovery was attributed partly to a natural rebound from the Thanksgiving holiday week.

With currency stabilization rumors seemingly on the shelf for the time being, trading circles were waiting expectantly for the next boost in the gold rate and its probable effect on security and commodity quotations. There were many guesses as to when the raise would be announced, most of them setting the probable date for Monday.

Market analysts were still bullishly inclined for the "long pull," although the majority refused to make any predictions as to the nearby action of equities. The undoubted improvement of business and industry, however, was a factor to which many attached even more importance than to the gold-buying program.

The weekly report of Dun & Bradstreet's found that inquiries in all parts of the country revealed "more progress is now being made than at any time in the last three months." It was further stated that "general business trends not only are upward, but the betterment is resting on a more stable basis than during the mid-summer upswing."

Because of the government's financing, transactions in the money market today were the largest for this date in several years, around two billion dollars, including 500 million dollars cash, was involved. The huge turnover involved the meeting of a treasury maturity of around 727 million dollars from the proceeds of the new 950 million dollar one-year 2¼ per cent note issue. It was understood that holders of about 607 million dollars of the maturing issue had already tendered their holdings for the new notes. The remainder were to be paid in cash. In addition, government interest of about one million dollars was met and the treasury estimated receipts of approximately 160 million dollars in income taxes.

WEATHER NEWS AIDS WHEAT

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Wheat displayed an upward trend early today. Forecasts of a cold wave over the United States winter wheat belt was a stimulating influence, together with a sharp rise of sterling.

Opening unchanged to one cent higher. Wheat afterward showed upturns all around. Corn started unchanged to ¼ off, and subsequently sagged further.

Corn and oats prices advances when the wheat market showed strength. Provisions went lower, responsive to hog market declines.

Chase May Sell Stock to RFC

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Winthrop W. Aldrich, head of the Chase National Bank of New York, has discussed with Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Corporation, the possibility of the Chase National offering preferred stock to the RFC.

Jones has been working for months to obtain complete co-operation of the New York banks in the preferred stock and capital note program and recently announced that the National City Bank, together with 11 other banks, had sold preferred stock to the corporation.

Farm Credit Loans Total $145,000,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Loans totaling 32 million dollars were made by the farm credit administration between December 1 and December 13, with a high record set last Wednesday of $4,520,000 for one day.

The administration reported $54,057,765 was loaned during November, bring to 145 million dollars the grand total loaned since it began work since last May.

Of the November total $20,744,755 was used to refinance farm indebtedness, generally on the security of second mortgages on farms.

N. Y. Reserve Bank's Discount Unchanged

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The New York Reserve Bank announced no change in its 2 per cent rediscount rate.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Raw sugar was unchanged early today at 3.19 for spot with no sales reported. Futures opened on advances of 1 point and held there throughout the remainder of the morning on a little scattered covering and buying by houses with Cuban connections, while trade and commission houses sold.

The refined market was quiet and prices were unchanged at 4.40 for fine granulated.

Chicagoans Cite Gains In Trade

By B. C. FORBES

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—A transformation: Executives used to draw one aside to whisper that everything was headed for perdition. Now they confide that their company is really doing better than generally supposed, that an increase in business has meant a very fine increase in net, that still more orders could be filled without expanding salary, rental or other overhead.

Mr. Forbes

They are, in a word, greatly encouraged.

We may safely look for not a few final-quarter reports to show gratifying profits.

All this is so different from conditions, attitudes and expectations when I last visited Chicago, in January-February. London was never blanketed by a fog more thick, more indigo than the gloom, the pessimism then pervading this wonder city of the Middle West.

Of 60 business men quizzed this week, fully 50 have expressed either outright confidence or moderate hopefulness.

Prophets of disaster have become notably fewer. They are mostly by old, used-up fellows who have shot their bolt and now have little physical or mental vigor and still less faith in their own ability to wrestle successfully with inordinate difficulties.

HOW REFRESHING and invigorating it is, for example, to talk with the youthful executive of a mammoth tank car corporation—a life insurance company, I'm told, discovered, after an exhaustive survey, that the average age of this organization's executive is lower than that of any other large enterprise in America, between 36 and 37.

L. W. Selig, who became president at thirty-seven, and Sam Laud, made vice president in his very early thirties—and who still average thirty-eight—cheerfully tell you that their ninety-million corporation will end 1933 with better profits than last year, that business has enjoyed a real pick-up, that the advent of beer and wine and alcohol is expanding the use of tank-car transportation, and that new types of cars are constantly being evolved to effect transportation of commodities heretofore carried in crudier and costlier ways.

TAKE NEXT, Paul Hoffman, the equally youthful executive who is now piloting a big automobile concern. In my daily news-gathering and views-gathering I buttonholed him here, on a visit from the company's plants in Indiana. He breezily proclaimed:

"October was our best October in five years. November our best in eight years. For the last two months our gain over a year ago has been 679 per cent.

"We have increased our standard working force from 6,000 to 8,300, and our manhours per week from September 5 to December 31 (the period covered by the automobile NRA code) will be practically up to the limit allowed."

ANOTHER BAROMETRIC straw showing how the wind in this vital section of the country is blowing: Homer Guck tells me that the Chicago Herald and Examiner last month showed increases over a year ago of 30,317 lines in retail advertising, 18,256 in general advertising, 8,752 in automotive advertising and 51,760 lines in total display advertising.

ANOTHER STRAW: Edward J. Doyle, president of one of the leading electric companies, tells me:

"Since Mid-spring there has been a definitely better trend in contract business. For over two years there was a steady increase in cut-offs (disconnections), but in the last six months this has declined noticeably.

"Also, there has been considerable increase in connections and re-connections, particularly in residences, for the past six months. Our customers on November 30 were 12,000 above 1932. Unfortunately for us, our revenue has not kept pace with the increase in sales of electricity."

CHICAGO IS no longer downhearted.

BROKERS LOANS UP $37,000,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal York City increased twenty-seven million dollars during the week ended December 13, to seven hundred sixty million dollars. This compares with the preceding week's total of seven hundred twenty-three million dollars; the high record of six thousand eight hundred four million dollars on October 2, 1929, and the record low of three hundred thirty-one million dollars on July 27, 1932.

Anaconda Pushing Zinc Output Plans

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Anaconda Copper has put a substantial crew of men to work on upper levels of its Mountain Con and Green Mountain mines in Butte, Mont., to prepare these workings for production of zinc ores as quickly as possible.

OPERATOR 13

armies that were dying in the field to maintain it, and invoked a political solution of the bloody problem.

If John Gailliard was at the Academy of Music that day, Operator 13 could not discover him.

On Monday morning, the thirteenth of July, Operator 13, bewitchingly gowned and hatted, was driving uptown in her pretty barouche, with S. S. Operator Simms—No. 143—in smart livery on the box, still hoping to encounter John Gailliard ahorse in Central Park. They drove up Third avenue, intending to cross at Fifty-ninth street; but a marching crowd blocked them at Forty-sixth street, and Simms pulled up his horses.

The marching crowd followed a man who was beating a copper pan; they were whooping, howling, cursing; they brandished guns, pistols, hatchets, crowbars, bludgeons; they were yelling: "Down with the draft! Down with the police!" Just across the street at 677 Third avenue was the provost marshal's office, where the draft had begun last Saturday and where the great lottery wheels were turning out the fatal number for recruitment. Twelve hundred and thirty-six names had been drawn.

Destruction Begins

At the enrollment office there was a police sergeant and a dozen policemen, but no soldiers; and the huge crowd already had pressed them back into the provost's office, from which an angry roar rose. Already the mob outside was felling telegraph poles and hacking the wires.

Simms turned his head coolly and said to Operator 13: "This is a riot. We'd better get out of it."

But the barouche was so hemmed in that it was impossible to turn the horses.

At that moment, Capt. Porter, from the East Fifty-ninth street station, came plowing his way to the marshal's office with 60 metropolitan policemen. The men marched into the office building; the mob, now increased to surging thousands, roared disapproval.

It was exactly half past ten in the morning when the great riot began, and it began with a pistol shot followed by a volley of cobblestones, and the next instant Capt. Porter and 70 policemen were fighting for their lives.

Hanging on to his terrified, plunging horses, Simms attempted to back out; but at that moment a company of infantry of the Invalid Corps came marching up Third avenue.

Then the mob flew at them; the troops fired; and hell broke loose on Third avenue.

Wild Flight

Operator 13 caught a glimpse of the police clubbing their way out with the draft officials in their midst; of soldiers being stabbed and pounded to death.

Suddenly she saw Clive Andrews. He was on horseback, and was shouting: "Down with the draft! Stop the war! Take the city! All the troops are at Gettysburg and you can do it! Take the government into your own hands, fellow citizens, and stop this hellish war. Drive the police out of town! Drive out the politicians who are sending you South to be murdered on the battlefield!"

A ferocious roar of acclaim answered the boy.

"March on the City Hall!" he cried, standing up in his stirrups. "Pull down the newspaper offices! Drive out Old Greeley and Mayor Opdyke. Now is your opportunity to let the nation know that you're through with this cursed war!"

Buildings Burned

On Wednesday morning, July 15, 1863, the city of New York was on fire. Two million dollars' worth of buildings had been burned or were burning, millions and millions worth of property was being looted and destroyed.

No breath of air stirred that hot July morning. Even a light breeze would have swept the flames over the entire city. Under a pall of smoke the metropolitan police, and the few soldiers home on leave, had battled day and night with the mob. They were fewer than 2,500, and the rioters swarmed in tens of thousands.

All cars and omnibus lines had ceased to run. Shops were closed. The streets stank of burning rags and of murder. The murdered lay everywhere befouled, oozing mud and blood; or hung from shattered lampposts and fire-scorched trees, mutilated, dripping red. There was a reek of gunpowder everywhere.

Three offices of the provost marshal were afire or in ashes. The provost's office on Third avenue was a pit of coals, adjoining buildings were aflame and the entire square on Forty-second street was burning fiercely.

The mob sacked and burned the Eighteenth Precinct Police Station; the building at the corner of Broadway and Twenty-ninth street; an entire block on Lexington avenue; the armory at Twenty-first street and Second avenue; the dwellings of the provost marshal, Col. Nugent, and of Mr. Wakeman, the postmaster; the entire block on Second avenue, between Thirty-fourth and Thirty-fifth streets; the shops on Third avenue near Fortieth street; Brooks Brothers' clothing store; an entire block on York street; the block at Thirty-sixth street and Seventh avenue; the gas works at Forty-second street and North River, together with the ferryhouse; the government stores in Greenwich street.

Wholesale Murder

The mob had murdered policemen, soldiers, citizens, and all Negroes they could catch; Supt. of Police Kennedy had been battered to a pulp, Col. O'Brien, horribly tortured and mutilated, died hard; the superb police, shot, slashed, stoned, strangled, overwhelmed, always came back again, battering through the screaming masses with their heavy locust clubs.

The few platoons of military remaining in the city fired volleys into the mob and raked it with grapeshot; and were decimated.

All day and night the dull roar of the fighting filled the city, punctuated by cannon shots and shrill, wolf-like howling where murderous packs were clashing, burning, hanging or battering their victims to death in the streets. And everywhere in the city, upon these yelling wolfish mobs, the exhausted police hurled themselves hour after hour.

OLD IRONSIDES CAPTURES GUERRIERE

In the naval engagements of the British-American War (1812-1815), when the belief of the invincibility of the British Navy was shattered, the U. S. frigate Constitution had a prominent part.

Above: Her fight with the British Guerriere, ending with latter's capture.

The war finally was concluded by the Treaty of Ghent, signed December 24, 1814, without material gains to either party. Due to slow communication, the battle of New Orleans, with the victory of Jackson, was fought weeks later.

The Constitution, "Old Ironsides" of Holmes' famous poem, recently has been reconditioned for historical exhibition purposes.

THE COST OF GREED

Rome became great because its citizens were honest, hard working, wisely governed. Curius Dentatus—a humble farmer rising to consulship—still commands respect for his integrity, through 22 centuries.

Cooking his simple meal of turnips he refused with contemptuous laughter the gold bribe of the Samnites, enemies of Rome. Men of his kind became fewer, pleasure-seekers increased: Rome collapsed.

So will every nation, poor in characters such as Curius Dentatus. (Character Building)

CHARLES MARTEL IN BATTLE OF TOURS

Among the independent countries formed from the disrupted Roman empire, Christianity was the main unifying factor, lending inspiration and power to the defense of Europe against invading Moslems.

Islam, a religion founded by Mohammed (570?-632), conquered the Eastern patriarchates of Antioch, Alexandria, Jerusalem, reduced that of Byzantium and spread within a century from Arabia to Persia, India, over Africa even into Spain and France, threatening all Christendom.

A turning point of history was the battle of Tours (732), when Frankish King Charles Martel, descendant of King Clovis, defeated the Moors. (World History)

FOOD—FUEL OF HUMAN ENGINE

The human body is a marvelous engine. It burns its fuel—food—and converts heat derived from food into chemical, mechanical and electrical energy; it also repairs worn-out parts: cells, tissues.

Fuel value of food is expressed in calories. One kilogram-calorie (equals 1,000 gram calories) is 1/100 of the heat needed to raise temperature of one kilogram water from 0°C. to 100°C. The bomb calorimeter (right) serves to determine fuel value of foods.

SOME IMPORTANT LAWS CONCERNING GASES

Pressure of mixture of gases is sum of pressures that would be exerted by each gas at same temperature, if the others were not present (Dalton's Law of Partial Pressures).

Gases combine in volumes, the ratio of which (of constituent and compound as well) is a small whole number (1, 2, 3, etc. Gay Lussac's law of combining volumes, (1808).

Equal volume of gases of same pressure and temperature contains equal number of molecules (Avogadro's law, 1811).

Above: One volume of hydrogen combining with one volume of chlorine gives two volumes of hydrogen chloride (by experiment); so two atoms H and two atoms Cl were obtained from one molecule of each; hence molecules of H and Cl are diatomic (H2; Cl2) and their molecular weight is twice the atomic.

Experiment showed that one volume of oxygen with two volumes of hydrogen gives two volumes of steam (H2O); thus each O molecule has split into two atoms to furnish one for each of the twice as many water molecules; hence oxygen is also diatomic (O2). The molar volume (22.4 liter under standard conditions) of O2 weighs 32 grams, equaling the chosen molecular weight of oxygen. The weight of the molar volume of any gas in grams equals its molecular weight. (Chemistry)

AIRPLANE ENGINES

Airplane engines are powerful, reliable, light weight (1½-3 lbs. per h. p.) gasoline motors, mostly aircooled; cylinders often radially arranged for compactness. Medium and low speed planes have 1 h. p. for each 8-20 lbs. weight. The crankshaft turns generally with the directly-attached propeller; some have reduction gears between. Revolving engines are little used. Above: Air-cooled engine with nine radial cylinders. Left: Piston-connecting rod assembly. (Transportation)

It's All Politics

In the course of politics it oft becomes essential for the head bean of the hill to ask for a few important exits.

And none of us outsiders know the workings, the windings and the twistings of political manipulations. All we know is that many administrations have been strengthened by resignations.

We get our compressed information from the newspapers. They boil it down to cradle rock and all we read is the sorrow and anguish suffered both by the demander and the complier.

An indefinite leave of permanent absence has been decided upon for Mr. Tangtuff who was not present at the meeting.

Mr. Tangtuff never felt better in his life. Until they asked about his health. He gets his first letter:

"It grieves me to accept your resignation." And replies:

"I haven't resigned."

"Anyway, it grieves us to accept it."

"It grieves me that you accepted it. Especially, before I tendered it."

"It grieves us that we have grieved you."

Thereupon, the terrific struggle for grieving honors is terminated in glory and its postscripts. The walrus swallows the oyster. The tear-drenched letters are run through the wringer. And hung up in the trophy room to dry.

After conquering his first impulse to look up the records and see how much Arnold was paid for surrendering West Point, our Mr. Tangtuff simmers down and decides to support the administration. On sober second breath he realizes that he cannot bolt to the other party because he bolted the other party to come to the aid of his party. He is the local man without a country.

It's sad. But it's politics of the standard brand and popular among the bull-gorers. It's life. We are here today and on the loose tomorrow. A touch of an artistic hand and your name is on a glass door. A twist of a dextrous wrist and the gold letters dissolve in turpentine never again to blazon forth in glittering political heirogylphics. Ah, me.

It's tough, my friends, but it happens every day at every flop of the hour glass. Just when you have your district under control you receive your own resignation by registered mail and are knocked flatter than a hoot owl's face.

Why Education Falters

Pennsylvania's Schools Are Starved to Support a Horde of Parasitic Politicians.

Tax-ridden citizens in state after state are at last waking up to the fact that unless they reorganize and simplify county and local government, public education and other vital services of the state will be starved to support a horde of useless, wasteful and parasitic politicians.

This obsolete system of county and local government, as President Roosevelt has truly said, is a hand-me-down from "the days of the oxcart."

It has become as useless, wasteful and absurd as is the oxcart in the days of the automobile.

It has been well named "the dark continent of American politics."

In the heart of this benighted mainland lies the great state of Pennsylvania. Public education in our state is seriously menaced by lack of funds to support it.

Public money which ought to be going to the support of good schools and well trained teachers in Pennsylvania today is being eaten up by county and local officials no longer needed to transact the business of the state.

The Department of Public Instruction of Pennsylvania reports:

"UNPAID SALARIES OF MORE THAN 5,000 TEACHERS TOTAL APPROXIMATELY $2,136,000.

"Thousands of high school boys and girls will be deprived of educational opportunities unless their districts can pay overdue tuition bills of other years.

"Unpaid tuition bills in the state total $1,810,000 at the beginning of the school year 1933-34.

"Many school districts are now keeping their schools open solely through paying teachers' salaries in part or not at all.

"While every school district will make every effort to keep open as long as possible, it is evident that many districts—probably as many as 300 and possibly as many as 500—will have to shorten the school term drastically this current school year."

This disgraceful condition of affairs in Pennsylvania is due in large part to the obsolete system of county and local government which the people of Pennsylvania are being taxed to the breaking point to maintain.

According to Pennsylvania's Secretary of Revenue, Leon D. Metzger, there are 2,600 counties, cities, townships and boroughs in Pennsylvania today, 2,586 school districts and 423 poor districts.

This makes a total of more than 5,600 separate tax-levying authorities in the state of Pennsylvania alone.

This horde of tax collectors is compensated on a fee or commission basis far beyond the value of the services they render.

Local taxpayers in Pennsylvania are paying four times as much for the collection of taxes as are the taxpayers in the neighboring state of Ohio. And for this vicious waste, "the fee system is largely responsible."

What are the people of Pennsylvania going to do about it?

"To ask the Legislature to consolidate counties or other political subdivisions," declares the State Secretary of Revenue, "is about like asking a man to fire himself.

"It takes a political revolution to carry through a program of organization and co-ordination of our local government.

"But we must come to it sooner or later. This involves no impairment of the principles of self-government.

"On the contrary, what we must have, is better governmental services from our political subdivisions and at less cost."

Conditions in the Keystone State are typical of conditions in most of the other states of the Union where "oxcart government" is eating up the taxes of the people while public education and other vital services of popular government are going hungry.

Benjamin Franklin, the greatest American Pennsylvania has produced, once wrote to a friend:

"I conceive that great part of the miseries of mankind are brought upon them by the false estimates they have made, and by their giving too much for their whistles."

In permitting themselves to be taxed to the breaking point to support an obsolete system of county and local government, Benjamin Franklin's fellow Americans in Pennsylvania and in the other states of the Union are "giving too much for their whistles."

Better Traffic Essays

The Decrease in Child Fatalities Demonstrates the Value Of the Annual Competition.

At exercises in Syria Mosque tonight the prize winners in the Better Traffic Committee's annual essays contest for school children will be announced. Ninety thousand boys and girls have submitted essays.

The value of this method of including children to think hard of traffic hazards and how to avoid them is proved by the remarkable decrease in child fatalities as compared with adult fatalities.

In 1924, the year before the Better Traffic Committee and the Bureau of Traffic Planning were formed, 68 children were killed in traffic accidents; the estimated number for this year, based on figures for 11 months, will be 21, a reduction of 69 per cent.

In the same period the number of adult fatalities decreased from 163 to 120, a reduction of 27.5 per cent.

Still Indispensable

The Railroads Continue to Operate When Winter Cripples Other Transportation Services.

Bus service on a number of routes was suspended during the recent cold snap because of the ice and snow, which made the highways in some sections impassable.

After the loss of two airplanes which were crippled by the formation of ice on the wings a number of scheduled commercial flights from Pittsburgh were canceled.

But the railroads continued to operate on schedule. Let them be given due credit.

This year, under that law, Federal internal revenue has increased over last year. BUT the increase has been derived mainly from the discriminatory sales tax, while income tax—at its INCREASED RATES—showed an actual DECREASE in the revenue it produced.

In other words, the sales tax principle works and the income tax fallacy does not work. The higher the income tax rates, the less the tax is worth as a sound revenue producer.

Yet Congressmen, in discussing new taxes for next year, are proposing, in the very face of the demonstrated failure of the income tax, to impose STILL HIGHER RATES and surtaxes, payable next year. It is the old pretense of "socking the rich," who refuse to be socked.

Representative Crowther, of New York, knows better. He has announced that he will offer a GENERAL Manufacturers' Sales Tax proposal, which will be fair to business, fair to the Government and fair to the public.

The discredited income tax ought to be abandoned and the painless Manufacturers' Sales Tax enacted.

Then Federal revenue will be as reliable as in Canada, and taxpayers will be as contented.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Thoughts while strolling: What became of the Tiller girls? Montague Glass and his radio manager, Saul Flaum. After making everybody give up their gold, America bursts out, ha, ha, buying it. Sammy Feldman who often bought orchid corsages for entire choruses. That is, before the unbooming.

One word description of Lois Moran—killarneyish. Eddie Dowling and Steve Hannagan bear a resemblance. Circleville, O.'s pride—Ted Lewis. He picked up those mannerisms as a boy watching minstrel drum majors. That awful booking agent who suggests a penguin. Could that be Hoover laughing?

Lyda Roberti's laugh is like a pony's whinny. The whom-ish F. P. A. Who remembers Victor Moore and Emma Littlefield's skit: "Change your act, or back to the woods!" Lindy guys gathering on the curb around 4 p. m. Peggy Joyce is beginning to look fearfully weary. Isn't Gene Markey ever coming to town?

Rarely see Sailing Baruch around any more. The flood of beribboned pug dogs. Confirming the French dictum: "The more it changes the more it is the same thing." Wonder if others, too, are getting fed up with this constant Elsa Maxwell ballyhoo? Beautiful Maxine Elliott.

One of my favorite people—Nathan Burkan. George Tryon's snow-white thatch. Another resemblance, Ted Healy and Pat O'Brien. Young lovers always meet as though the world had been born that minute. And we oldsters lately as though it was just to go up in smoke!

A revue high spot revealed the interior of the Union League with fuddy-duddies sitting about with ear trumpets and white beards to the waist, querulously discussing the times. The club is the last stronghold of the Tories and rebellers against the new, yet at the staid windows are seen the most patrician profiles in town. They are die-hards but many will adorn history's pages. Passing the Union League, one wonders if America does not need more men who venerate the traditions instead of those who leap so eagerly for every change.

The Cole Porters, rounding in from their French chateau for the annual visit, add panache to what Maury Paul hails as the social intelligentsia. Porter, with still another London musical show hit to his string, takes the business of living in bounds and with unwinking brightness from Paris to London and New York and back again. He seems to believe that nothing really matters and diverts from his art much energy in gadding about. Yet few composers accomplish so much.

There's a perk for grown-ups watching nurse-maids and their pink-cheeked cherubs from the sidelines along Central Park Mall. An untroubled slice of life. Few heroes hold their pedestals without brickbats. The effort to change the Yankee Stadium to the Babe Ruth Stadium is an example. Hundreds yowled that the stadium was built purposely with a short right-field fence so that the Babe could pile up a dubious home run record. Next they will be saying Lindy merely lost control of his plane and landed in Paris.

Tallulah Bankhead, convalescing from a series of operations at her hotel, is a bright spot in the after-theater ennui. Instead of Tony's or Eddie's, it is now: "Let's pop in on Tallulah." And amid silken pillows the fabulous lady languidly keeps them in stitches.

Nobody could be more uncomfortable at formal dinners. It's my luck usually to be seated next to someone with a chip on the shoulder. My conversations at best are gimpy and a struggle. Last evening, to break a long and ghastly silence, I turned to a dowager on my right with this carefully couched brilliancy: "We have been having rather nice weather." And right away she started to argue!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

What's Going to Happen to the Home?

And now that we've recognized Soviet Russia—what next?

Are we going to copy some of the Russian customs as well as accept Russian orders and imports?

For instance—there are these new Russian homes. How much do you know about them? Yes, of course—one hears terrible tales. But actually the Russians have done some interesting things to homes.

Homes in Russia—as homes everywhere—have been on a tough spot these last years. Space shrinking. Big Business taking over one domestic job after another. Wives leaving the homes to follow the jobs. Children leaving the homes to roam the streets, go to the gymnasiums, take in movies.

HOW CAN YOU KEEP UP THE OLD-FASHIONED HOME IN THE FACE OF CHANGES LIKE THAT? THE ANSWER IS—YOU CAN'T!

We've been facing that answer here in America, just as the Russians have. But the Russians aren't satisfied with just facing things, and sobbing or swearing over them. They're an intense and practical people. If the Old Fashioned Home had gone for good, then there must be a New Fashioned Home, so they reasoned. Meaning what?

The Russians didn't know exactly what a New Fashioned Home might mean. But they went right ahead and made experiments. And a lot of goshawful mistakes. Now, out of those experiments and mistakes, they're forming a rough pattern of a Modern Home.

What's it like? Well, in the first place it's like—reality. It isn't like what a sentimental picture of a home ought to be. It's like what a modern home has to be in modern Russia under modern conditions.

It's a very small home—only a few rooms, with just so much space legally allotted to each person. That's because there's very little room for family life in Russia today. It's also because family life in Russia today isn't spent in rooms or in homes. It's spent outside the home—in factories, fields, theaters, gymnasiums, tennis courts, drill and football grounds.

This is partly because domestic jobs have been taken out of the home and the mothers have followed them.

IT'S ALSO PARTLY BECAUSE RUSSIANS DON'T BELIEVE THAT IT'S GOOD FOR FAMILIES TO LIVE TOO CLOSELY, WITHIN FOUR WALLS. THEY THINK THAT HUSBANDS AND WIVES, PARENTS AND CHILDREN, BECOME BETTER CITIZENS OF THE WORLD IF THEY ARE OUT CIRCULATING IN THE WORLD INSTEAD OF CLUSTERING AROUND THE FAMILY TABLE.

And so Russian family life in the cities goes on outside the home—and the home has become just a casual camp in which to dress, sleep, grab a casual snack or have an occasional chat.

But how about the regular meals? And who takes care of the baby?

The Russians have an answer for that. Community restaurants, run by experts, take care of the meals. Community nurseries, also run by experts, take care of the babies.

This scheme, the Russians say, takes care of more than just babies and food—

IT TAKES CARE OF FEMININE LONELINESS, RESTLESSNESS AND DISCONTENT. FOR THE RUSSIANS ASTONISHINGLY BELIEVE THAT MOST WOMEN DO NOT LIKE TO STAY "COOPED UP AT HOME," BUT WOULD MUCH RATHER WORK TOGETHER IN SQUADS!

They believe that women, themselves, never voted that "woman's sphere is in the home"—but that men put them there to suit masculine convenience. And now, since women have as much voice as men in ruling modern Russia, women are being given their choice of Staying Put or Getting Out. And they're getting out!

So there's our huge, new neighbor with a home dwarfed to a camp and the whole family living on the loose and, seemingly, having a swell time of it. So what?

ARE WE GOING TO COME TO THAT?

We're f[illegible]g the same conditions. Will we make the same answer?

Will we presently have community kitchens, community nurseries, community play grounds?

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE IT, MRS. JONES, IF WE DID?

Suppose you could decide the pattern for the modern American home—a pattern that would answer modern American problems and serve modern American needs—WHAT WOULD YOUR PATTERN BE?

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Hearts and Holidays

A man usually has to stop and think just how old he'll be, his next birthday. But a woman is more consistent; when she reaches an age she likes, she sticks TO it.

This is the anxious moment, when a woman begins planning to exchange the sweet "surprise" she knows her husband will give her for Christmas for something she really wants—and a man begins wondering how he can manage to drop all the junk he'll receive into his neighbor's ashcan.

Looking for a husband is like Christmas shopping; every girl starts out with a perfectly clear idea of what she wants, but nearly always winds up by giving up the struggle and accepting something she never dreamed of.

One thing that no man can understand is that there really ARE women who would prefer to "sit at home and read a lively, entertaining book" rather than to go out and spend a whole evening with a dull man.

A man may forgive a woman for nagging him and even for double-crossing him—but never for being vivacious and "cute" while he's going through that last gesture of masculine distinction—the morning shave.

No one man can wreck a girl's life these days. He can only chip a little piece off her heart and smash a few of her illusions about herself; but while a romance lasts, she wants to be the whole show—not just one of the ensemble.

A modern girl hesitates to marry and relinquish her freedom merely to become "Somebody's Rib;" yet she has a worse horror of staying single for fear she may reach 40 and still be "Nobody's Darling."

Love, like a Christmas offering, is a GIFT, not a debt—and the woman to whom a man gives the most devotion is the one who never reminds him that he "owes it to her."

Human Side of the News

British Control of India Is Believed to Be More Secure—The Formosa Head-Hunters

By Edwin C. Hill

NEWS has been so clamorous in the western world that little, recently, has been heard about the great struggle which has been going on in India between the British, on the one hand, and the Nationalists led by Mahatma Gandhi, on the other. But strong intimations have appeared in the European press that the British control of vast India is, perhaps, more secure today than it has been for years past.

There is always an inside story to these enormous and complicated political struggles. And the inside story of the struggle in India is that the rulers of the native states—the princes—do not really want the British to leave. Their ever-present fear, as Col. E. Alexander Powell remarks in his book, "The Last Home of Mystery," is that Britain may desert them; that a constitutional form of government may be forced upon them, and that they may wake up some morning to find the Nationalists in power, their rulership swept away.

Native India, as distinct from British India, is not under British rule, although it is under British control or protection. There are some 600 states, great and small, in native India, each ruled over by an hereditary prince. These territories or states range in size from the vast domain of the Nizam of Hyderabad, with a population greater than New York state and an area as large as Italy's, to petty principalities not much bigger than a western ranch.

Princes Live In Great Splendor

IN that land of contrasts and contradictions, there is nothing more interesting than the personality of the men who rule these native states. The splendor in which many of the princes live is almost unbelievable. The Maharajah of Patiala has his private race course, his polo field, kennels containing 400 dogs of various breeds, huge stables of elephants and horses, and more than 300 motor cars in his garage.

The young Maharajah of Gwalior lives in a marble palace which could contain a dozen White Houses, and wears around his boyish neck a string of pearls valued at $2,000,000.

When they arrive in London or Paris, these gorgeous creatures, they are accompanied by huge entourages of ministers, secretaries, servants and womenfolk. They take whole floors in fashionable hotels. They are lavish spenders in the expensive shops of Bond street and the Rue de la Paix.

The Maharajah of Kapurthala, whose collection of emeralds is the finest in the world, spends the Paris season in a house in the Bois de Boulogne, one of the few private residences actually within those leafy precincts. The Aga Khan, head of all the Mohammedans of India, keeps half a dozen racing stables in France alone, a shooting box in Scotland, a palace in London, an apartment in Paris and a chateau on the Riviera.

Rebellion Feared In Formosa

THE Japanese fear a rising of the head-hunters on the Island of Formosa. The killing of a policeman was the spark of revolt. The Japanese are taking precautions, for they know what they're up against—just about the same thing that the settlers in our West had to dread when the Sioux, the Cheyennes and the crafty Apaches went on the war path.

Formosa, a sizable island in the Pacific off the coast of China, was taken over by the Japanese as part of the spoils of war after they had defeated China in the war of 1895. At that time on Formosa there were 300,000 of the original inhabitants, the aborigines, one of the strangest peoples in the world. Now there are only 80,000. Reduced in population as they are, they remain a difficult and dangerous problem for Japanese administrators.

The Formosan tribesman is a wild hombre when he works himself up to fighting fury. He requires desperate treatment. But the missionaries protested vigorously when the Mikado's satraps employed high tension electric power wires as instruments of destruction. The explorer, Capt. von Hoffmann, spent eight months recently in the interior of Formosa. He lived constantly among these worshippers of the sun and moon. He found them a hospitable folk and striking specimens of humanity.

They are pretty much the direct opposite of another famous group of head-hunters, the little Jivaros of the jungles of Brazil and Ecuador. The little Jivaros go in for head-hunting as a business rather than a sport. Business combined with revenge. The heads they take in jungle warfare have a definite commercial value, but if they choose to dispense with the profit and hang up the curiously shrunken trophies—human heads reduced to the size of an orange and yet perfect in every feature—they can do so for the satisfaction of family pride.

The Jivaro believes that he will be thoroughly out of luck unless he applies the law of a head for a head to some enemy who has removed a relative from the world. Moreover, the five-year-old Jivaro boy is taken aside by his father every morning for five years. Into his small head is drummed the wrongs that enemies have inflicted on his family, and he is told the price that must be paid in heads to satisfy those wrongs. By the time he is 10 or 12 he is burning with zeal to trek down an enemy and sting him with a poison arrow or a deadly dart.

On the other hand, the big Formosan head-hunter plays the game for the sport of the thing. He's a broad-shouldered six-footer, and often quite good-looking as well as powerfully built. Oddly enough, good looks among Formosans are confined to the men. The women are curiously uncomely.

The Formosan has a knowledge of some crafts and a touch of Chinese culture. The Japanese loaths these people and would exterminate them. They are probably doomed, and what we are witnessing now, far off across the Yellow Sea, is the steady extinction of a very ancient and interesting race. It is not often in the sweep of centuries that we can look on from afar and behold the passing of a distinct race of mankind.

Roosevelt Seeks Short Session for Congress

By James T. Williams, Jr.

IF THE Roosevelt administration has its way, the next session of Congress, which will not convene until January 3, will be a short one.

A tentative legislative program now in the making can be carried out, it is believed, in time for Congress to adjourn between the middle of March and the middle of April.

This program begins with legislative proposals made necessary by the repeal of the Prohibition Amendment to the Federal Constitution. Under the terms of the Repeal amendment, the chief control of the liquor traffic will be restored to the several states. The Federal Government, however, will retain the responsibility of protecting those states which prohibit the sale of liquor from the bootlegging activities of neighboring states where its sale will hereafter be permitted.

Following the enactment of legislation to repeal the Volstead Act and to protect prohibition states from their anti-prohibition neighbors, Congress will address its attention to the annual appropriation bills for the support of the government in the effort to get these out of the way as promptly as possible and avert the necessity for a long session.

Other items on the legislative agenda which the Roosevelt administration will press for consideration are a series of amendments to the National Recovery Act, which its operation during the recess of Congress has shown to be desirable.

May Extend C. C. C. For Another Year

ADMINISTRATIVE amendments will also be offered to other parts of the national recovery program enacted at the last session. These will include a measure to extend the Civilian Conservation Corps for another year. The tremendous success achieved by this corps, both as a relief and as a conservation agency, appears to have deeply impressed the public mind in all parts of the country.

Some changes in the agricultural adjustment act to increase the effectiveness of its operation will also be requested.

Congress will again be urged to pass a bill introduced at the last session by Chairman Sumners, of the House Judiciary Committee extending debt relief to municipalities which are in serious financial strait. Municipal indebtedness in this country now amounts to $18,500,000,000, of which more than $1,000,000,000 is already in default.

This question of municipal indebtedness will be dealt with in a special message to Congress if it is not the major feature of the President's annual message at the beginning of the session.

How long the federal government can continue to go to the relief of state and local governments which persist in their refusal to modernize their governmental structure is a vital question to which the Roosevelt administration is giving serious study.

The time was when an obsolete system of government in the several states was almost exclusively a state liability. It will soon become a federal liability if the people of those states unable to get relief from their state officials are compelled to look to the federal government for assistance.

Renewal Will Not Be Recommended

BY DIRECTION of the President, Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator, is now putting the states on notice that the $500,000,000 placed at the federal government's disposal for state relief will be exhausted by next March. Administrator Hopkins is further notifying the responsible authorities in the several states that the renewal of this form of relief will not be recommended to Congress by the President.

This means that the reorganization of state and local governments is an immediate and an imperative necessity. Only by simplifying their governmental structures can the states raise the money to provide future relief for their own citizens, keep their schools open and do the necessary work that is the function of the state in normal times and not the function of the federal government.

The argument of the Roosevelt administration for a short session is that the great amount of legislation at the last session makes it desirable that more time should be allowed for "administration to catch up with legislation."
